City Church 60 Years Old

Congregation Of St. Paul To Observe Anniversary, Oct. 5

The sixtieth anniversary of the St. Paul Lutheran church will be observed Sunday, Oct. 5, with special services throughout the day.
 Rev. J. H. Fetterolf of Mt. Carroll, Ill., Rev. W. C. Heidenreich of Oshkosh, both former pastors, and Dr. J. C. Hershey of Fremont, president of the Synod of Nebraska, are among the outstanding speakers for this occasion, according to Rev. G. Gieschen, pastor here since 1940.
 Morning and evening services will be held at the church and an informal dinner and program of reminiscences will be held at the auditorium during the afternoon.
 The Wayne church traces its beginning back to 1881, when the county seat was located at LaPorte before the town of Wayne had been started. Rev. G. H. Schnur of Ponca preached the first Lutheran sermon in Wayne county at LaPorte April 5, 1880. On September 25 of the following year, the St. Paul congregation was organized in the courthouse at LaPorte. None of the charter members are now in the congregation but several families have been members for the past forty years. Many early day members are expected to return for the anniversary.
 Soon after the organization meeting a temporary chapel was erected in Wayne, which was also used for a time as a town school. The present church was dedicated December 4, 1884, and has been enlarged and improved several times since that date as the congregation has increased steadily.
 It now has a baptized membership of 591 and a confirmed membership of 423.

Fire Prevention Week Proclaimed By President

In a proclamation designating the period October 5 to 11, inclusive, as Fire Prevention Week, President Roosevelt urges public authorities, civic bodies, educators, the press, and the radio to emphasize the danger attendant upon fires in the present national emergency, and recommends to all our citizens their active cooperation in the elimination of fire hazards and their prompt action in every situation threatening loss of life and property by fire.

Never before in our history has it been so important that the people of the United States give their attention to organized fire prevention efforts. Fire Prevention Week affords an opportunity for all to make a valuable contribution towards the nation's defense. Chambers of commerce and trade associations are urged to cooperate and assume the leadership in fire prevention activities.

Fire losses in the United States during the past twenty-five years amounted to approximately $10,000,000,000, an annual average of nearly $400,000,000. In addition to the heavy property losses, the estimated loss of life in the United States from fire is 10,000 persons annually.

125 Attend; Costume Pageant Is Presented

A tea in honor of the grandmothers was given Thursday afternoon at St. Paul's church by the women of the congregation. About 125 attended. A costume pageant was presented under the direction of Mrs. G. Gieschen and Mrs. J. Albert Johnson.

Costumes, Songs
 Costumes of former days were modeled by the following:
 Mrs. John Kay as a modern grandmother. Song 'Grandma' sung by Ethel Jean Olson.
 Mrs. Mathilda Harms as a grandmother of long ago. Song: 'Little Old Lady Passing By' sung by Beryl Nelson.
 Janet Johnson and David Gieschen representing scenes from childhood, in colonial costume. Song: 'The Wedding of Jack and Jill' sung by Ethel Jean Olson.
 Lorraine Meyer as a school-girl. Song: 'School Days' sung by Beryl Nelson and Ethel Jean Olson.
 Norma Powers and Eunice Gieschen as high-school girls. Songs: 'The Old Oaken Bucket' and 'Billy Boy' sung by Mrs. Robert Nelson.
 Betty Ann Zepin and Marjorie Gildersleeve as college girls. Song: 'Nebraska' by Beryl Nelson and Ethel Jean Olson.
 Mrs. Julia Haas, Mrs. Ed Hall, and Miss Georgina Eckstrom as brides. Song: 'Because' sung by Beryl Nelson.
 Mrs. Clarence Granquist and infant son representing the mother with her child. Song: 'Cradle Song' sung by Mrs. Robert Nelson.
 Mrs. Anna Spahr as a middle-aged matron. Song: 'Silver Threads among the Gold' sung by Mrs. R. C. Hahlbeck.
 Mrs. Gereon Allvin as an old lady with a red shawl. Song: 'The Old Red Shawl-My Mother Wore' sung by Mrs. Robert Nelson.
 The pageant closed with the singing of 'God be with you till we meet again', sung by the entire group and audience.
 Mrs. Harvey Mitchell was the youngest grandmother present, and Mrs. Alvina Korff was the grandmother with the greatest number of grandchildren. Both were presented with a gift.
 An interesting exhibit of antiques was displayed, including a dress 100 years old, books, jewelry, dishes, a music box, garments of various kinds, stones from the Black Hills and other places, and a collection of mortars.
 The tea followed the program. Mrs. Julia Lage and Mrs. John Kay poured.

Religious Groups Meet

College Units Reorganize For This Year

The Lutheran executive committee consisting of three members of the student Lutheran club in the Wayne college and of two local pastors met last night to make plans for the club's activities during the year ahead.
 Miss Ruth L. Pearson of the Training school faculty is the sponsor of the club. The members of the executive committee are the president Miss Mildred Ringler, Wayne; the secretary, Miss Ruth Lundberg, Wayne; the corresponding secretary, Boyd Backhaus, Wausa; also Rev. W. F. Most and Rev. G. Gieschen, Lutheran pastors in Wayne. The local Lutheran club is a member of the National Student Lutheran association of America.

Three religious organizations met at the college last Wednesday evening: the YWCA, the YMCA, and the Newman club.

At the joint meeting of the YWCA and the YMCA, Robert Hansen of Emerson sang a solo and Dr. H. D. Griffin of the college faculty showed some pictures of Estes Park, Colo.

The Newman club, a national organization for Catholic students, at its first meeting of the new year had about 60 members present. A social program arranged by Joe Smolski, Wayne, was given. Richard Hesse, Hartington, is president of the local Newman club. Mrs. Marguerite Emery, an assistant in the registrar's office, is the sponsor.

William Ross, formerly of Meyer and Ross Electric company here, is now employed as an electrician at the Bomber plant in Omaha. Mrs. Ross and children will remain in Wayne.
 Mrs. Martin Aegerter and daughter, Mary Alice, of Des Moines, spent last week with C. A. Berry.

Hagels Return From California Trip

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hagel arrived home Saturday noon from a three-weeks trip to Long Beach, where they visited Mrs. Hagel's brother, E. W. Yarger, and family and her father, Charles Yarger.
 While at Long Beach the Hagels made side trips to Tia Juana, Mexico, Catalina Island and the famous mission at Capistrano. They also visited another brother, F. E. Yarger, and his family in Cheyenne and their daughter, Mrs. Leonard Nechvatal, and family in Schuyler.
 Dick Ellis and Eldo Weseloh, who travelled out with them stayed in California, Dick in Barstow and Eldo with sisters in Los Angeles. The boys expect to find employment.
 Harley McFarland of Norfolk, another passenger, plans to work in an aircraft plant in San Francisco.
 Pleasant travelling companions both ways, fine weather and the absence of car trouble combined to make the trip most enjoyable, according to Mrs. Hagel.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Theobald left Sunday for the west coast, planning to travel through Montana, Idaho, and Oregon before going down to Palo Alto, Cal. There they will visit their daughter, Miss Marion Jo, who is employed in the International Food Research Institute at Stanford university. The Theobalds will move on to see their son, Lt. Robert Theobald, aviation instructor at Calaveras field, in Glendale. They will be gone several weeks.

William Ross, formerly of Meyer and Ross Electric company here, is now employed as an electrician at the Bomber plant in Omaha. Mrs. Ross and children will remain in Wayne.
 Mrs. Martin Aegerter and daughter, Mary Alice, of Des Moines, spent last week with C. A. Berry.

RIGHT OUT OF THE AIR

By EARLE FERRIS

GINNY SIMMS, lovely vocalist pictured here, is leaving Kay Kyser's 'College of Musical Knowledge' at Kay's own suggestion. She has a picture contract and Kyser wants her to concentrate on camera work. Ginny will also have her own radio programs originating on the west coast.

Ann Shepherd, radio's 'Joyce Jordan—Girl Intermé', received the following rather contradictory card from some vacationing friends:—'Wish you were here so we could enjoy your company but if you were we wouldn't be hearing your broadcast every day, so, we're having a wonderful time.'

Red-haired Ann Thomas, pictured here, has her heart interest in the navy. Hence the headgear she sports. Ann, when not writing letters to the boy-friend, acts in Charles Martin's 'Johnny Presents' dramas on NBC Tuesday nights.

Ezra Stone, radio's 'Henry Al-drich,' is a typical American boy who loves baseball. He recently was introduced to Freddy Fitzsimons, Brooklyn Dodger pitcher and coach, and induced the veteran baseballer to teach him how to toss from the mound...

Long before the trend toward standard American music was established via defense programs, Helen Hayes will return to the airwaves to her regular Sunday night spot over CBS at 8:00 p.m. e.s.t., starting Sunday, Oct. 5...

When 'We, the People' marks five years on the air next month, on hand to lead the festivities will be Harry von Zell and Mark Warden, the only members of the original 'gang' still associated with the program. Harry's pictured here.

Don Voorhees, pictured here, was offering it to dialers. Voorhees still continues to do so when bantoning the music on 'Cavalcade of America' over NBC Monday nights.

Eddie Cantor heard Wednesday on the NBC-Red, is very patriotic. He was invited to go on the 'Treasury Hour' then broadcast on CBS opposite his own summer replacement, 'Quizzer Baseball.' Eddie did it even though it meant working against his own sponsor.

20 Years Ago

Taken from the files of The Nebraska Democrat, Thursday, September 22, 1921.)

The Wayne Central of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company entertained many of its patrons at an open house last week. The company provided punch and cigars.

George Denkinger was called to Plainview Friday evening to fix the gas plant at the school there. By having charge of the three college plants here, he has become expert in their care and adjustment.

Mrs. E. S. Blair was in Sioux City Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beckenhauer left Tuesday morning for Sidney where he has land interests to look after.

A double attraction opened this week in Sioux City. The fair started with auto races and the accompanying gambling. Then came Billy Sunday and his force of assistant evangelists. You pay your money and take your choice—sin and salvation are both offered.

The American Legion Weekly has, after careful canvassing, announced that between 600,000 and 700,000 ex-service men—that is, about one-out of each three who went 'over there' or one-sixth of all in the war—are out of work. The number is expected to be greater this winter.

Miss Hattie Morton is in Sioux City this week visiting and attending the fair.

City School Notes

An article, 'Efficiency of Automobile Brakes', written by Milton Beckmann, City High school principal, has been published in the September, 1941, issue of the Nebraska Educational Journal.

The article explains how an attempt was made to teach boys and girls safety by mathematics, rather than by preachings, by learning the relation of braking distance, reaction time, original speed, etc., also the cost per day to operate a car. Mr. Beckmann was selected by Nebraska District 4 of the National Education association to represent it at the 79th annual convention July 14 in Boston. He was one of seven to go from this state.

Miss Mildred Clark, also of the City High, was elected president for 1941-42 term of the Nebraska section, National Council of Mathematics Teachers at their spring meeting; Mr. Beckmann was elected vice president of this state group.

Kindergarten

Kindergarten pupils are constructing furniture for a play-house—bed, dressing table and chair. The girls have hemmed curtains and a skirt for the dressing table, and made wallpaper, which the boys hung.

Health chiefs who check on the others for their attention to health habits are elected each week. Morning health chief this week is Larry Johnson; afternoon, Marilyn Henegar.

First Grade

Shirley Mae Hoveling, from Leigh, Nebr., is a new member of the class.

Mrs. Howard Kahler, Mrs. Burr Davis, Mrs. Herman Baehr and Mrs. William Ross visited last week. The first grade had 18 parents at the PTA meeting Monday evening.

The class is making health booklets illustrating their health chores.

Third Grade

Officers elected at a meeting of the Safe Way club Friday are Donna Lee Wester, president; Jerry Stirtz, vice president; Jacqueline Anderson, secretary; and Tommy Roberts, song leader. Janice Derry read a safety story and Barbara Ley and Jacqueline Anderson played piano solos. The class learned the safety pledge and song, 'When You're Walking'.

Fourth Grade

The pupils are making leaf booklets in art, copying autumn leaves with water color.

Karol Lou Kay, Betty Jean Miller, Billy Jane Roberts are leading the class in studying the multiplication table. In geography they are taking an imaginary trip across the country on the Lincoln highway. They are also studying physical maps.

Fifth Grade

A Happy Hour club has been formed. Each member of the class has selected a hobby which he will enjoy all year. In the spring the group will have a hobby show. Officers are Eleanor Mae Kay, president, and Donna Beth Bressler, secretary. In arithmetic they are having an addition tournament.

Sixth Grade

The class is studying the British Isles in geography. To help understand the textile industry, they bring materials from home and identify them. Leaves are the subject of drawings and study in art. Maple leaf is the first one studied. Mrs. Henry Peltz was a visitor.

Seventh Grade

A good citizenship contest between the boys and the girls is underway. The purpose is to see which group can do the least whispering.

Eighth Grade

The eighth grade showed pictures showing phases of 'Life in the Colonies' in history class Tuesday and Wednesday. A mural is being made in art class.

High School Debate

Fourteen students attended the first debate meeting Monday evening, the largest group in several years. The students will begin work immediately on the national high school debate question: 'Resolved: That every able-bodied male citizen in the United States be required one year of military training before reaching the present draft age'

A full season of tournaments beginning the latter part of December will include Hastings, Doane, Norfolk and District, according to Miss Janice Felthaus, coach.

Biology

Enrollment in this department has reached a new high of 88 students this year. A special feature this year are the occasional Saturday morning field trips, on an entirely optional basis. On the first such trip, a wide variety of insects, clams, crayfish, spiders, frogs, a snake and a large turtle were collected. Herbert Smith is instructor.

The Wayne News Advocates

1. Formation of a Wayne civic organization with a paid secretary which will have as its sole objective the improvement and growth of Wayne; an organization through which all business firms and professional men may unite their efforts.
2. Expansion of Wayne's trade territory.
3. Co-operation between WSTC and Wayne for their mutual benefit.
4. Improved transportation facilities including all-weather roads throughout this section of the state.
5. Extension of the soil and water conservation work throughout Wayne and adjacent counties.
6. Improvement of educational facilities and standards in both rural and town schools.

Defense Progress

The wisdom of the position in which the United States has been placed regarding World War II is a matter of opinion to which only time holds the answer. However, critics of the administration have been chanting with equal force that the defense program has broken down and is a jumble of confusion, delay and chaos.

This charge can be answered from the records and the American people certainly have the right to know whether or not everything is being done to speed the flow of war materials, which may spell the difference between victory and defeat in the war against Hitlerism.

The facts are that the United States is now producing at the greatest rate in its history. Production is now 40 per cent greater than in May, 1940, when the present expansion got underway and most of the increase, as would be expected, has taken place in military production. Industrial output now is almost double what it was in 1918, peak year of the first World War.

Naturally in a program of such vast proportions and which must be rushed so much, there have been some errors, but the surprising thing is that there have been so relatively few.

The building of airplanes, construction of naval vessels, powder and gun factories, huge docks and terminal facilities along with all the allied industries have gone forward at an amazing pace, an almost unbelievable rate. Under the constant urging for speed and more speed, America has shown and is continuing to demonstrate the great power of its industrial enterprises. The army is now getting in large quantities, tanks, motorized equipment, powder and guns. Hundreds of tanks, planes and other supplies have gone to Great Britain.

A most ambitious schedule for production of these various defense needs was mapped when the program was adopted. In many projects, production is already far ahead of schedule and United States is making good on its promise to get the supplies to Britain and her allies to stop Hitler in Europe. For example, it now appears that the two-ocean navy will be completed two years ahead of schedule.

Naturally the program isn't perfect; such vast undertakings never are. There is room for improvement and improvements are being made daily. Constructive criticism of defense efforts is welcomed but continual fault-finding, moaning over this and that without offering a remedy or after the fault has been corrected only hinders defense progress. It is always easier to throw rocks than to make them and so it is with defense.

United States and its industrial plants are making a record of which this nation may well be proud. The defense program is going ahead at full speed and well in advance of a schedule which many doubted could be upheld.

Welfare Work

The ambitious program to provide medical and dental attention for Wayne pupils needing such help is certainly worthy of the creation of a special council. The Parent-Teachers association of Wayne is to be commended for sponsoring the movement as are also the Wayne Kiwanians for their efforts along this line in the past. The needs have increased in recent years until the burden has become one which should be shared by local civic and fraternal organizations rather than confined to a single club.

Expansion of the program, which has been carried out in Wayne for many years by the Kiwanis club, will result from the organization of a council for this specific purpose. Few more worthy objectives could be found and in organizing such a council and expanding its program, Wayne is keeping pace with progress made in cities many times its size.

Two Special Events

Two special events, both of which should attract large crowds to Wayne, are on the calendar for next week and the week following.

Thursday evening, Oct. 2, has been selected as the date for this city's annual Fall Opening event which will be observed on a more elaborate scale than in past years. In addition to a band concert and window unveiling in the business district, always a popular feature of such affairs, Wayne merchants will present a free fashion show, speeded with entertainment, at the Municipal Auditorium in the evening. Following this feature, a free dance will be staged there which will conclude the program.

The following Sunday and Monday, the first annual Wayne Air Show will be presented at the Municipal airport. Judging from advance preparations for the affair, which have been made by the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and Dan Fowley, who will manage it, the show will be an outstanding one which should attract crowds from all sections of Wayne's trade territory. Similar shows elsewhere have brought crowds of five to ten thousand persons and there is no reason to believe that Wayne's show will prove less attractive.

Every member of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce will be requested to aid in handling the show, taking tickets, working in concession booths and so on. The affair, it is hoped, will provide excellent entertainment and also swell the funds of the Chamber of Commerce.

Those three dates — Oct. 2, 5 and 6 — should be remembered and kept open to participate in Wayne's special events.

Wayne Sponsored Game

The Wayne State Teachers college football season is underway now and thus far, plans for a community or Chamber of Commerce sponsored game, similar to those of the past few years, have not been announced. These sponsored games in past years have resulted in record crowds and have doubtless increased attendance at the remaining games on the schedule. It would seem that the plan is a good one and should be continued.

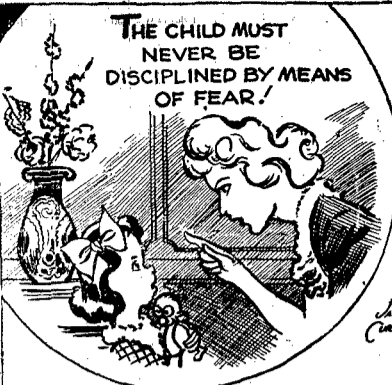

These games are only one of several ways in which the residents of Wayne and the college may co-operate for mutual benefit. All such contacts, we believe, should be encouraged. Neither the city nor the college gains by building a fence around the other, although some seem to encourage this attitude for unknown reasons. Certainly, each is to a certain extent dependent on the other and these false barriers should be torn down. The more the city and college co-operate, the better it will be for both, and the co-operation shouldn't be one-sided.

More Contacts, More Publicity

Without attempting in any way to dictate to Wayne State college authorities on how to handle the college or encourage increased enrollment in view of the fact that it seems Norfolk will soon have a junior college and a serious drop in enrollment was recorded at WSTC this year, some facts seem so obvious that calling attention to them shouldn't injure the feelings of even the most sensitive.

First, it would seem that with little expense a public relations

FEDERAL FINANCING

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 — It takes a lot of money to keep a war going, and the United States Treasury is showing commendable enterprise in selling tax-anticipation notes. During August the sales amounted to $1,037,000,000. The treasury now expects the sales to reach 6 to 8 billion dollars in a year. The treasury is selling defense bonds and stamps at the rate of 4 to 6 billion dollars a year.

The tax-anticipation notes are being purchased by the public for use in paying federal taxes when they fall due. The notes are a sort of voluntary installment plan that solves the question of where to find the money. Presto: Tax anticipation notes are exchanged for tax receipts.

The government is getting a steady flow of money as the year rolls round from the new system of federal financing. The new set-up is much simpler and easier than the Liberty Bond campaigns of the days of World War No. 1.

No Oil Shortage

After several weeks of irritating rules and regulations for using gasoline, and for service at gas stations it is admitted in Washington that there is plenty of gasoline in the country, and abundant transportation to deliver it.

Apparently the administration hadn't thought of a shortage of transportation when it shifted 50 tankers to the British. As a matter of fact there is no shortage according to the testimony brought out in the senate investigation.

The oil companies recently offered to build a pipeline system from the Southwestern oil fields to the Atlantic seaboard, and in fishing around for reasons why the pipeline should not be built the same old alibi was raised. "Can't spare the steel."

Senator O'Daniel of Texas, a democrat on the investigating committee suggests that the alleged "shortage" was a political issue. "The use of tank cars is the ideal temporary solution," the senator added.

The Association of American Railways has been telling the noisy "shorts" that there are 20,000 idle tank cars ready to furnish all the transportation needed to cure the shortage in two weeks.

Apparently railroad transportation costs more than tanker ship rates. The railroad officials and oil companies finally got together in Washington and settled on rates.

Congressman Hamilton Fish of the Hyde Park New York district seems to have used the right definition when he said the oil shortage was "phony".

A Vice That Is In Favor

Vice President is no figure head in the administration. President Roosevelt leans on him for heavy duties in connection with national defense and good-neighbor relations with Latin America. Mr. Wallace is a great favorite with F. D. R. In contrast, former Vice President Garner was accepted, and used only when necessary to help the administration out of a hole.

Soybean Paint

The first satisfactory lot of 100 per cent soybean oil paint tested by the U. S. Regional Soybean Industrial Products laboratory was mixed on May 20, 1937, says A. J. Lewis of the laboratory staff. Previously the laboratory had made up several all-soybean oil varnishes. This first lot of paint was tested against a similar linseed oil paint for drying, brushing, flowing, and other qualities, and was considered fully equal except for somewhat slower drying. Since then the laboratory has developed chemical treatments that improve drying of the paint film.

For purposes in which rapid drying is not important, a slow drying paint if allowed plenty of time to harden between coats is said to have some advantages.

Railroad Strikes Threatened

Railroad unions have taken a firm stand in demanding increased wages and the situation is somewhat threatening. Naturally, any moves toward strikes would be taken up in Washington as must emergencies that demand immediate settlements, so that the cars will not stop "going places".

Mexico Asks For More

The witches pot is brewing a cure-all for the long existing Mexico-United States troubles. Washington officials are strangely silent on the subject but Mexico City sources and the Washington rumor factory have supplied most of the details.

The ingredients in the brew are said to be Mexico's promise of immediate transformation from bad boy to good boy and one hundred million dollars more or less, of U. S. taxpayer's money. The ingredients are being mixed in the dark. When the brew is finished the United States will have Mexico's promise and Mexico will have one hundred million dollars, more or less, of our money.

According to news reports Mexico plans to use some of this money in stabilizing her currency; some of it on highway construction, some of it for agricultural development (which was almost fatally set-back when Mexico confiscated U. S. owned farm lands), and a tiny bit of it to make a token payment of the American oil companies whose properties Mexico confiscated three and a half years ago.

This last item is the senegambian in the woodpile. That apparently is what all the secrecy's about; the reason why the victims, the American companies never have been consulted. Mexico, with mysterious help, has out-fought, out-manuevered, out-lasted doughty, just, honest Cordell Hull.

Three things stand out in this transaction. One is the State Department's "hush-hush" policy and practice; one is Mexico's complete success; and the other one is, — who has done this to Cordell Hull?

At the time of the confiscations, Mr. Hull stated that "under international law the expropriated properties of American Nationals must be paid for by compensation, representing fair, assured and effective value of the properties taken". In that same rebuke to Mexico our able Secretary of State declared that the right to expropriate "is coupled with and conditioned on the obligation to make adequate, effective and prompt compensation", and that "the legality of the expropriation is in fact dependent on the observance of this requirement". Secretary Hull also declared in 1938 that "the taking of property without compensation is not expropriation". It is confiscation. It is no less confiscation because there may be an express intent to pay at sometime in the future".

So far as the record goes Secretary Hull has not changed his opinion that the action of the Mexican government "is no less confiscation because there may be an express intent to pay at sometime in the future".

Very clearly Mexico is repeating the same promise it made more than three and a half years ago and which it has dodged ever since. If it should get by with "token payment" it would be in splendid shape to defeat the position taken and maintained for over three years by Secretary Hull. There is nothing in the news of the day that indicated that he has changed his position. But what Washington is wondering about is how the United States government can be jockeyed out of all its rights. The oil companies have been asking for a settlement by arbitration of their claims against Mexico. But that government has always evaded the issue and its counter proposals have indicated that the Camacho government has schemes up its sleeves to pay off American oil investors on the basis of a few cents on the dollar, which the U. S. taxpayers are to provide according to the present under-cover scheme.

Government Economies Are Needed

A joint committee of members of the senate and house tax committees will explore "non-defense economy", and try to cut out between one and two billion dollars from the federal budget. It is a grand idea in behalf of "economy". But does anyone know a reason why the government should not seek defense economy?

There is a sort of hysteria in government circles that ignores the costs of defense, whether it is for America, or aid to England and company.

Steep increases in wages in all industrial and manufacturing institutions have been made. Farm prices have increased. At the same time prices have risen for food, clothing, rent, and all necessities of life. Washington hasn't woken up to realize that terrific spending is being matched up with terrific taxes, that is being extended to the lowest incomes, and increased heavily on larger earnings.

Calvin Coolidge was the only president in the twentieth century to insist on government economy.

A Straw In The Wind

Harry Bridges, the Pacific coast hornet for the CIO, stirred up a loud noise in New York when he accused "somebody" with tapping his telephone. Bridges "ain't afraid" of anybody these days. The basis of charges against him have been that he is a Communist and should be deported as an alien on that ground.

We don't hear much about Communists these days — since Russia joined "our side" in the war against Hitler. The Bridges case is only another straw in the wind!

Awiszus Cleared In License Case

The News published a story in last week's edition which stated in part that John Awiszus was fined $20 and costs on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without number plates attached. Mr. Awiszus was driving the truck but it was owned by a Wayne firm, which paid the fine and which was employing Mr. Awiszus only temporarily. Naturally, Mr. Awiszus was not responsible in any way for the violation. The News is glad to make this explanation and correction.

LEGAL NOTICE

Enrollment, Work In CCC Camp Streamlined

In line with the modern trend, the Civilian Conservation Corps is becoming streamlined and mechanized according to Roy Kelly, camp superintendent at Winside. Even the enrollment has become streamlined. Instead of enrolling every three months, any young man of good character and physique and between the ages of 17 and 24 can enroll at any time by going to the nearest CCC camp.

Kelly states that when the camps were first set up all field work was done with the use of such hand tools as shovels, axes and wheelbarrows. Today all this has been changed. Most of the field work is now done with large machinery. This includes large tractors, blades, rotary fregnos, dump trucks and much other equipment.

About two thirds of the enrollees at the Winside camp are on specialized jobs. These include cooks, bakers, clerks, toolhouse supervisors, blacksmith, educational assistants, storekeepers, assistant mechanics, mess steward, maintenance men, carpenter, filling station manager, cat drivers, bladesmen, truck drivers, surveyors and many others. This is a far cry from several years ago when almost all of the men were marched out, handed a shovel and told to go to work. Now the enrollee in CCC camps learns by actually doing these things which not only will aid him to earn a livelihood when he leaves camp but which also are vital to national defense.

Mrs. C. C. Petersen and sons, Kenneth of Omaha and Paul, left Tuesday morning for Gary, Ind., where they are visiting their son and brother, Carroll, and his wife, the former Marian Seymour. They plan to return in about a week.
