

You should have been in Wayne Saturday night.

You probably were if you live within a hundred miles of this city and may still look forward to the casting of your first ballot.

Baseball, which annually takes possession of the sport pages at this time of the year, is attracting wide interest here among the boys as the local Legion post is organizing a league of boys teams.

Music filled the air last weekend as the annual district music contest lived up to the most optimistic advance predictions and Wayne was host to nearly 3,000 happy, talented musicians of high school age.

Wayne proved to be a genial host to these boys and girls who were greeted with welcome signs throughout the business district and extended a cordial invitation to return to Wayne as students at the Wayne State Teachers college.

Just a few more years delay in the construction of the addition to the Wayne school and present pupils will be sending their children to the improved institution and paying off in small portions the debt resulting from erection of a structure originally intended for them but delayed repeatedly in its journey through the court.

The Wayne Players wrote dramatic history here when they presented their first play last week. Everywhere praise was showered on the actors and actresses who played their roles so convincingly and the director in charge.

Born amid an overcrowded field of advertising mediums, the Wayne News Advertiser made its initial appearance Friday morning when a total of 3,049 copies were distributed throughout Wayne and its large trade territory.

Plastering Crashes In High School

Repairs Will Await Extensive Remodeling Plan

What might have been a serious accident happened at the high school building Thursday afternoon when several square feet of plastering and plasterboard crashed from the ceiling to the floor.

The plastering and plasterboard fell in the hallway on the first floor of the building just outside the kindergarten room.

Since the school board is planning to go ahead with the extensive remodeling program, which has been delayed for months by litigation, repairs will be delayed until the project is launched.

Decision on the supreme court hearing of the case to block the construction program is still being awaited but bids for the general construction project have been asked to be submitted by Friday of this week.

However, it is hoped that construction work will get underway as soon as school closes for the year so the work may be completed during the summer months rather than interfere with classes next fall.

One of the features of the program is a new and well equipped kindergarten room.

CCC Camp Still Slated To Locate At Winside

Despite rumors that plans for the establishment of a Civilian Conservation Corps camp at Winside had been abandoned, it was reported from reliable sources Monday that the camp would be established there.

Leaders, favoring establishment of the camp in Wayne, believed that should the Winside location be abandoned, an agreement could be reached for a camp in Wayne.

Some opposition to locating the camp at Winside developed but sufficient support was found there to convince CCC officials that it would be welcomed and could carry out its soil conservation work with the necessary cooperation.

Local merchants are offering a Parade of Values in the Advertiser, which promises to make Wayne the leading market for an even larger trade area than it has served in the past.

Flowers Deserved

The Wayne Players in their initial production here proved that Wayne has an abundance of excellent dramatic talent. They have already justified their organization and should attract capacity audiences at future productions. We doubt that any person who attended was disappointed. The entire cast and its director did a splendid job and the Woman's club should be congratulated for sponsoring such an organization in Wayne. It is one of which any city could be justly proud.

War Ahead?

War predominates conversation today with only a few clinging to the hope that another great disaster may be averted. Another conflict appears near today, but some believe that until the leading powers actually clash on the battlefield, there is a chance that the memory of the horror of the great World war remains sufficiently vivid to prevent a similar tragedy. Certainly, they point out, the common people, who really make the sacrifices and fight the battles, are praying for peace. Despite the thorough work of the greatest propaganda machines the world has ever known, they will not march down another long trail of tears, they argue. But, if you recall some of the ridiculous stories which we all believed during the World war and the attitude of even Americans then, little hope may be placed in this.

War makes madmen of entire nations, probably necessarily to create the spirit necessary for such sacrifices.

Someday civilization will advance to the place where there will be no more wars and men will look back with pity and scorn on the foolish creatures who today inhabit the earth. But it has far to go before that day. Meanwhile the world can only pray for the best and prepare for the worst.

Music Contest

This year's music contest is again history, a most successful event which reflects great credit on those in charge of arrangements as well as the pupils participating and their instructors. Prof. K. N. Parke deserves a round of applause for the efficient manner in which it was handled.

Wayne is always happy to serve as host to these young musicians. The contests represent another contribution which the college makes annually to the city of Wayne, one which is deeply appreciated.

The School Project

What is expected to be the final hearing on the Wayne school bond case was held in the supreme court at Lincoln last Tuesday.

C. H. Hendricks, who as chairman of the Taxpayers' league filed an injunction in the bond suit and appealed after two district judges had ruled the issue legal, presented his arguments and F. S. Berry, attorney for the school board, represented it at the hearing. Now, the school board can only hope for an early decision which will settle the controversy and relieve it of a responsibility to both the school district and the children attending school.

Just why it should require more than a few days to reach a decision in such a case, regardless of the nature of the ruling, is difficult for the average person to understand. But the courts move slowly and much of the criticism to which they have been subjected on this score is justified. It is particularly important that an early decision be handed down in this case.

But, there are other angles to the case. In the first place, ample evidence has been given at the polls that the vast majority of residents realize the need for improvement of the school facilities here. They understand how instructors are handicapped at present by the crowded conditions and inadequate equipment. A trip through the present building would convince many others who oppose the project.

No taxpayer wants to see his tax bill increased unless there is ample evidence of the need. Taxes are high. But, few will deny that it would be false and costly economy to continue to operate under present handicaps. Wayne is a progressive city; its children and those in this vicinity who are receiving their education here, are entitled to as adequate facilities as are available in other towns of this size. The contention that some money has been wasted on unnecessary and costly projects in the past here has no connection with this particular program.

Regardless of the objectives behind the suit which has blocked work in the past and the honest opposition of many taxpayers, we fail to see how the many delays which have marked the court controversy can possibly be of benefit to the community, the school district or those who are attacking the bond issue. On the other hand they have been costly. The cost of continually battling through the courts is necessarily great. Win or lose these costs must be paid and they will be an added burden on the school district which ordinarily it would have been spared. It is difficult to see why the district should be forced to assume this extra burden. Perhaps, the few responsible for blocking construction in the fair name of economy will be glad to assume it, but perhaps is a long seven letter word.

Naturally school and board officials are anxious to get work underway as soon as school closes, the logical time to remodel a school building. Even now, it would be difficult for a contractor to complete the job before school opens next fall.

The school board has advanced under legal handicaps as far as would appear safe under the circumstances. They have called for bids on the assumption that the case will be definitely decided in the near future. They have braved the danger of what is likely to be severe criticism should their guess prove wrong. Regardless of what action the board took in the matter, it would naturally be supported by some, opposed by others.

Delay in this case will benefit neither side. It is to be hoped that a decision will be speeded and the case finally decided one way or the other without further costly battles or additional controversy.

What Editors Say---

Construction Increases

Employment is certain to pick up within the next few weeks and continue to increase for a considerable time. The record shows that construction awards for the week ended Tuesday amounted to $80,867,000, an increase over the preceding week of 40 per cent and over the corresponding week of last year of 2 per cent.

That means a lot of work of every kind. It means increased steel production and an expanded output of materials of every description. It indicates additional employment in all lines of transportation as well as for all classes of labor, both skilled and unskilled.

A boost in construction is beneficial to every line of business, for it puts money directly into circulation, requiring the employment of additional help in the stores and the shops. This in turn aids agriculture, for people employed at standard wages have more and spend more than those jobless or on relief.

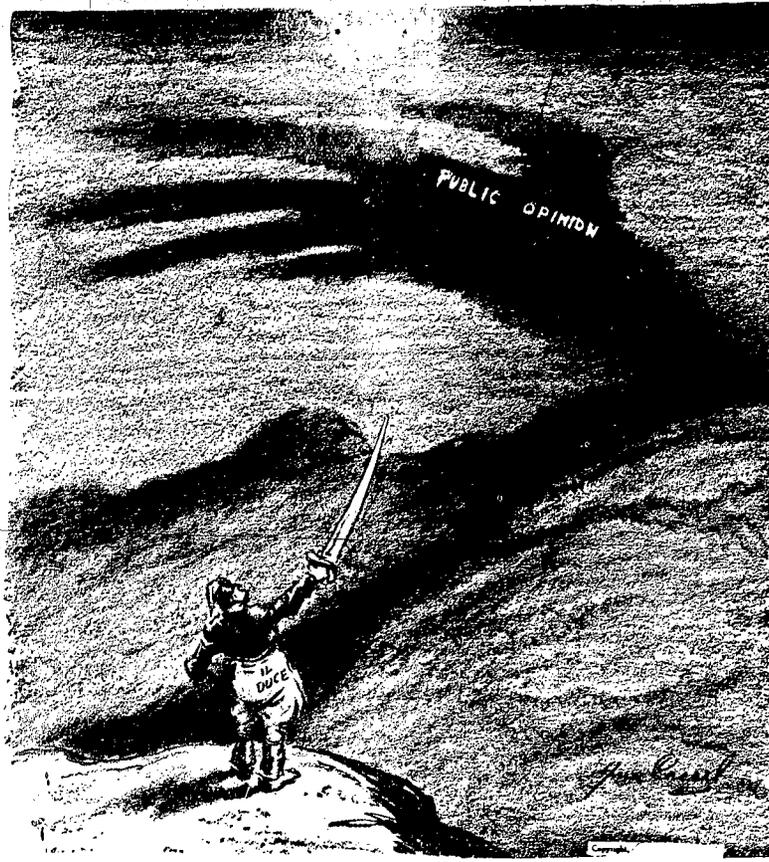

No more heartening news has been sent out in recent months than this story of the increase in construction, which extends to both private and public works. The outlook is highly encouraging.—Lincoln Star.

Senatorial Courtesy

That exchange which took place between Senator George Norris of Nebraska and Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, who recently visited the state to deliver the keynote address for the Founders' day gathering, must have shattered the traditions of senatorial courtesy. The discussion hinged upon an amendment to the relief bill, an amendment submitted by Senator Vandenberg, which Senator Norris opposed on the ground that it would make for undesirable haste in approving future appropriations.

Bridges cut in: "Does the senator mean that the relief program needs no more study?"

THE SWORD AGAINST THE STORM

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By John Craddock
New York, Apr. 24—BUSINESS

For many business men last week the stoppage of bituminous coal output in the Appalachian area was overshadowing in seriousness the war preparations of Europe. Railroad carloadings dropped 11.4 per cent from the preceding week largely because coal shipments declined from 104,725 cars to 46,451. West Virginia merchants, who are in the very heart of the eastern bituminous region, viewed with alarm the dwindling purchasing power of 330,000 coal miners. Industrial users of bituminous coal were facing higher fuel prices, dealers who still had coal for sale quoting it about 50 cents a ton higher. Interruption of regular supplies were especially inconvenient to smaller concerns that do not stock fuel, since a change in quality of coal used often affects operations adversely. The shutdown, which operators called a strike, miners a lockout, resulted from inability to agree on wage-hour terms of a new contract with the United Mine Workers.

WASHINGTON—A good start toward reduction of America's record cotton surplus was made last week in arrangement of barter deals between this country, Great Britain, Holland and Belgium. Exchange of as much as 5,000,000 bales of cotton for rubber and tin, two strategic raw materials produced in abundance by colonies of the European countries, was viewed in informal circles here as possible. This would be close to half the 11,000,000 bales the Commodity Credit

A new chemical for preservation of wood to enable the lumber industry to meet competition developing from other types of construction materials... A new slow acting poison for roaches that does not need to be scattered; it's left in the can with the end punched in so the pests may eat...

HEADLINES IN NEW YORK—Aircraft output in second quarter may set record... BRIGHT SPOT—Heavy sales of sporting goods and other recreational items are a bright spot in the current retail sales outlook. A recent survey among 1,700 business men in all but the lowest income bracket showed that golf is the favorite pastime of 13.9 per cent, heading the list of 15 leading hobbies. Other preferred sports are fishing, hunting, tennis and bowling. With golf and tennis-playing customers may be enticed by "first-hand" observation of their own form. Inspiration for this idea seems to have come from the increasing use of mirrors by college swimmers and oarsmen to improve their strokes. Pros say their pupils can "multiply" the benefits of instruction by frequent check-ups before mirrors in their own homes.

"No, I did not say anything of the kind", Norris replied. "However, the senator can study it from now until he is a hundred years old and he will not know anything about it."

"Let me tell you something", Bridges shouted. "I probably know as much about it as the senator from Nebraska."

"Of course he does", Norris shot back. "He knows more about it than anyone else. God cannot compare with the senator when it comes to information."

This impending duel, for which Bridges publicly has suggested he was itching, between the senator from New Hampshire and the senator from Nebraska, promises to be well worth the watching. If when it is finished there is very much left to senatorial courtesy, or to Senator Bridges for that matter, the pieces can be gathered on the point of a pin. ## Public Forum

Carroll, Neb.

Dear Editor of Wayne News. Noticed by the News you mentioned things you felt that Wayne needed and you seem to think that the farmers have a part in Wayne's welfare, which of course we know to be true. Then one need, I say is a place for tired farm women to rest on a Saturday evening after trading and having to wait for some member of the family. As it is now the stores are so crowded they do not even afford standing room.

Farm women are not wanting to be entertained, as some have suggested free movies, but would be satisfied if a place were provided where they could find a seat and mingle with other women whose trials, pleasures and work are in common with each other. By so doing it would enlarge one's circle of acquaintances and make for a better community spirit.

Let's hear from other farm women on this topic.

Mrs. John Gettman.

The following conditions must be enacted on or before May 1, 1939: (1) To be eligible to make application for payment, for a 1939 conservation payment they must have signed Form NCR-303, Section V, Farm Plan for Participation. (2) To be eligible to make application for payment for a Price Adjustment payment, Form NCR-303 is to be signed in section V, or a signed statement in section I, stating they wish to make application for a Price Adjustment payment. (3) In the case of a multiple landlord to be eligible for the above, a letter from him indicating that he wishes to have an inspection made of his farms in such county is necessary.

It is unlikely that all farmers know that a person will not be eligible to make application for a 1939 corn or wheat loan unless he becomes eligible to make application for a 1939 conservation payment with respect to either corn or wheat.

You community committeemen may have several neighbors who may want a corn or wheat loan this fall, and who have refused to sign the Farm Plan. We urge you to contact these neighbors and tell them that they will not be able to get such loan unless they have properly signed Form NCR-303 on or before May 1, 1939.

Art Must Meet Needs

Should Arise From Experiences Of Individuals

That emphasis needs to be placed on the correlation of art activity to the needs of the people of local areas was stressed at the Art Conference held last weekend at the State University of Iowa in Iowa City.

Conference speakers explained that art is not truly great unless it arises from the actual experiences of the individual. More practical and extensive training of art should be provided for public school teachers, and more opportunities should be placed before communities by schools and clubs in the way of stimulating general activity in eliminating ugliness and spreading art appreciation was decided as important by conference members.

The meeting was sponsored by the art, extension, and education departments of the university and held for students and teachers of high schools, colleges, and universities. Among the outstanding speakers were Millard Sheets, internationally known water color artist; Albert Christ-Janer, Stephens College; Ernest Watson, editor of Art Instruction magazine; and Dwight Kirsch, head of the art department at the University of Nebraska.

Those who attended from Wayne State Teachers college were: Miss Harriet Hazinski, art instructor; Mrs. J. W. Gillette and Miss Mary Gillette, both of Norfolk; Miss Marian Pape and Mrs. F. J. Pape, both of Sioux City, Ia., and Miss Jean Tinkrall, Battle Creek.

25 Departments
Among the 25 major departments upon which the conference will work in formulating the organization and program of the new church, one of the especially interesting is the Department of Lay Activities. At present laymen and ministers have equal delegations in every conference, annual and general, and each local church has a lay delegate and an alternate lay delegate, those for Wayne being Edward Seymour and Charles E. Gildersleeve, respectively. But the plan proposed for the new church gives much more detailed attention to laymen's activities, and provides for careful supervision and ample helps by the creation of a Board of Lay Activities. Under the General Board of Lay Activities, according to the proposed plan, will be a Board of Lay Activities in each of the six jurisdictions, and under these similar boards in every annual and district conference and in each local church. The purpose will be to "promote Christian stewardship, fellowship, evangelism, lay speaking, circulation of church papers, and other Christian literature, benevolence, adequate support of the ministry, sound church finance in the local church, church attendance, men's work, training official boards, work for boys and youth, Christianizing personal and community life" and so on.

Among the highlights of this first week of the Uniting Conference is Young People's Day, Saturday, at which 10,000 Methodist young people are expected for discussion of youth's part in the new church, under the leadership of outstanding national leaders of youth.

Trip To Buenos Aires Described

The interior is decorated in 24 karat gold. Mrs. Davis was quite impressed with the splendor of the building.

She remained in Buenos Aires 16 days and viewed many plazas, parks, and buildings. She explained that the shops on Florida street, where the exclusive business firms are located, close in the afternoon from noon to 3 o'clock for the siesta. At that time, people are allowed to walk in the street, and traffic is prohibited.

Largest Theater in the world, The Collin, is located here. However, it was closed for the summer while Mrs. Davis was in Buenos Aires. She attended an opera at the Collin's summer house at the edge of the city.

Mrs. Davis reports that money values are much cheaper in the South American countries. For a dollar, in American money, she received an amount in pesos equal to $4.29. The Spanish money is used in Argentine while the Portuguese milres is used in Brazil.

On her return home, Mrs. Davis stopped at the Mar Del Plata, a resort city which has the largest casino in the world. As many as eight thousand people play roulette at the same time. Mrs. Davis, most of all, enjoyed a ride in a basket cart driven by a boy.

Other places of interest were Tigrá, a city built on the canal. Sante Senta race track, and Soa Paula, a city in the mountains. She toured a snake farm where rattlesnakes are kept for laboratory purposes.

Mrs. Davis had an exciting experience at Victoria, Brazil, when she was stopped and questioned by some boys and police for carrying a camera. She was taken to the police station, but luckily an American consular saw the arrest, and accompanied her to the station. The police took her camera and censored the film; but later returned it to the ship.

Seniors To Present Play

The senior class of Wayne Prep will present a three-act play, "Universal Alibi", at the school's auditorium Friday evening.

The plot concerns a distinguished doctor of science who has a beautiful but impractical wife and three modern children. The wife gets the family into debt, but several friends offer their advice in solving the financial problems. Consequently, new complications arise to make matters worse. The family daughter and two of her friends conceive of a daring plot, but are interrupted in their scheme by a Spanish maid who arrives on the scene.

The cast includes Beryl Nelson, Carol Anderson, Mary Sharer, Frances Denesia, John Palmquist, Nelda Mae Bressler, Carroll Orr, Wendell Groskurth, Anne Ahern, Glen Guse, Herbert Welch, and Joe Kirwan.

One of the biggest events of the senior year in Wayne High School will be presentation of the senior class play. The play chosen this year is a trifle different in nature from ones produced in the past. There is a bit more of the pathos, the supernatural in this play. Yet it is not without the seemingly "essential bit of comedy."

This sensational piece is based on a love tragedy occurring fifty years back. On the night of her wedding, a beautiful young bride-to-be is shot and killed by a rejected suitor who intends to kill the man she is to marry.

She vows that she will come back in spirit to undo the wrong. And when, as time passes, a boy and girl of the families, out of the present generation, fall in love and are separated by their elders, her spirit returns to aid them in their romance.

Between laughs and tears this beautiful fantastic tale of a great romance winds its way onward and upward to a gripping climax.

Jeanne Bader and Harold Johnson have the roles of the two young lovers whose love is saved by moonlight, played by Betty Hawkins, Uncle John is Ray Larson, who does his best to thwart it because of his hate for Jeremiah Wayne, the man who killed moonlight, and the father of Kenneth, who is played by Harold Johnson. Kenneth Petersen is J. Wayne and Jeanne Bader is Kathleen, Uncle John's niece.

This fantastic comedy-drama will be presented at the City Auditorium on May 11. It has all of the quaint whimsical Irish sentiment without sentimentality. As a stage attraction it is outstanding among the few that have lived over the years.

Wayne Prep Seniors To Stage 'Universal Alibi'

The senior class of Wayne Prep will present a three-act play, "Universal Alibi", at the school's auditorium Friday evening.

The plot concerns a distinguished doctor of science who has a beautiful but impractical wife and three modern children. The wife gets the family into debt, but several friends offer their advice in solving the financial problems. Consequently, new complications arise to make matters worse. The family daughter and two of her friends conceive of a daring plot, but are interrupted in their scheme by a Spanish maid who arrives on the scene.

The cast includes Beryl Nelson, Carol Anderson, Mary Sharer, Frances Denesia, John Palmquist, Nelda Mae Bressler, Carroll Orr, Wendell Groskurth, Anne Ahern, Glen Guse, Herbert Welch, and Joe Kirwan.

One of the biggest events of the senior year in Wayne High School will be presentation of the senior class play. The play chosen this year is a trifle different in nature from ones produced in the past. There is a bit more of the pathos, the supernatural in this play. Yet it is not without the seemingly "essential bit of comedy."

This sensational piece is based on a love tragedy occurring fifty years back. On the night of her wedding, a beautiful young bride-to-be is shot and killed by a rejected suitor who intends to kill the man she is to marry.

She vows that she will come back in spirit to undo the wrong. And when, as time passes, a boy and girl of the families, out of the present generation, fall in love and are separated by their elders, her spirit returns to aid them in their romance.

Between laughs and tears this beautiful fantastic tale of a great romance winds its way onward and upward to a gripping climax.

Jeanne Bader and Harold Johnson have the roles of the two young lovers whose love is saved by moonlight, played by Betty Hawkins, Uncle John is Ray Larson, who does his best to thwart it because of his hate for Jeremiah Wayne, the man who killed moonlight, and the father of Kenneth, who is played by Harold Johnson. Kenneth Petersen is J. Wayne and Jeanne Bader is Kathleen, Uncle John's niece.

This fantastic comedy-drama will be presented at the City Auditorium on May 11. It has all of the quaint whimsical Irish sentiment without sentimentality. As a stage attraction it is outstanding among the few that have lived over the years.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its busy and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feet constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to get rid of excess poisonous body waste. They are antiseptic to the urinary tract and tend to relieve irritation and the pain it causes. Many grateful people recommend Doan's. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Ask your neighbor!

Economic Highlights And Trends

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Gold, as anyone will agree, is a pleasant commodity to have. But economists have been wondering for some time if it isn't possible to have too much of it—so much, indeed, that there is a danger of it becoming economically valueless.

The case in point is the U. S. government. Five years ago we had a little more than 195,000,000 ounces of monetary gold. Today we have over double that amount—431,200,000 ounces. And the yellow metal is still coming into this country from abroad at an accelerating rate rather than a diminishing rate. Hardly a week goes by without a gold shipment.

If this gold were melted down into a single ingot, it wouldn't be an imposing a spectacle as you might imagine. It would make a bar measuring 62 by 20 by 20 feet. But that bar would have the incredible value—at our artificially established gold price of $35 per ounce—of over $15,000,000,000.

More important than the mere money value of our gold is the fact that it represents pretty close to 60 per cent of all the monetary gold in the World. Almost equally important, as the U. S. News points out, is the fact that the remaining forty-odd per cent is extremely badly divided. England and France have the bulk of it. A number of small powers have some. And three of the great powers, Germany, Italy and Japan, have practically none—not more than 4 per cent of the total.

Gold is flowing into this country for a variety of reasons. One is that under our law the treasury must accept every ounce offered and pay $35 for it in our currency, whether it can be used or not (and today, our gold reserve is almost infinitely greater than our requirements, figuring on the most conservative basis). Another, increasingly potent reason is that European capital is frightened over the possibility of war, and wants to get its money as far away from the scene of pending hostilities as possible. The outlook then, is for our gold imports to continue to soar. Even today, it is coming in at the rate of $100,000,000 a week—and if that rate were to be continued, in three years, we would have every ounce of monetary gold in the world.

And that's what has the economists puzzled. It is obviously possible, especially in the case of war, that we may find ourselves with practically a complete corner on gold. No other country would have enough to be worth mentioning. And, in that event, they would have to tie their monetary systems to some other standard of value. Already that is being done in the fascist countries with their infinitesimal gold reserves. Germany, for example, has virtually announced to the world that it can and will get along without gold. And by the use of the barter system, "blockade marks", etc., it has gotten along so far. Whether it can keep going in the future without further imperiling its more or less tottery economic structure is a matter for conjecture.

It is hardly a matter for conjecture, however, that if all the other powers, finding themselves without gold, got together and decided to revise their monies and trade to fit some other standard, it could eventually be done. And then we would find ourselves with about $25,000,000,000 worth of gold which was useful for ornament, and for almost nothing else. But that, of course, is not an imminent possibility—France and England, which still are the great financial powers of Europe, have shown no inclination to throw gold overboard. And the fact that gold has been the symbol of sound value and security to the human race for tens of centuries would likewise make its abolition as the primary instrument of international trade and the mainstay of currencies, extremely difficult.

Some talk is going the rounds about the possibility that this government might use its huge gold reserve to bring inflation. It certainly could be done. But, judging by the cautious, "non-experimental" attitude of the present congress, there's small danger of any significant inflation occurring soon.

The stock market has been going down in the face of little change in business. One reason is the fear of war—the day Italy invaded Albania shares took a tremendous drop, and the ticker couldn't keep up with sales. Another reason is the belief that European holders of American securities have been dumping them in quantities too large for the market to absorb in orderly fashion.

As for actual business, it doesn't give cause for any great optimism—neither does it give cause for the bleak pessimism now current in some quarters. Retail sales have been good. So have automobile sales. The expected seasonal outlook is not as bad as it seemed a while back.

You'll know more about it by the middle of May. If the forecasters are right, substantial progress should be in evidence then, and should continue to the end of the year.

A Historic Decision

The historic Supreme Court decision of March 27, which held, in the words of Justice Stone, that there is no constitutional immunity "from income taxation of officers or employees of the national or a state government or their instrumentalities", apparently removes all legal obstacles in the way of a reform that has long been advocated.

It has been generally believed that it would be unconstitutional for any branch of government to tax the workers of another, and it has been argued that an amendment to the constitution would be necessary to make that possible. This decision, in deciding that the federal government and the states would not hamper or burden each other by extending their taxing power to government workers, now makes that argument completely invalid.

The President of the United States, other high government officials, business leaders, newspapers, and a large number of economists have all pointed to the unfairness of tax freedom for government workers, in a great many cases these workers receive higher salaries than they would be paid for comparable work in private business. During recent years especially, thousands upon thousands of additional persons have been placed on the public payrolls, and a good proportion of them receive salaries ranging from $5,000 to $12,000 a year. Certainly there is no justice or reason in permitting these people to go tax free—while persons in private industry with incomes as low as $1,000 are taxed to maintain them.

There are about 3,800,000 persons now employed by government. A large number of them, of course, have salaries which fall below the exemptions allowed in the income tax laws. But many enjoy salaries above those limits and they should be taxed precisely as anyone else in the same income bracket is taxed. This will bring in substantial additional revenue to government—and at the same time it should have an excellent moral effect on the government officials and employees who control the spending.

The Railroad Omnibus Bill

The so-called Railroad Omnibus Bill (H. R. 4862) which was recently introduced in the House by Representative Clarence F. Lea, marks the first attempt in many years to adequately reform and equalize our transportation policy.

In general, the bill is designed to put into effect the recommendations of the President's Committee of Six, which has made an exhaustive report on the transportation problem. This report met with the almost unqualified support of railroad management and railroad labor. It was widely praised by completely unprejudiced economists and educators, and was generally given the full approval of the press. The Lea bill takes its recommendations, phrases them in legal form, and makes them part of a proposed law whose primary purpose is to place all commercial carriers on an equal footing in order that all may serve the public to the limit of their capabilities.

The bill lays down the principle that all forms of transportation shall be equal in the eyes of the law, and that none shall be favored and none penalized. It provides that all carriers shall charge reasonable rates, and that there shall be no unjust discrimination. It gives the Interstate Commerce Commission power to establish both minimum and maximum rates for all carriers under its jurisdiction. It replaces the present obsolete rate-making rule with a new, equitable rule, designed to fit the actual conditions and needs of the present time. Of vital importance, it provides for creation of a Transportation Board which is to review all proposals for water projects before they are submitted to congress, which is to study the subject of subsidies to various forms of transport, and which is to have authority over certificates of convenience and necessity, etc. It provides for fair tolls on inland waterways, and the discontinuance of that costly white elephant, the Federal Barge Lines.

In reading the Lea bill, one is impressed by the fact that every conceivable protection is given to the shipping and traveling public, and that all carriers shall be subjected to adequate, sweeping public regulation. There may be differences of opinion as to specific sections of this measure—but it certainly seems as if it marks a realistic approach to a vital problem, and that congress should give it immediate attention.
