

Recent rains have added considerable moisture to the soil and bolstered confidence in another excellent crop year for Wayne county residents.

Speaking of rubber and it is sharing the spotlight now with war and sugar, Uncle Sam wants all your scrap to help win that major scrap throughout the world.

Incidentally, the more rubber scrap you are able to give to the war effort, the less likely you are to have your gasoline rationed.

'Bus' Fisher as he is best known is going to leave Wayne at least temporarily for a war plant position, but it's our guess that the Fishers who have a great many friends in this area, will return home about the time the scores of young men, who are going from here to do their share at the front, come back after visiting Tokyo, Berlin and Rome.

Remember that next Sunday is Father's Day—the one day out of the 365 on the calendar where dear old dad—the kindly gent to whom you write for his hard earned money when at college, vacationing, etc.—gets a break.

The United Service Organizations drive is progressing, thanks to the many workers who, are giving freely of their time to canvass the business district. Our hat's off to the three women's clubs who have volunteered to shoulder the far greater task of canvassing the residential districts of Wayne, and to Clarence Wright and Henry Ley, the generals in this campaign.

Canvass of all home in Wayne for directory data has been completed and we want to thank those who called the office or Miss Josephine Ahern to give the necessary data. Every effort has been made to have the information complete and accurate and the directories will be off the press by the end of June.

Wayne Gets .67 Inch Rain On Friday

Mercury Skids To Chilly Level; June Total To 1.50

A heavy downpour Friday morning which in Wayne measured .63 of an inch and a shower that evening which added another .04 of an inch of moisture brought June's total rainfall thus far to 1.50 inches. This compares with 2.95 inches for the entire month last year and 7.08 inches in June of 1940.

The rain early Friday morning was the heaviest of six received here this month but south of Wayne two earlier June rains each amounted to slightly more than an inch. Some other sections of the county also have received considerably more moisture than has fallen within the city limits and in this immediate vicinity.

Despite the frequent showers moisture in this immediate vicinity in the near future would be beneficial. However, the cool weather of the past few weeks makes the need for additional moisture less urgent than otherwise would be the case and farmers were not alarmed by the failure to receive more rain.

The mercury dipped to chilly levels Friday, which led many residents to fire furnaces which had been given a vacation for several weeks when the mercury started toward summer levels. However, temperatures climbed to comfortable levels again Saturday.

Rainfall Recorded The rainfall as recorded in the business district of Wayne on the gauge at the Carhart Lumber Company measured as follows:

- June 1—30 of an inch. June 2—.07. June 6—.28. June 10—.18. June 12—.63. June 13—.04.

New Books At Library

War, Defense Hold Spotlight Among New Volumes

"Men On Bataan" by John Hersey sets a new style in biography. The author is a staff writer for Time and Life magazines, specializing on the Far East. He has had the entire Time and Life correspondence much of which has never before been made public and he has also collected facts and anecdotes given him by many of General MacArthur's friends, by the families of men who fought on Bataan and by the U. S. War Department. He has had a personal acquaintance with the Far East since early childhood as he was born in Tientsin. Later he studied at Yale. It was for Time that he went to the Orient three years ago on which trip he interviewed important leaders in China. This book called "Men On Bataan" is about MacArthur and the men who fought with him, both army men and civilians.

A timely new book is entitled "What the Citizen should Know About Civilian Defense." The authors are men especially well qualified to write a book on this subject. Walter Binger, one of the authors is chairman of the National Technological Civil Protection Committee, appointed by the Secretary of War. His co-author is Hilton H. Bailey and he is a former Reserve Officer in both the army and the navy and an author and lecturer and special writer on matters of civilian defense for the N. Y. Times.

The mystery fans will be interested to know that "The Golden Box" by Frances Crane has been added to the library collection. The same readers will welcome his new novel called "Majesty's Rancho." "The Eagles Roar" by Byron Kennerly is an exciting true story of the Eagle Squadron, the American outfit in the R. A. F. It is one of the most exciting documents to come out of the war.

C. of C. Aids War Efforts

Don Marcellus Lists Objectives Of National Group

Two major objectives are being sought by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Donald Marcellus of Minneapolis, manager of the north-west division of the association told members of the Wayne Men's club and guests at a dinner meeting in Hotel Stratton Wednesday evening.

At noon Wednesday, Mr. Marcellus met with the directors of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce at which meeting the directors voted to affiliate with the local Chamber of Commerce with the national association which includes more than 1,800 Chambers of Commerce and trade associations.

First, the Chambers of Commerce are dedicated to assist in the mobilization of business places so that vast quantities of war materials will be produced and placed in the hands of our armed forces, Mr. Marcellus declared. "The production thus far has been exceeding the goals set a year ago."

The speaker pledged that business could be depended upon to go full speed ahead. He added that the production outlook for the future was bright.

The association and through it business is also seeking as its second major objective to keep the dislocations in our economic system, necessitated by the war, to the lowest possible minimum. While at present, all energy must be and is being given to the winning of the war, the speaker added that our present business structure must be preserved as it will be as greatly needed in post-war time as it is during the present crisis.

The role of the United States Chamber of Commerce in aiding the government during the war was also reviewed by the speaker, who declared that it has cooperated with the war production board, army, navy and air force, the treasury department and various other agencies in making their work most effective.

World Cut Expenses. Mr. Marcellus stressed the need for increased reduction in non-defense expenditures and listed some of the objectives and difficulties in connection with the present price ceiling program.

The important role which local Chambers of Commerce are playing throughout the nation in community participation in the war program was also stressed by the speaker.

It was Mr. Marcellus' second visit in recent years to Wayne. He addressed a membership meeting of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce more than a year ago.

Primary Race Gets Underway

Election Notice Is Published; Interest Lags

Official notice of the primary election to be held at the various polling places of Wayne county on Tuesday, August 11, is published elsewhere in this edition of The News.

Little interest has been shown thus far in the coming primary election. A few candidates have filed for state and county offices but intensive campaign has not gotten underway.

All To File All present county officials are expected to file for re-election. In fact, several have already filed.

In the state races, interest is greater as candidates are beginning to get their campaigns rolling. However, following the usual pattern of Nebraska politics, the races are not likely to get into full stride until a few weeks prior to the actual balloting.

Each political party may nominate a candidate for each of the following offices: United States Senator; Congressman for the Third congressional district; Governor, Lieutenant Governor; Secretary of State; Auditor of Public Accounts; State Treasurer; Attorney General; Railway Commissioner for the Third District; County Clerk; County Treasurer; Clerk of the District Court; County Sheriff; County Attorney; County Assessor and County Surveyor.

Elect Delegates Each of the political parties are also to elect delegates to the county convention, which will be held in Wayne on Thursday, August 27. Delegates are elected by precincts.

The non-political nomination of candidates for the following offices will also be included in the primary election: Two candidates for state superintendent of Public Instruction; two for associate Justice of the Supreme Court for the Third Supreme Court district; two for representative for the 16th Legislative district; two for County Superintendent of Public Instruction and four candidates for directors of the Rural Public Power District of Wayne County, for six year terms.

The primary election polling places will be open in this county from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. on August 11.

Aid Given Selectees

Advisory Board Plans Schedule For Selectees

Because of the flood of requests for assistance in filling out Selective Service questionnaires, which have kept members of the Wayne county advisory board of the Selective Service Act busy, a regular schedule of periods on which such help will be given, has been worked out by the Wayne attorneys making up the board. Board members emphasized that only between the hours of 1 and 3 o'clock daily will one of their number be in the basement of the courthouse to provide such help. All men desiring help on their questionnaires should arrange to call at the courthouse during those hours.

The occupational questionnaires are comparatively easy to fill out and those receiving them are requested to call for the aid of a board member only if absolutely necessary.

The days on which the various board members will give such assistance to selectees follow: Monday, Harry Siman; Tuesday, Russell Bartels; Wednesday, Fred Perry; Thursday, W. A. Crossland; Friday, Burr Davis; Saturday, Leslie W. Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brugger, jr., arrived in Wayne Sunday to spend a week visiting Mr. Brugger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brugger. Mr. Brugger is a junior instructor in the air force at Ft. Scott, Ill.

War Ration Board To Go To Winside

Meeting There Wednesday; Will Take Applications

Residents of Winside and vicinity will have an opportunity to make application to the county rationing board for sugar, tires and tubes Wednesday of this week when the board will hold its regular meeting at Winside instead of the county board headquarters in Wayne.

Members of the board will be at the Winside Municipal Auditorium from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Wednesday, the regular session of the board being held that evening at Winside. The office in Wayne will be closed throughout the day.

For Convenience of People The Winside meeting was arranged for the convenience of all residents of that city and vicinity and they are urged to take advantage of the opportunity thus afforded. It had been announced previously that such meetings would be held in other towns at the county at intervals during the period in which applications are being taken and permits issued for the purchase of sugar for canning.

Meanwhile, the rush of applicants for sugar purchase certificates continued at the county board headquarters. To clear up some misunderstandings regarding the sugar situation in this country, the following statement was issued last week by the Nebraska USDA war board:

Statement Issued "During the past eight years under the protection of the sugar program, farmers have produced 36.5 per cent more sugar than they did in the previous 8-year period.

"There is no government limit whatever placed upon United States sugar production for 1942. Payments to growers have been increased one-third this year for one purpose—to get more sugar. The more sugar a farmer produces, the greater his payment. Farmers have already told the nation they intend to plant almost one-fourth more sugar this year than last, which may prove an all-time high for a single year.

"Then why ration sugar? The answer is that we cannot get some of our usual offshore supplies. Seventy-one per cent of our sugar is brought in from the territory of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Philippine Islands and from Cuba. Our Philippine supply—a million tons or 15 per cent of the total—has been cut off entirely. Ships ordinarily used to carry sugar are now needed to carry more critical war materials. Our supplies are also being shared with other United Nations, which have lost many sugar sources and must have sugar from this hemisphere."

Large Delegation Of County 4-H Club Members To Camp

More than thirty 4-H Club members of Wayne county are expected to attend the 4-H Club Camp being held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week at Wynot, according to Extension Agent Chet Walters. Mr. Walters will accompany the county delegation to the three-day camp.

Homewood Park at Wynot will again be the site for this year's camp, which will be attended by 4-H club members and leaders. Last year Wayne county had the largest delegation at the camp, a total of 51 making up this county's delegation.

Features of the camp will include games, skits, music, handicraft, swimming, camp fire session, group discussions of topics of particular interest to 4-H club members and roller skating.

Mrs. Edgar Meese, Mrs. Richard Stuart and Mrs. Marie Hansen attended a conference for Red Cross Home Nursing Instructors at Norfolk Friday. They also attended a "Let's Get Acquainted" tea given by the Norfolk officials of the Red Cross chapter following the session.

Farm Placement Volunteer Stations Listed

A state-wide directory of 520 volunteer farm placement representatives in Nebraska has just been released, according to Manager Walter A. Steffen of the Norfolk Office of the United States Employment Service. These representatives were appointed this spring after meetings had been held in all counties of the state to consider ways of meeting possible farm labor shortages this season.

Manager Steffen suggested that persons in this area who may be available for farm work, either regular or harvest, should contact the nearest volunteer representative. He also urged farmers to place their orders so that an indication of farm labor needs may be gained.

"Serving without pay, the volunteer farm placement representatives will do their best to assist farmers in securing help needed to meet increased food production goals in the 'Food for Victory' program," he stated, "and full cooperation should be given to local representatives."

Volunteer placement representatives in Wayne county are as follows: Carroll, George Linn. Hoskins, Dale Ziegler. Shibles, Hans Tietgen. Wayne, Meyer & Bichel. Winside, Everett White.

Rubber Hunt Is Underway

Two Weeks' Scrap Collection Campaign Launched

Arrangements were completed Monday for a special house-to-house canvass of Wayne Friday of this week for the collection of all scrap rubber. Wayne boys under the direction of Phil Maech, county salvage committee chairman, will conduct the canvass as a convenience to residents who have rubber to donate or sell to the government. The regular rate of a cent a pound will be paid those desiring to sell articles of any kind which are made of rubber. This canvass will be in addition to the sale of rubber to the government through filling stations, which was launched on a nation-wide scale Monday. Residents are urged to complete a thorough check and collection of all rubber articles which will not have to be replaced prior to Friday.

A two-weeks scrap rubber collection campaign was launched throughout the nation at a minute after midnight Monday morning which is expected to determine whether nationwide gasoline rationing is necessary to conserve tires.

President Roosevelt called upon Americans to turn in "every bit of rubber you can possibly spare." The President in a radio address asked householders to search attics, cellars and garages for old rubber and to deliver it to gasoline filling stations which are paying one cent a pound and which will be reimbursed later by the government. The drive which opened at 12:01 a. m. on Monday will end at midnight, June 30.

"Once the rubber is in, we will know what our supplies of used rubber are and we will make our plans accordingly," the president said. "One thing you can be sure of—we are going to see to it that there is enough rubber to build the planes to bomb Tokyo and Berlin—enough rubber to build the tanks to crush the enemy wherever we may find him—enough rubber to win this war."

The oil industry will assemble at central points the rubber collected by the country's 400,000 filling stations. It will be turned over to a government agency, the Rubber Recovery Corp., which will reimburse the industry for the money it has paid out.

Rubber items wanted include tires, inner tubes, crepe rubber shoes, boots and overshoes, hot water bottles, tennis shoes, rubber bathing, rubber gloves, rubber sheetings, pads and matting, rain coats, rubber heels, bathing caps, jar rings, plumber's suction caps, sample tire sections, rubber ash trays—and hundreds of other articles containing rubber."

Liberal Response In USO Drive

Club Women Carry Campaign To City Homes

The United Service Organizations campaign was launched in the residential districts of Wayne Monday when members of three prominent local societies started a complete canvass of local residents. Cameo, Fortnightly and Nu-Fu club members are co-operating in this city-wide drive.

Meanwhile, workers who were assigned to canvass various sections of the business district and began work last week reported a good response. However, the canvass of the business section remained far from completed on Monday after a week's work and sufficient reports had not been received to permit the release of figures.

Arrangements are being made now to carry the drive to the college, which will complete the county-wide campaign, according to Clarence Wright, county chairman, and H. E. Ley, city chairman.

Mr. Wright said Monday that early reports from workers in the business district indicate that Wayne county will reach its quota of $715, a portion of which was raised several weeks ago when the campaign was conducted among the farmers.

The drive is also underway in the other towns in the county, but only incomplete reports have been received from Winside, Carroll and Hoskins.

40 Children Join Reading Club At Library

The children are divided into different age groups for the summer reading. The library basement is cool and comfortable during the summer and the club provides an interest for long summer afternoons. Prizes will be awarded at the end of the summer for the best reading done within the different age groups.

On Friday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock children who are interested in working on scrap books are invited to come to the children's room. Cutting and pasting is done and the object is to prepare scrap books for reference material which can be used in the children's library. A large number attended last week and all who are interested are invited.

NEBRASKANS HAVE A RIGHT TO KNOW THE RIGHT ANSWERS!

Charles E. Sandall
State Director, Nebraska Committee

Q. All places licensed to sell legal beer are regulated by the State Liquor Commission, but what about the "spike joints" along rural highways?
A. Unlicensed, unregulated "spike joints" have no license which the Liquor Commission can revoke, but the Commission and the Nebraska beer industry are working with local officials to solve this problem where it exists.

Q. What about the charge of too much drinking at Pearl Harbor? Some people are repeating that rumor.
A. This baseless slander on the men of the Army, Navy and Air Corps is completely refuted by the report of the President's Commission of Inquiry, headed by Supreme Court Justice Owen D. Roberts. It is spread only by emergency opportunists trying to use the war as an excuse for another corrupt and crime-ridden prohibition era.

Q. How does legal beer benefit Nebraska and the United States, in peacetime and in war?
A. Through its Liquor Commission, Nebraska is able to regulate the sale of legal beer everywhere it is sold—even in unincorporated areas. The legal, regulated sale of beer has brought Nebraska more than $3,850,000 in taxes since 1933. To the United States, the legal brewing industry means thousands of workers buying 12 millions in War Bonds each year... and legal beer's taxes of more than 1 1/4 millions of dollars daily could build 1,000 new Flying Fortresses, or 43 new destroyers, or full equipment for 1,300,000 well-trained soldiers in a single year. How's that for helping!

Soldiers of Production

America's "soldiers of production," men and women working in the plants of American industry, have their uniforms, too. Some uniforms worn by G-E workers on vital production jobs are shown below.

1. Not a gas mask, but a special nose mask to guard his breathing. He wears this spray painter at his job in one of the General Electric plants.

2. Like a man from Mars, the "cold room" research man is a strange sight as he tests airplane instruments for high-altitude performance in a G-E laboratory.

3. Frankenstein? No, just another G-E worker. His job is sandblasting big turbine castings for Uncle Sam's ships at one of the General Electric plants.

4. The helmet he wears is to protect him from light. The rays from a welder's arc could cause blindness if he did not wear this strange headgear.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier.

The Road Ahead Roosevelt added another—and most authoritative—voice to those which recently have warned the American people against undue optimism.

Public Must Learn One of the great dangers of over-optimism is that it is apt to be followed by the deepest pessimism. The President was wisely philosophical in warning the people against these extremes of emotional reaction to the war news.

The return of 908 diplomats, newspaper men and other citizens of America on the liner Droptingholm, brings further confirmation to the belief that Hitler is being licked, and that there is likely to be a sensational collapse of his fortunes at any time. Teachers Will Be Trained To Give High Courses

A ground school course in civil pilot training for secondary school teachers, who expect to teach the course in high schools this fall, will get underway this week at Wayne State Teachers College.

The new course was provided here for teachers attending the summer term of school as a step toward the air instruction mapped by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Through these high school courses students will be prepared for courses later in either military or civil aviation.

They will also lead to a better understanding of aviation, which will take a major role in the world in peace as well as during the war.

As the quota for the civilian pilot training units at the college has not been filled as yet, any young men interested in receiving this training are urged to contact the college authorities within the next few days.

REA Makes Payments

District Is Now Paying Its Own Way

An advance payment of $4,000 made to the federal government by the Wayne county REA project, brings the total in advance payments made by the district toward its loan contract to $18,000.

These advance payments are in addition to the payment of interest required under the contract and indicate that the directors and officials of this county's REA district are making progress and operating successfully.

Henry Moeding, manager of the district, pointed out that these advance payments show that the district is now paying its own way.

The payment was authorized by the following directors of the district: A. G. Sydow, Albert Watson, Lawrence Ring, J. G. Sweigard, Ed Grubb and Lyle Marolt.

As Seen by KARL STEFAN. Watch the progress of gliders. Many young officers, doing desk work in the War Department are making plans to transfer to the glider corps.

Believe it or not, the number of letters received by the army engineers each day is nearly thirty thousand. General McCoach, recently Engineers Commissioner of the District of Columbia, takes care of that mail. The secretary of the Washington Board of Trade has been commissioned a captain of engineers.

The silver dollar is still a very important coin but during this war silver isn't worth as much as brass or copper. Uncle Sam has about 53,000 tons of silver to back up his silver certificates but that silver may soon be diverted to all kinds of things such as taking 42,000 tons of silver for bus bars in aluminum plants to replace 47,000 tons of badly needed copper. The 'worms' of grain alcohol stills and even the lining of cans may come from our silver stock pile.

It is generally conceded that our big surplus of wheat will exceed the value of our immense gold accumulation in Kentucky.

Mike Elizalde, the Philippine commissioner, gave a reception for Manuel Quezon, the Philippine President in exile. Nearly all foreign ambassadors, ministers, military and naval attaches now in Washington and members of the house and senate were there.

Manuel Quezon's favorite story about Corregidor is one about the heroism of American and Filipino nurses. Quezon tells friends that he lay sick on a stretcher in Corregidor for many days and he gives high praise to the treatment that he received from the Americans. The Filipinos and the Americans became brothers on Bataan and on Corregidor, the Filipino President tells the Third District Member.

Gordon Lederer of Norfolk is one of the dental technicians in the recently completed National Naval Medical center in Washington. The laboratory in which he works is said to be the first in the world. Lederer got his first training in the Welch laboratory in Norfolk. He then joined the navy and after training in the great Naval Medical Center, he will receive a duty assignment.

George Petrow of Fremont is at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, near Washington, in Officer training school. His brother, Christ Petrow, is joining up with the Coast Guard.

A constituent asks why we can not go back to horses and buggies for the duration. In reply to that agricultural experts here say that so far as our farmers are concerned, they cannot go back to the horse and buggy days because the number of horses and mules on our farms has been reduced nearly one-half since the first world war. Also, even if we have the horses, their legs and feet would not stand the strain of traveling long distances over modern hard-surfaced roads.

Many people have written regarding the location of their sons who are in the army and navy. The War Department appreciates the desire of men in the service to receive mail from home and every precaution is being taken to see that all mail is delivered. However, due to the military situation and the great distances involved, the transmission of mail to and from members in the armed forces is sometimes unavoidably retarded. Because of military reasons the destination assigned to certain men in our armed forces cannot be disclosed but the War Department is doing everything possible to see to it that mail is delivered. The War Department here receives report of the serious illness or injury of any soldier and the emergency address is immediately notified.

There has been a helpful revision in the sugar ration regulations which is hoped will meet some of the complaints made by American housewives. Among other things, the new order allows one pound of sugar per four quarts of finished canned fruit. Applicants for home canning are asked by the price administrator here to obtain full information from their local war price and rationing board.

Weekly Farm Review

By Chester Walters
Wayne County Extension Agent

LOOKING FOR WORK

A considerable number of Lincoln young men are looking for summer work on Nebraska farms. This week they completed a course of preliminary training, offered by the Vocational Education department in the Lincoln schools, which gave them some instruction in what they could expect to be working with on a farm.

The young men are registered with the Lincoln Office of the U. S. Employment Service. Their help, following a short period of "getting onto the ropes," can mean much to Nebraska farm people who have been harassed by labor shortages and see no prospect of any change in the near future.

ROOT ROT IN PEAS

Casualties that aren't a result of the war are beginning to show up in the family garden. Jess Livingston, extension plant pathologist at the Nebraska College of Agriculture, has been getting inquiries about a root rot and wilt of garden peas. The leaves show a distinct yellow color, and when the plants are pulled the roots are shriveled, brown and poorly developed.

Livingston says that root rots of peas are caused by fungi and therefore are hard to control. It will help some to cultivate the ground so that the top soil will remain dry during the growing season. A better way to get at the trouble is to do something before the growing season starts. Well-drained soil that has not grown peas for at least four years should be selected. Also, soil that is high in humus or is well-fertilized is desirable, as it encourages rapid growth of the plants, which makes them less susceptible to damage.

Certain varieties resist root rot. Alaska and Mardela varieties are suitable for Nebraska conditions and show much less damage from root rot than the other common varieties.

MILK DISTRIBUTION CHANGES

We can look for quite a few changes in methods of distributing milk as tires wear out and man power becomes more scarce, say economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. At ready fewer deliveries of milk to individual consumers are being made in many parts of the country. The milk is being delivered to individual stores and the consumer is walking to the store to get milk for the family.

Larger containers seem a certainty. In Akron, Ohio, more than half the milk is being sold in gallon jugs.

It's uncertain what will happen with the special types of milk, such as homogenized milk, milk with a high fat test, milk with vitamins added, and certified milk. Consumers have more money to spend and probably will want to spend more of it for these special types of milk.

When other dairy products are sold through the stores the stores will probably sell these special types too. But the economists say that whether more dairy stores are established or whether they handle special milks depend to a considerable extent on whether or not they can get the special refrigerating and other machinery.

HARVESTING BROME GRASS

It is expected that there will be a big demand for all kinds of grass seeds. The seed is too valuable to run any unnecessary risk of losing.

Many farmers are planning to harvest their brome seed with a combine. This method has proven satisfactory in many cases. However, plans should be made to have plenty of space to spread the seed out to dry. If it heats it will lower the germination, and possibly ruin the seed. Harvesting with a combine necessitates a risk of loss in the field because of a storm as well as the risk of

Department of Agriculture and Inspection, are required to be affixed to and remain on every threshing machine and combine during the time it is in operation in the state.

The law also provides that all threshing machines and combines that have been in operation must be cleaned of noxious weed seed before entering Nebraska.

Inspectors from the State Department of Agriculture and Inspection inspect machines during the harvest season in order to obtain cooperation of farmers and machine operators in carrying out provisions of the weed law. The inspectors report very good cooperation among farmers and machine operators, according to State Seed Analyst Ray Kinch. Careful farmers are insisting that all threshing machines and combines be thoroughly cleaned before being brought on their premises and when being moved from field to field.

CLEAN THRESHERS, COMBINES

A broom is standard equipment on every threshing machine or combine whose owner complies with provisions of Nebraska's weed law.

Section 17 of the state weed law provides that all threshing machines and combines be cleaned before being moved from fields infested with bindweed and other noxious weeds. Printed copies of that section in a form approved by the director of the Department of Agriculture and Inspection, are required to be affixed to and remain on every threshing machine and combine during the time it is in operation in the state.

MULCHING FOR TOMATOES

Mulching tomatoes with straw or grass clippings between the rows about the middle of June ranks next to irrigation as a cultural practice for obtaining high yields, according to Extension Horticulturist Ernest Hoppe. The mulch also reduces the labor of keeping down weeds and reduces loss from rotting where the tomatoes would otherwise touch the ground.

"STRETCH" CANNING SUGAR

Sugar isn't rubber, but it can be "stretched" so that the canning ration will go further.

1. Add a small amount of sugar to the fruit's own juices, instead of making the usual sugar sirup. Fruits naturally contain much water, and you can make best use of your sugar by sweetening this rather than by adding more water in the form of a sirup.
2. Heat the slightly sweetened fruit carefully in a sauce pan. This draws out the juices, and shrinks the fruit and drives out the air, making it possible to pack large amounts of fruits in each jar. There should be enough juice to cover the fruit completely.
3. Honey may be used to replace up to one half the sugar called for in canning, and corn sirup up to one-third.
4. Fruit juices are not provided for in sugar-rationing allowances but they may be bottled or put up in jars with little or no sugar. When sweet and tart juices are mixed together no sugar is needed. Fruit for juice is processed at simmering rather than at boiling temperatures to keep the natural fruit flavors.

Mr. and Mrs. Bus Strahan and children are moving to Albion, Nebr., Wednesday of this week.

Rex Johnson and Joe Kessler, who are employed at Lincoln, spent the weekend visiting their parents in Wayne.

"The Black Baroness" by Denis Wheatley is a novel in which the hero follows through those seventy terrific days between Hitler's invasion of Norway in April and the surrender of the French in June. The author has perhaps sacrificed authentic facts to make better fiction in some parts of the book but he has written a thrilling story.
