

Wildcats Open Season Against Morningside College Here Friday

Large Crowd Expected At First Battle

Wayne State To Make Bid For Championship

The Wayne State Teachers college Wildcats will launch their football season on the college gridiron here Friday evening when they clash with the Morningside college eleven. Opening kickoff is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

With the prospects bright for a strong Wildcat team this year and unusual interest being shown in advance of the initial game, a large crowd is expected. Wayne business men are co-operating by purchasing hundreds of tickets of admission for the opening fray which are being distributed to friends throughout Wayne's trade area.

More than 1500 tickets have been purchased for the opening game, which indicates a record crowd. The Morningside band and about 250 students will accompany the visiting team.

Morningside defeated the Wildcats in the last game of the season last year and the local team is determined to even the count this year. Little advance dope on Morningside is available since this will be the opening game of the season for the visitors as well as the Wildcats. However, it is known that the visitors will outweigh the local eleven.

Coach Morrison indicated Monday that he may schedule another home game for November 17 with Buena Vista but definite arrangements have not been completed.

11 Veterans Back

Eleven veterans have returned this year along with some excellent new material, so that Coach Morrison is anticipating a good season. While the Wayne team will be considerably improved, word from some of the other colleges with which games have been scheduled indicates they will also have strong elevens in the field.

The Wildcats battled their way to a tie for conference championship last year so that little hopes are already being exercised and will receive their first test Friday night. Two night and two afternoon games are scheduled to be played in Wayne with an equal number of games to be played away from home.

May Use Many

Coach Morrison had not selected his opening lineup Monday but it was expected that most of the veterans of last year together with many new candidates would see action during the game.

While several members of the squad are on the injured list at present, it is anticipated that most of them will be ready for action Friday night. Stories of many injured players are also being circulated from Morningside but it is likely the visitors will make the usual speedy recovery when the game gets underway.

The eleven lettermen returning are: Backfield, Quillen Fox of Randolph, Robert Garvin of Hartington, Fred Murray of Omaha, Charles Wehrer of Norfolk, and Warren; linemen, Virgil Lindahl of Tilden, Allan Mitchell of Rogers, Fay Webb of Madison, Virgil Smith of Allen, Theodore Farmer of Stuart, and Bernard Splichal of Correctionville, Ia. Promising reserves from last year are Kenneth Spann of Bussett, Albert Killion of Wakefield and Lyle Mullens of Cedar Rapids.

Apartments Are Ready

man, was hanging fixtures Saturday and Monday in the apartments. Radiators for the apartments were distributed Saturday and were to be in place Monday night.

In response to an inquiry from the Omaha office, PWA, Resident Architect Noecker advised that arrangements were being made to provide panic locks on the outside doors to provide easy exit in case of a fire. In this respect the plans provided all exterior doors to open to the outside and were previously approved by PWA and the office of the state fire marshal.

To Use Rooms

Superintendent Thorpe plans to make temporary use of one basement room, the library and probably part of his offices for classrooms until the new building is ready for occupancy. This will enable the classes to get their year's work underway without further delay.

No indication of enrollment is available but it is believed likely that there will be no marked increase this year resulting from the improvement program due partially to the delay in opening the term. However, next year and in the future the improved facilities available here are likely to be reflected in the enrollment figures since the school will be equipped to provide better educational training.

INSURANCE FIGURES ATTEST POPULARITY

ONE out of every two persons in the United States buys insurance, Maxine Davis, prominent writer, declares in an article entitled: "Money for Future Delivery" in the October issue of Cosmopolitan. "There are more than 80,000,000 policy-holders and they carry $110,000,000,000 worth of insurance—seventy per cent of all the insurance written in the whole world," Miss Davis writes, citing many examples of the benefit of insurance.

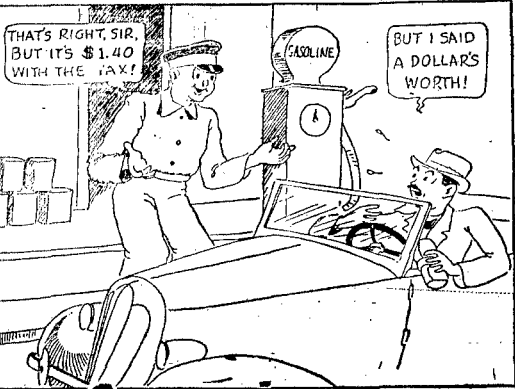

The majority of policy-holders are men and women of moderate incomes, Miss Davis reveals. Eleven per cent of them earn less than $1,000 per year. Fifty per cent earn more than $1,000 but less than $2,000. Thirty per cent earn more than $2,000 but less than $3,500. Seven per cent make between $3,500 and $5,000 and only 2 per cent make more than $5,000.

"When you buy an insurance policy, you are buying money for future delivery," Miss Davis says. "Conditions vary from person to person and from company to company. One company offers at least 150 kinds of policies, but in all policies the central idea is the same. The policy is a contract between you and the company by which you meet certain provisions specified in the policy, and at some time in the future the company agrees to pay you certain specified sums of money."

"The insurance salesman is the only person who can give specific advice to you on insurance problems, so it is important to give him a complete picture of your financial situation. He can show you how to make a policy fit your need," Miss Davis adds. "Buy your insurance for savings and protection."

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Anderson went to Kenney Monday to attend a meeting of the State Board of Education. Dr. Walter Ben-thack also attended.

The Rhoades Family . . . by Squier

$1 OF GASOLINE COSTS $1.40!—When the Rhoades family buys $1 worth of gasoline, an additional 40¢ must be paid to the tax collector. Gasoline taxes the country over average more than a nickel per gallon. Motorists pay an average of more than $30 a year in gasoline taxes alone.

DINNER IN HALF AN HOUR

By Katharine Fisher

Director, Good Housekeeping Institute

If you are one of those busy or business housekeepers who find it necessary to be away from home until late afternoon, we know exactly what your meal-planning problem is. It's our problem, too. For when we get home after business hours, it's usually pretty close to dinnertime. So it has become a habit with us to plan dinners that we can prepare in a short time. But it does mean planning our meals and our marketing, and sometimes it requires some preparation beforehand. In doing this we depend very much on our refrigerator and make it work closely with the range. It's not a comfortable feeling to be rushed in getting dinner, and that's what we try to avoid by planning menus like this one:

KATHARINE FISHER Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

- Tomato Juice
- Deviled Hamburgers
- Breaded Pineapple Slices
- String Beans
- Bread
- Maple Mousse
- Coffee

The Deviled Hamburgers were made up the night before and stored in the refrigerator. The pineapple slices will line up alongside the meat under the pre-cooked broiler. The string beans are of the packaged, quick-frozen kind, for quick-frozen vegetables, meats, fish and fruits are bounties when time cannot be bought, at any price. They are so deliciously fresh and may be stored in the chilling unit of your refrigerator until time to use. They should, of course, be kept frozen until ready to cook. Canned string beans can also be used, but be sure to cook them the Institute way. Drain the liquor from the vegetable and boil it in a saucepan or skillet until two-thirds of the liquor has evaporated. Then add the string beans, heat thoroughly, add seasonings, and serve.

The dessert can be made in the refrigerator the night before. The cold control of the refrigerator is turned to the coldest setting until the cream mixture is frozen, then the control is turned back to a warmer setting which keeps the cream frozen and yet does not make unusual demands on the refrigerator.

DEVILED HAMBURGERS

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

- 1 1/2 lb. chuck steak, ground
- 1/2 c. chili sauce
- 2 tsp. prepared mustard
- 2 tsp. bottled horseradish
- 2 tsp. minced onion
- 2 tsp. Worcestershire-type sauce
- 1 1/2 tsp. salt

Combine all the ingredients. Shape into 10 cakes about 2" in diameter. Brown in hot fat in a skillet for 4 min. on each side or broil in a broiler over preheated for 10 min., for 4 min. on each side. Serves 6. To serve 2 or 3 make half this recipe. For open sandwiches make half this recipe. Toast 6 slices of bread on one side. Spread the untoasted side of each slice with hamburger mixture, and broil 8 minutes. Serves 6.

Marvin Thomas went to Columbus Monday where he will spend a few days visiting his parents before leaving for the west coast.

Miss Ruby Surber left for Los Angeles Monday morning where she will visit relatives and friends.

Father Minzer of St. Helena's Parish near Hartington passed away Saturday evening after a prolonged illness.

ANOTHER HOMELESS YOUNGSTER COMES TO CHILDREN'S HOME

Homeless, unwanted,—needing most a mother's love,—this little chap arrives at the Nebraska Children's Home Society's receiving home in Omaha with Carl O. Ike field solicitor for the Society.

He is but one of 20 boys and girls and babies that came to the Nebraska Children's Home Society during the past month. But one of the 250 or 300 to be cared for during 1939.

The Society is a state-wide private agency for the care and placement of normal children, at the service of every community as well as the rural areas. Since it is supported by voluntary donations, one of its great needs is for funds. Another great need is good homes for youngsters such as this one. Mail your gift or inquiry to Randall C. Biart, executive Director, Nebraska Children's Home Society, Omaha, Nebraska.

Mr. Ike will be in Wayne this week for the annual solicitation of donations. Members of the local board are Miss Ethel Huff and Mr. Herman Lundberg.

WSTC Will Hold Big Pep Rally Thursday

The old fighting spirit of Wayne State Teachers college will be displayed at a big pep rally Thursday night to be held at 7:15 on Main street. Students will join in a snake dance starting at the college. They will end up down town where Dr. Anderson, Coach Morrison and a few of the football boys will give short talks.

Wayne State plays Morning-side Friday evening.

Father W. K. Kearns went to Jackson Monday to attend a conference of priests. He assisted at a double wedding in Newcastle after the meeting.

Wayne Prep May Join Six Man Grid League

Arthur Gulliver and Coach M. C. Bloss of the training school went to Coleridge Monday night to meet with coaches and other men interested in football for the purpose of organizing a six man football league. Representatives from Wausa, Coleridge, New Castle, Dakota City and Wayne Prep were present.

Coach Bloss reports that nineteen boys from the training school have turned out for football and that prospects are good for a fast team.

The first game of the season will be played here September 29 with Dakota City. All interested in the relatively new six-man football are cordially invited.

The schedule for this fall follows: September 29, Dakota City, here; October 13, Wausa, there; October 20, Bancroft, here; October 25, Coleridge, here; November 3, New Castle, there.

Wildcats You Will Read About

This column will introduce you to new Wayne State Wildcats whom you will read about and see in action during the coming school year.

Warren "Bud" Best, Stanton, Neb., is one of the freshman trying out for one of the half-back spots. "Bud" was the mainstay of the Stanton High school squad in '35, '36 and '37, both in football and basketball. Best is fast, shifty and has lots of drive and although he might not be a starter, he will see plenty of action this year.

Richard "Dick" Childs, Norfolk, three letter winner in football and basketball at Norfolk High school, is another of the backs due to see plenty of action. "Dick" is small but carries plenty of power and is an accurate passer. In basketball Childs is one of the best guards Norfolk has had in recent years. He was named guard on the All-State second team last year. His defensive play was outstanding, along with clever ball handling.

Cub Scouts To Meet

The training school den of Cub Scouts will meet at the K. N. Parke home Thursday night. Meeting time and place of the city school scouters will be announced at a later date.

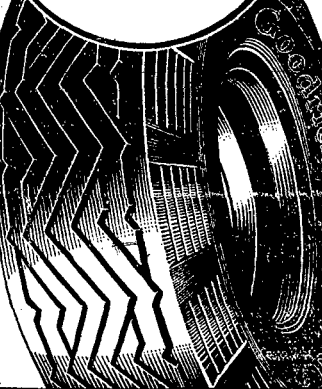

E. M. Feldman spent the weekend visiting his sister, Mrs. M. H. Wunerlich and family at Lincoln.

Democratic Women's Day—celebrations were held Saturday evening in nearly every county of forty-one states to raise nickels, dimes and dollars for women's political work.

The high spot of the celebration was a message broadcast by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt over all networks to the rallies throughout the country.

The President's wife was the "idea woman" for the event. She suggested a nation-wide money raising day for democratic women in her daily column some time ago.

"We have always waited for financial help from the men. We probably cannot finance ourselves entirely in the beginning, but I should like to have a money raising day such as the men have to enable us to get into the political field on a 50-50 basis, which extends even to finance."

Mrs. McAllister explained that each state was assigned a quota to be sent to national headquarters for the work of the Women's Division. Ten per cent of the amount received will go to the Woman's National Democratic club.

More On War

"If we enter fighting for democracy abroad, we may end by losing it at home", warned Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh in an address broadcast over the three major networks Friday night.

These are words of wisdom with which few will quarrel today. In fact, there is such unanimity of opinion on the subject that repetition of these repeated warnings and pleas seems unnecessary at first thought.

President Roosevelt has stated repeatedly and demonstrated by his actions that he is exercising every possible safeguard to prevent this nation becoming involved in the great conflict abroad.

Republican leaders realize that the President has the united support of the country in the manner in which he has handled foreign affairs in these critical times.

Summer, which proved to be an unwelcome guest by lingering in these parts too long, seems finally about ready to take her long awaited departure.

Back To School

This week will mark the return of Wayne City school pupils to classes and all of Wayne's educational plants will be functioning again.

The City school teachers will be handicapped for a few weeks, while the addition to the new building is being finished, but its completion will enable them to make more progress in the future.

The weather of recent weeks considered, the delay forced by the construction project has been a real gift for the pupils. In fact, many schools which convened previously found it desirable to dismiss classes during the torrid weather.

Among the hundreds who are entering school this week or have been attending classes for the past week at Wayne Prep are many who are entering for the first time, those children who have attained the age of 5 and are beginning the long process of obtaining an education.

American youths have through free public school education an advantage denied children in many other lands but one which they seldom appreciate, until years after they have received their diplomas.

Much could be written about the educational advantages which America offers, a gift of democracy which has in turn helped preserve and make efficient and workable its contributor.

Safety

With the reopening of school, motorists should observe increased caution in driving. This applies both while they are driving in towns and on country roads, which are travelled now by school busses and children on their way to and from rural schools.

Football Season Opens

Next Friday the Wayne State Wildcats will go into action, meeting Morningside college at 8 o'clock in the evening in the opening game of the football schedule. Coach Jim Morrison and football fans are making every effort to attract a large crowd to this initial game, confident that once the local team is seen in action, the crowds will return.

Coach Morrison produced a team last year which was worthy of far more support than it received. With many veterans returning and some excellent new material, the Wildcats have a good chance this year to annex a championship.

The co-operation and support given the team in advance of its opening is a good indication. Let's keep it going.

The Nation's Leading Letter by J. E. Jones, Washington, D. C.

Can The United States Be Neutral

Washington, D. C.—This second World War finds the United States more definitely sympathetic with France and England than we were with those countries a few months before we joined their war in 1917.

A few weeks ago congress and the President were in disagreement over the question of what would insure a system of "Neutrality". Everybody wanted a plan of neutrality that would be air-tight in the great object to "keep us out of war".

It is just as impossible, in Washington, as anywhere else, to predict, or perhaps even to guess, what's going to happen, next. The air is full of "reassurances". Bombing planes are ready — in the United States, as elsewhere.

The same peaceful thousands of miles of the Atlantic ocean that once helped to protect this hemisphere from "entangling alliances" are still separating the United States from war-distraught Europe.

Nations that go to war must necessarily withdraw their manpower from factories and fields, and buy food and industrial supplies from neutral countries.

At the Lima conference last winter the Chilean delegation proposed that "in no case shall foreigners have different or more extended rights than nationals".

"We'll Look Stupid 50 Years Hence" "It is said that in the Golden Age of Ancient Greece it took more than two slaves to supply the drudgery and necessary work to keep one freeman, and it was not until machinery made slavery uneconomic that the slaves were freed.

That's the way matters stand in the capital of the United States, this nice day in September, 1939.

The western hemisphere acknowledges the United States as the leader. These Republics to the South are usually good neighbors. Argentina is just as careful of its integrity and fairness as is the United States.

For various reasons Chile, Peru, Brazil and other Republics, have every reason to deal with the United States on a basis of equality as their conduct is usually proper and neighborly.

Our relationship with Latin America has never been better than today. But all is not serene since immediately below the Rio Grande this solidarity is threatened by problems raised by Mexico and duplicated to a large part in Bolivia.

And this situation is of paramount importance to us. David Lawrence writes for his national syndicate about a possible British blockade on the export of oil from Mexico to Germany and Italy.

"I have lost a great deal of patience with the people who go around with tears in their eyes, weeping and wailing about there being no opportunities for the young fellow today.

As Raymond Moley observed in his magazine "Newsweek", "Mexico can no longer hope for important commercial relations with Germany now that Germany has turned to the East and, under war conditions, would be effectively cut off from the Western World". He adds: "It is hard to see how the more radical element in Mexico can maintain their supremacy in the face of the Russian-German alliance.

At the hearings before the famous Dies committee, Earl Browder who periodically runs for president, and draws a salary from the Communists, admitted his attachments with Stalin of Russia.

Daniel Webster is reported to have observed that President Monroe's personal opinions could hardly be regarded as rare objects in doctrines since the Bible itself was a whole "book of doctrines".

But Monroe appears to have expressed ably some fears about the possibility of an European nation seizing territory on the American continent, and so he issued a historic notice to the world to keep off our grass.

These are all reasonable things to expect by anyone familiar with the automobile industry, that has raised the percentage of employment sixteen per cent between the boom year 1929 and the lean year 1937.

The President's proclamations on American neutrality, and embargoes on shipments of arms, have been very skillfully executed.

It is to tell this story and to guide young people who might take up scientific work that the Engineering Society of Detroit Christmas Lectures were started during the 1938 Yule holidays, with co-operation of the Detroit schools.

It seems rather fitting that another leading scientist of his day should have inaugurated the Detroit series of lectures. This was Charles F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors in charge of research.

The President's proclamations on American neutrality, and embargoes on shipments of arms, have been very skillfully executed. The state department has issued rules covering ship travel.

Mr. Roosevelt stated very definitely several weeks ago that he would reconvene congress in special session if a war should break out in Europe.

The familiar pre-war complaint is being heard that speculators are profiteering on foodstuffs and that the costs of living are going up. We recall reading of there is no answer except that you haven't any projects.

Making Life Worth While A few weeks ago a committee of the United States Senate was examining groups of witnesses in order to determine what changes might be made that would make the Wagner Act more workable.

This industry started at scratch within the lifetime of most people now living in America, and it was not until twenty-five years ago that Federal aid in highway construction entered into the extension of road building.

Well, now that several million people are "again getting rich (?) out of daily booms in the stock market the public may soon be able to pay higher prices for products of the farms.

Your Social Security

Part II. In a Series of Questions and Answers on New Amendments to the Social Security Act.

Old-Age and Survivors' Insurance

Question: In general, what are the effects of the amendments to the old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act?

Answer: They expand the system for the payment of retirement benefits to individual workers into an insurance system for the protection of both the worker and his family. They provide for the earlier payment of benefits; for the payment of more liberal benefits to those now nearing the retirement age — 65; for extension of supplementary benefits to wives and dependent children; and for monthly benefits to survivors. They also hold the tax rate where it is until 1943.

Question: When does the payment of monthly benefits under the old-age insurance plan begin?

Answer: Benefits are payable beginning January 1, 1940. The original act provided for the beginning of these payments in 1942.

Question: To whom will monthly benefits be paid?

Answer: The amendments have broadened the plan to take into consideration the security of the family unit. In addition to the benefits paid the retired worker, the law now provides monthly supplementary benefits for his wife, if she is 65, and for his dependent children under 18. It also provides monthly survivors' benefits for aged widows, dependent children, widows with such children in their care, and for dependent parents of workers who die.

Question: Are there any estimates of the number of persons who will receive benefits under the new old-age and survivors' insurance provisions during 1940?

Answer: There is an estimate—but this is only an estimate—that approximately 912,000 persons may be on the benefit rolls by the end of 1940. This assumes that there will be approximately 485,000 primary old-age beneficiaries—that is, persons 65 or older—who are fully insured in their own right; 125,000 wives and 20,000 widows over 65 years old; 78,000 young widows dependent children; 194,000 dependent children; and 10,000 dependent parents.

Question: How many workers are now covered by the old age and survivors' insurance provisions of the Act?

Answer: The Bureau of Old-Age Insurance has established accounts for more than 45 million individuals.

Question: About how many persons, previously exempt, have been brought under the old-age insurance program by the amendments?

Answer: Approximately 1,100,000.

Question: What are the principal types of employees brought under the program by the amendments?

Answer: The principal new inclusions are employees of national banks, employees of building and loan associations, employees of State banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System, employees in maritime service on American vessels, and workers over the age of 65.

Question: What are the estimated additional costs of the amended insurance program for 1940?

Answer: It has been estimated that the additional costs will amount to approximately $68,000,000. This is in addition to the $46,000,000 which, it is estimated, would have been spent under the lump-sum provisions of the original Act. Thus, under the amended Act, the total amount estimated to be paid in benefits in 1940 comes to some $114,000,000.

Question: Are the nearly 28,000,000 workers now covered by State unemployment insurance laws also covered by this Federal old-age insurance program?

Answer: Almost all of them, although some are in employments excluded by the old-age insurance provisions of the Act.

Question: Why is there a discrepancy in the numbers covered by the job insurance plan and those covered by the old-age and survivors' insurance plan?

Answer: The principal reason is that the latter is applicable to the employees of every employer of even one person, while Federal unemployment insurance provisions apply only to those employees of persons or business establishments employing eight or more (under some State laws this number is lower). Furthermore, in old-age insurance, coverage is continuing; once an account is established for a worker, it stands on the record until he retires or dies, whereas under unemployment insurance the worker goes in and out of the system, depending on his current employment.

Rev. Carl G. Bader returned home from Lincoln last night after spending a week there attending the Methodist conference. Prof. Griffin presided at the services Sunday morning.

Wayne County Extension Agent

Tips On Sorghum Harvesting

Due to the phenomenal increase in grain sorghum acreage this year in all sections of Nebraska, farmers in Wayne county are studying more than ever before how they can most economically harvest this crop.

County Agricultural Agent Walters passes on a few practical suggestions along this line, which he received from D. L. Gross, extension agronomist at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture.

Gross points out that since different types of sorghums range from 18 to 20 inches to seven feet in height, methods suitable for harvesting one type of sorghum could not be used economically for another.

Those farmers who have grown the short stalked, lodge resistant, Day or Colby Milo, may harvest their crop very economically with the ordinary small grain combine harvester. Those who have grown the slightly taller, lodge susceptible Early Kalo, or Sooner Milo may use the ordinary grain binder. Those having the taller types will need to use the corn binder.

Many farmers, however, do not have this specialized equipment. For them, hand topping may be the most practical method. Early last November, Nebraska farmers witnessed probably the first sorghum hand topping contest ever conducted in the world. The results indicated that with a little practice, a good workman can harvest as much grain sorghum as corn by hand in a day's time. With corn, the farmer uses a husking peg or "hook" to remove the ears from the husks. When topping grain sorghums a sharp knife is used to sever the head from the stalk.

The amount of grain sorghum that can be harvested in a given time depends greatly on the condition of the crop. If the stand is thick and the heads are many and small, work will be slower than where the heads are large, yet reasonably close together. Those varieties which grow to a medium height are most easily harvested by hand. Hand topping the extremely short or extremely tall types would tend to tire the workman more quickly.

After the sorghum heads are removed from the stalks either by hand or with mechanical headers they may, in most instances, need to be dried before they can be stored or threshed. This can be accomplished by piling the heads in long, narrow ricks on well drained land. In some instances they can be placed in narrow, well ventilated cribs, giving special attention to air circulation through the floor and through the center of the cribs.

Those who did not have the opportunity to see the topping contest held last year will be especially interested in attending first to be held this year on contest, to be held this year on the G. H. Finney farm in York county on October 3. As in the annual corn husking contest, the contestants will be composed of county champions who won their laurels in local contests conducted earlier.

Making Poultry Pay

Twin features of the poultry field day program at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture September 28 will include tips on how to make poultry pay more, and a discussion of new experimental work now under way at the college poultry farm.

Some of the experiments now in progress which will be viewed or discussed include the "turkeying off" or field feeding of grain sorghums; results of feeding such a meal as compared to alfalfa; turkey growth rate experiments comparing Bourbon reds to broad-breasted bronze turkeys; and testing of a low-cost broiler ration.

Early reports on these tests indicate some very interesting results may be available. For example, the "turkeying off" method proves to be a very practical way of harvesting and feeding grain sorghums at the same time. And so far, the sudan meal has been giving an excellent performance in poultry rations, according to word from Prof. F. E. Mussehl, chairman of the poultry department at the Nebraska college of agriculture.

Rotation of the growing range to control sanitation and disease; and a new roosting shed with a novel type of roof and method of waterproofing will be other features of interest in the tour along with the completed bitudobe house which was under construction at the time of last year's poultry field day.

With eggs now at the lowest in price since the war, accurate feeding and management practices are particularly important just now.

to the poultry industry, which contributes over 30 million dollars to Nebraska farm income. Improvement of egg quality and marketing technique are other possible sources of increased profits.

All these points will be stressed by speakers of state and national prominence such as H. G. F. Hamann, U. S. Department of Agriculture marketing authority at Chicago; Dr. L. E. Card of the University of Illinois; Clay Wescott of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation; C. E. Gaydon, hatcheryman at Blair; D. E. McGregor, Gibbon; and J. H. Claybaugh, J. R. Redditt and H. E. Adler of the Nebraska college of agriculture.

Dean W. W. Burr will discuss the broader topic of agricultural planning; and Rev. E. A. Smith, Arcadia, will contribute some inspirational remarks on "Job Attitudes". Mrs. C. W. Wiperman of Lincoln has prepared a report of particular interest to poultrymen on her observations at the World Poultry Congress last summer.

Irrigate Trees And Gardens

Many farmers in Nebraska are taking advantage of the possibilities for irrigating gardens. R. O. Pierce, assistant extension engineer at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture, reports that an irrigated garden near Comstock this year produced fresh vegetables for the family all summer, and they were able to can all they could possibly use for the coming winter months.

By the use of water, this family was also able to replant such vegetables as radishes, onions, peas, beans and lettuce and to have them throughout the entire summer instead of just the early part of the season. They produced such vegetables as eggplant, large red peppers, and strawberries of high quality, selling them to the stores in town as another farm product.

Buffalo, blue grama, and blue grass lawns, made possible by additional water, show quite a contrast to the previous barren and weedy yard.

Dressing Percentages High Dressing percentages of 4-H baby beeves at the Nebraska State Fair this year bore out the judge's placing of the animals, County Agent Walters reports. The carcass of the grand champion steer, a Hereford exhibited by Gilbert Bolz of Stanton county, dressed out at 85.1 per cent. The reserve champion, and Angus shown by Alvie Lovitt of Sherman county, was close behind at 84.95 per cent. And the champion Shorthorn, entered by J. Owen McCord of Cumming county, figured at 84.5.

The average dressing percentages for the 4-H club steers handled by different packers ranged from 60.9 to 62.6 per cent; while the 4-H heifers averaged from 60.8 to 63.3 per cent — all exceptionally good figures. All packers informed L. I. Frisbie, state 4-H club leader at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture, that they were well satisfied with the results.

October 1 has been officially designated as 4-H "baby beef Sunday" throughout Nebraska. This 4-H baby beef will be featured at meat counters throughout the state last Friday and Saturday in September.

Sioux City Show And Sale Mr. C. H. Robinson, who is manager of the Sioux City Baby Beef show, attended the Wayne County fair and tagged calves for that show. Mr. Robinson tagged 23 calves.

This show will afford Wayne county club members an opportunity to show their calves in competition with other Nebraska counties and calves from Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota.

The auction sale will be held Thursday afternoon, September 21, starting at one o'clock. Mr. Don Cunningham, who is well known in Wayne county, will be the auctioneer. Mr. Cunningham is now secretary of the Sioux City Livestock Exchange.

See The Test Plots The sorghum variety test plot on Albert Watson's farm, three miles north of town will "talk" for itself. Stop and inspect it. The grain sorghums will probably yield at least four times as much as the corn which has grown under exactly the same growing conditions.

Tests have proven that ground corn fodder produced 86 per cent as many pounds of grain per acre as a similar acre of corn when put in a silo.

An acre of ground Atlas fodder produced 60 per cent as much gain as the same amount produced when put in the silo.

Mixing molasses with corn and sorghum silage is not necessary.

In fact, as high as 10 per cent of the food value of the molasses may be lost when put in the silo.

Sorghums should be allowed to mature grain before being put in the silo. If sorghums are caught by frost, they should be cut as soon as possible.

Sorghums to be used for fodder should be cut in the "lough" stage.

Spillage in silos will be decreased if the ensilage is thoroughly packed and moistened to exclude the air.

Extension Circular No. 768 gives a complete discussion of "Harvesting, Storing and Feeding ensilage". The circular is available at the local county extension office. If it isn't convenient for you to come in to the office, send us a card and we will mail you the circular.
