Defendant Wins Estate Note Case

Langenberg Trial Is Only One Of Session

The defendant was awarded the verdict in the only case tried at the session of district court Friday, that of Henry Langenberg et al versus Ernest A. Langenberg et al.

The case in which a previous decision by County Judge J. M. Chery was upheld involved a note and a mortgage given originally to the late Louis Langenberg, father of Ernest. Suit was brought on behalf of the other heirs to the Louis Langenberg estate.

Land Released After considerable evidence was presented in the case, Judge Wenke ruled the deceased, Louis Langenberg gave to his son, Ernest, the note and mortgage, thereby intentionally releasing the land from the lien.

In the note case of the Empire Securities corporation versus H. W. Kugler and H. L. Harmer, the court found for the plaintiff. In the case of the General Exchange Insurance company versus Robert P. Hanson, motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and for a new trial were both taken under advisement.

Divorce Granted The court also granted the divorce of Lillian W. Jones from Theodore R. Jones and awarded custody of their child to the plaintiff.

Action was also taken on some minor matters. No other session of court is scheduled for the near future here.

289 Enroll In 4-H Clubs

Interest Grows In County; More To Organize Soon

Wayne county now has 28 4-H clubs with a total of 289 members functioning and some additional ones are expected to be organized soon...

While it is too late in the season to organize livestock clubs this year, several other types of clubs should prove popular. Particularly needed is a weed club, which would train the members to identify weeds and weed seed and grass and grass seeds.

Another club which should be formed in this county and which would be suitable for either boys and girls is a Rural Electrification club. There are several desirable prizes offered by commercial companies for which such rural electrification clubs may compete.

Girls may still organize cooking, sewing, girls room and canning clubs. At least five members over 10 years of age are required to form a club.

Boys And Girls Enjoy Recreational Activities Daily

Young Wayne - the boys and girls of this city - will have their own baseball and softball leagues soon with games scheduled daily except on Sundays.

It's all a part of the recreational program sponsored by the City of Wayne during the summer months and under the capable direction of Coach Frank Sullivan of Wayne High.

Two Sessions Daily The program which was launched last week has already attracted between 25 and 30 boys each morning to the Wayne Athletic field. At present, morning hours are from 9 o'clock until noon but when summer's heat strikes, they will be changed to from 8 to 11 o'clock.

The Junior Legion baseball team will be selected from among the boys reporting at the morning sessions and will represent this city in the Junior league this season.

For Girls, Too While the recreational program for girls is not underway, Coach Sullivan hopes to launch it soon and is planning a tennis tourney for girls and will organize some girls' softball teams.

Every child who reports is given an opportunity to play and enough teams will be formed so that all may participate. Soon the Alley Rats and the Gas House gang will be battling for baseball honors and parents need not worry about the many leisure hours which their Mary and Johnny find on their hands during the summer months.

The children seem to enjoy the supervised recreation and Coach Sullivan emphasized that he has experienced no trouble in getting them to co-operate and play together. He urges that other parents send their children to these recreational periods.

Baseball Day Plans Announced

Heavyweights Of Wayne To Mix With Emerson's Heavies

Plenty of entertainment is being arranged for the crowds expected at Wayne Baseball Day's game next Sunday at Athletic Park which will be climaxed with the Big Six clash between Wayne's nine, now in third place, and the Emerson team, which stands fourth in the race.

Fun Frolic Slated

Fun for everyone and sore muscles for the players are expected to result from a preliminary 3-inning diamond classic - a clash between the Heavyweights of Wayne and the Beef Trust of Emerson. Windy Thomas will do the hurling for the Wayne Heavyweights, which will include such baseball stars as Jack Meister, Bill Baker, Carroll Orr, Dr. R. R. Stuart, Oscar Holman and Martin Ringer. These heavy hitters will cast away their dignity along with several pounds and show Wayne's regulars how baseball shouldn't be played.

The 3-inning clash is scheduled to start promptly at 2 o'clock, an hour before the Big Six game gets underway. Other contests are being arranged and a straw hat goes to players who pound out home runs during the fray.

The two previous home games have been attended by only small crowds and so the athletic committee of the Chamber of Commerce is making a special effort to arouse more interest in baseball here.

Rained Out

Big Six league games, which were scheduled for last Sunday, were rained out for the first time this season.

United States Has Nearly Half Of World's Phones

The latest available comprehensive statistics of the world's telephone facilities have just been issued by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, in an eight-page booklet of tables and charts entitled "Telephone and Telegraph Statistics of the World, January 1, 1940." This compilation is based on information supplied by telephone administrations and companies throughout the world.

On January 1, 1940, out of a total of 42,642,252 telephones in the world, 20,830,950 were in service in the United States. The 21,811,302 telephones throughout the rest of the world were equivalent to only one telephone for every 100 people, whereas the United States has 16 telephones per 100 population.

Similarly, the wire used in the United States telephone service ac-mounted at the beginning of 1940 to nearly 4,000 feet for every man, woman and child in the country, as compared with less than 200 feet per capita in the rest of the world. On an average, each American used the telephone 231 times during 1939, whereas people outside this country averaged only some 15 calls per year. At the present time, approximately 100 million telephone calls are completed in the United States every full business day.

Everyone Will Pay

The popular belief that the few extremely wealthy citizens should and could shoulder the bulk of the tax burden in this country is finally being exploded as false. Some interesting statistics on the subject are included in Representative Karl Stefan's column found elsewhere in this edition of The News.

Rapidly skyrocketing expenditures for defense will necessitate the heaviest tax burden ever shouldered by the citizens of this country. Yet, even with appropriations towering to dizzy heights, taxes are not likely to reach the high marks of those in many other nations. Victory will be cheap at virtually any price if it does not include the lives of Americans and tax payments will likely be made as painless as possible through indirect levies.

Madame Perkins

Right or wrong, Madame Perkins is generally viewed as the weak link in the cabinet of the Roosevelt administration. She is so unpopular, in fact, that Senator Byrd's demand for her resignation will find a lot of support in all parts of the country. While cabinet members should not be selected or retained solely on the basis of their popularity, the belief that our Secretary of Labor does not measure up to the needs of the times is so widespread that it must affect adversely her usefulness to the nation. That being true, the President should request her retirement or she should realize that a capable successor in this emergency would serve this nation more efficiently and effectively.

Baseball

Baseball, the grand old American sport, may finally come into its own again in Wayne, if hopes of the athletic committee members, who are sponsoring the Wayne Baseball Day affair next Sunday, materialize.

Tales of great games, played here before huge crowds many years ago, indicate that the sport was a most popular one then. Last year, a move to revive interest in it met with only partial success despite the fact that Wayne won the championship in the Big Six league. This year, the first two home games of the season attracted fewer fans than there were players on the field. Windy weather could not have been entirely responsible.

While baseball is just a game and as such should not be forced down the throats of local residents if they do not care to attend, those sponsoring the Wayne Baseball Day affair point out that the local team is playing a brand of baseball that deserves more support and that other towns in the league, many of them smaller than Wayne, are supporting their teams. They believe that if fans will attend just one game they will return for others. For these reasons they have arranged the special program for next Sunday, a bargain bill including in addition to the game several contests and music by the Wayne Municipal band. They urge you to attend at least this game and believe you'll agree that you want to see the remaining ones on the schedule.

The County Fair

A county fair as such has only a limited appeal. The fact that Wayne's county fair last year was more successful from every standpoint than similar events of past years will doubtless swell the crowd attending the 1941 event and entertainment already booked indicates that those attending will go away with even greater praise for this year's event.

At the same time, virtually every county stages a fair during the fall of the year. Some are hardly worthy of being called a fair and others have won national recognition. Perhaps the Wayne county fair may with extensive advertising and through a program of constant improvement achieve such recognition in the future. However, that's a long hard and expensive route which we believe could be shortened greatly by making and advertising this year's edition of the fair as something more than a fair — a fair plus, if you please. We still favor the suggestion of combining the fair with a national defense show or pageant. However, if the government agencies in charge do not desire or are not prepared to participate in such an affair, some other special program which has popular appeal and educational value could doubtless be arranged in connection with the fair.

In short, county fairs may and have in many cases improved greatly in recent years but county fairs are no longer magic words to attract thousands from miles around. They still serve a most useful purpose but would lose nothing by adding to their usual attractions.

Gossip-Mongers

Speaking of gossip-mongers as we have from time to time, a solution to the problem — one which we wouldn't recommend even though advertising is a most essential portion of any newspaper — has been found in the wide-awake town of Hanover, Kansas, population 880. This ad, according to the American Mercury, appeared in the Herald there:

"Talk has been spread around that Mr. Durham has no job and that the family had to live with his wife's folks in order to eat; also shortly after our child was born the talk went around that we were not married when we claimed we were. For the special benefit of those who have nothing else to do but talk about others, and to prove that all rumors are false, we wish to state that Mr. Durham is employed at the Armour's Creamery Co., at Marysville, Kans., and that Marie has been living at the Martin Held home only because it is more convenient for all concerned. We also showed the Editor of this paper our marriage certificate. . . . Hereafter we sincerely hope people will be more cautious about what they say about others. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Durham (Adv.)"

A girl may wear a golf outfit when she can't play golf, and a swimming suit when she can't swim . . . but when she puts on a wedding gown she means business.—Redwood Gazette.

The Trib the other day ordered two gross of silk pin Aemrican flags from a prominent Chicago firm. Here was the answer: "We are extremely sorry we are unable to take care of your requirements. These flags ARE IMPORTED and therefore we cannot give you a definite date as to when new supplies will be forthcoming. . . . It certainly beats all when we have to import our flags, eh what?"—Detroit Lakes Tribune.

If and when we win this war let's forget about world democracy and western newspapers domination and confine our efforts to making ourselves "Canada, Mexico and Central America impregnable and self-sustaining"—Jackson Pilot.

Congress

As Seen by KARL STEFAN

Members of the house and senate who are opposed to the entry of United States in the new world war held a meeting the day before the President delivered his radio talk. They drafted a letter to him urging him to keep out of war. The first draft of the letter was destroyed because it contained a statement that a national poll on war was going to be taken. These members felt they couldn't conduct such a poll. It was too big a job. They believe 90 per cent of the American people are still against war. In their statements, they expressed fear that the Gallup poll is prejudiced and will soon show that the people favor war. It was to offset the Gallup poll that they hoped to get a national referendum of some kind. Because they couldn't, they drafted a letter minus that proposal and sent it to the President. The same group held another meeting the day after the President's speech and outlined methods of procedure in their determined fight to keep the United States out of the European conflict.

Thousands of people are visiting Arlington National Cemetery these days. The tomb of the Unknown Soldier was covered with wreaths of flowers during the week following a gigantic gathering of Catholic organizations who held mass in the great amphitheater. These organizations came from many states of the union. Following that the Memorial services at the soldiers tomb were equally impressive. Believe it or not, many Nebraskans lie sleeping in this beautiful cemetery. Names of service men over the name of our state can be found on many of the little white tomb stones which dot this sacred ground.

When the President signed the marketing quota bill for corn, wheat and other crops, it meant a green light for the conferees of the new agriculture appropriation bill. The conferees expect to finish that work in a short time. The senate put 100 amendments on the house bill. The conferees are now trying to iron out the differences. The plains forestry project item is in this bill. Members are hopeful that it will stay in.

In one instance about fifty democratic and republican congressmen sat together listening to the President's fireside chat. After it was over they agreed that the President under the unlimited emergency proclamation has as much if not more power than any other ruler in the world. They believed the Chief Executive was assuming some responsibilities that he could have passed on to congress. Some of those present who are close to the White House, said the President would not use all of the powers he now has unless future events make that necessary. The President does not have the power to declare war. That is the exclusive right of congress. A war resolution would not pass the house today. Future public opinion could change the present house sentiment. Most members believe the new proclamation means an end to strikes which delay work in national defense industry.

Central and South American of officials who usually undertake to pick and play with the winner in war and politics, were among the most earnest listeners to the President's speech. Some of these countries while sympathetic to the British cause are watching the progress of the war with more purpose than the people here. That is because they look at things from an economic point of view. The President minced no words about what he was going to do so far as helping Britain and the democracies is concerned and much of this was said for the ears of our neighbors to the south who know the game of international politics better than we do. There are some foreign service men here who say that some of our neighbors to the south recognize only one language — that is the language of the big stick and the language of the winner.

Some members are now reading carefully what is said to be a copy of the revised industrial mobilization plan. With the President's unlimited emergency proclamation; with the 1917 war emergency laws which have not been repealed; and with the legislation congress has passed giving the President new powers, it is believed the M-day program can be put into effect whenever the President deems it necessary.

Nebraskans who sat at the ringside when Baer tried to take the title from Joe Louis were convinced that Baer never had a chance. He was out-boxed throughout the fight. It will require a heavy hitter like Dempsey and one who has an equal amount of science to defeat the colored champ. Louis, it is conceded, couldn't take half the punishment he gave Baer.

The nation's capital is well guarded. There are 1437 regular police; 72 park police; 120 capitol hill police; about 100 uniformed White House police; about 20 Zoo Park police and an unnamed number of secret service men from the Treasury Department who guard the President and his family and certain important people; hundreds of FBI men and an unnamed number of private guards. Besides that, the entire Washington fire department is available for all emergencies.

Uncle Sam is spending at the rate of 20 billion dollars a year. If Uncle Sam took in taxes, every penny of the incomes of all people receiving $1,000,000 per year or over, the total amount thus taken would run the federal government just three days. If Uncle Sam took every penny of all incomes of $100,000 and over, the amount thus taken would run the federal government just over 20 days. If Uncle Sam took every penny of every person who received $10,000 or over per year, the amount would run the federal government just over 137 days. Eighty per cent of our national income is received by people that get $5,000 per year or less; therefore, the people in the lower brackets must bear the brunt of the tax burden. Contrary to general belief, the tax goose is not found in the upper brackets. To raise enough money by taxation, we must tax the money where it is found—in the middle and lower bracket groups. That is why hidden taxes play such a large part in our federal tax scheme. It prevents the lower-bracket fellow from realizing that he pays the heavy end of the tax bill. We must no longer delude ourselves. A large part of the tax burden can never be placed upon the so-called rich. Most of it will always be paid by the middle and lower bracket groups, by sweat and toil of the working man.

Workers are receiving price increases. This means greatly increased purchasing power. The defense program is forcing production curtailment of things that the workers and farmers buy; and priority orders are preventing industries not engaged in defense program from getting raw materials needed for the operation of their factories. Greatly increased purchasing power coupled with a greatly reduced supply of consumer goods adds up to runaway prices that will upset our economy. John Maynard Keynes, a British economist, an advisor of President Roosevelt, and the father of the New Deal spending program, is here to urge that we adopt the "British Forced Savings Plan" as the answer to our price inflation problem. The Forced Savings Plan provides that employers hold back a percentage of all wages each pay day and turn it over to the Federal Government where it will be credited to the individual worker—to be paid back to him by the government some time after the war. Keynes claims the plan would finance the total cost of the defense program, control prices, and head off a post war slump. The Federal Savings Plan is really another tax program to raise money needed now.

It happened one night—

Late at night, a fire in a private garage burned a section of telephone cable putting many telephone lines out of service. In a short time, a telephone repairman was busily at work splicing cable by lamplight so that service would be restored as soon as possible.

Nowadays, telephone service is more nearly trouble-free than ever before—and when trouble does happen, we often are able to make repairs before telephone users are aware of it.

tend Sunday's battle; the program in connection with the affair alone should be worth the price of admission and after you see the team in action, they believe you'll get at least a touch of the baseball fever.

This is national Dairy Month and anyone who thinks dairying is small potatoes in this King Corn country, should give a little eye to these statistics recently released. Do you know that in 1939, 620,000 dairy cows in the state produced 2,728,000,000 pounds of milk? Do you realize that the gross farm income from dairy products in 1939 was $28,033,000, ranking next to livestock as the greatest single source of income for Nebraska farmers? During the month, Nebraska dairy producers are joining hands with manufacturers, distributors and retailers of dairy products throughout the nation to help maintain this important industry. There is no reason why this section of Nebraska should not become a more important dairying region and many excellent reasons why it should. Anyway this month, drink a toast with milk to the dairy industry. It will be good for you and the industry.

GRASSHOPPER BAIT

Wayne county farmers who need grasshopper bait may obtain a supply by calling at John Kay's elevator in Wayne.

Only a limited amount was mixed as a heavy demand is not expected. However, if any group desires to obtain a large amount, they need only notify the county extension office and arrangements to fill their orders will be made.

Farmers calling for the bait should bring their own sacks.

WEED ERADICATION

Several requests for chlorate to carry out the weed eradication program adopted by the recently organized Wayne County Noxious Weed district have been received at the county extension office. However, use of the chlorate is usually more effective in August than at this season of the year.

Directors of the district, who were elected at the organization meeting last week, will hold another meeting in the near future to make additional plans for the eradication campaign.

W. L. Klatt, state weed supervisor, is expected to attend the meeting and help guide the officials in getting the program well underway here.

Ed Caauwe and Bill Riggert, both directors of the Wayne county district, attended the state bi-weekly meeting held at York Wednesday and Thursday and will report on the sessions at the next meeting of the directors. It is likely that the meeting will be held this week.

Huge baskets of psonies, palms and ferns decorated the church, with candles at the altar.

The bride wore a white lace dress with net insertions fashioned along princess lines, net insertions running from just below the waistline down through the length of the two yard train. The dress had a sweetheart neckline. The finger tip veil formed a point at the top, adorned with seed pearls and orange blossoms. The bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas and wore a string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Harold Leimer of Wichita was matron of honor. She wore a blue chiffon dress with square neckline, shirred shoulders, full bodice, high waistline, gathered belt. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and delphiniums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Pauline Mayer of Wayne, and Mrs. Alf Timm of Wheaton, Minn., wore pink net dresses with sweetheart neckline, full bodice, high fitted waistline and very full gathered skirt. They wore white gardenia corsages. The bridesmaids and matron of honor wore double strings of pearls, gifts of the bride.

Kermit Florine of Wayne was best man and Elmer VonSeggern of Wisner and Ed Meese of Wayne were ushers. The men all wore dark suits.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Robert Nelson sang, "I Love You Truly", and after the ceremony, "With Perfect Love." She was accompanied at the organ by Harold Leimer of Wichita, who also played through the ceremony.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home. Vivian Felt of Wakefield and Lucille Erickson of Craig poured, assisted by Mrs. Glenville Meyer and Mrs. Marvin Meyer of Pender. A three tiered wedding cake decorated the table. A music box, concealed in the cake, played Lohengrin's wedding march when the first slice of cake was cut.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Minnesota, after the reception. They plan to return June 15 to Wayne where they will live at 302 East Seventh street.

FISHER'S GARAGE

Phone 110 — BUS FISHER — Wayne

Just give it Air —
and it'll give you Action

MAYBE you didn't know that an efficient gas mixture for your car has about 9,000 parts of air by volume for every one part of gasoline.

That being so, you can see how important air-handling capacity is to your power plant.

Take this stunning Buick FIREBALL straight-eight, with Compound Carburetor stepping up its horsepower.

Ordinarily, this engine purrs along sweetly with only one of its two carburetors functioning.

But step down on the gas treadle and what happens?

A second carburetor opens up. Doubles the air-handling capacity. Steps up power, lift, life, action. You go swooshing off like a scared boy with a bee behind him.

Would feeding more gas accomplish the same result?

After a fashion, yes—but why be spendthrift? Why feed your engine gasoline when what it wants is air?

Why not enjoy power as you want it and when you want it—plus gas economy that runs as high as 10% to 15% over last year's Buicks?

For that matter—why get less room, less style, less comfort, less value than Buick offers at such little prices?

See your nearest Buick dealer now—and at least get the delivered figures.
