Number 2

Wayne county stepped on the gas last weekend to make a definite bid for a share of the honors in the state-wide salvage contests, one sponsored by the Omaha World Herald and the other by Ak-Sar-Ben. Stepped on the gas is true literally because Wayne's biggest single contribution to the scrap to fight the Axis campaign came to town under its own power, eating gas by the gallon. The old tractor, which just recently was used by its owner, Oscar Peterson, in threshing, tipped the scales at 21,600 pounds, nearly half of Wayne's total scrap contribution thus far in the campaign.

The Beat 'Em All Calf Club, which has the habit of doing just that and capturing major honors in statewide contests, is largely responsible for arranging sale and getting the tractor ready for its last journey in one piece. Its former owner, Mr. Peterson, has a son in Uncle Sam's air corps and expressed the hope that his boy might drop pieces of the old farm engine on the Japs in the form of bombs. This reminds us of the sad fact that we used to sell our scrap to the Japs and deliver it as such, now, we are giving it to them in the way it should be delivered as bombs and shells.

Interest in the coming primary election - you go or should go to the polls in only two weeks - seems still largely confined to the candidates seeking office. Ask most of them how their campaigns going and they'll tell you everything looks fine but a little later privately confess that it's plenty difficult to tell what the outcome will be.

Our entries in any facial election contest are two usually dignified Wayne men - a business man and a professor - but we'll back them against the field. They are Clarence Wright and Prof. J. R. Johnson, the latter, better known as Jason during such contests. If you doubt their rare ability in this indoor sport, just ask for a demonstration but don't do it unless you have a strong heart and can take it.

Tough as the news may be for the children, it now appears certain that classes will be held as usual at the Wayne City Schools this fall. At the rate at which vacancies in the staff were arising, it appeared doubtful last week but the board is now rapidly and successfully signing instructors for the coming year.

Wayne county has made a good showing thus far in all war campaigns, passing its quotas in most of them. However, unless war bonds and stamps sell a bit more rapidly this week, this county will fall a bit short of its heavy July quota. Keep buying them and help send that marker over the $36,000 level this month.

Operating almost any type of business during this war has its full share of difficulties but we believe that publishing a newspaper tops the field. The greatest problem today is to find experienced Linotype operators, who are not either in the service or working in some defense plant. It's a great contrast to condition prior to the war when they were plentiful enough. This edition is short on type for that reason.

REMEMBER

The canvass for salvage to whip the Axis Thursday and Friday of this week. Have your scrap ready. To buy war bonds and stamps this week and every week.

Long Beach will gain some fine citizens and a popular pastor next month when the Rev. C. L. Eads and his family leave Wayne for the coast. It's a fine opportunity for Reverend Eads but we regret to see them leave as we know hundreds of other Wayne residents do.

Father Haley Is Critically Hurt In Fall

Father Haley, formerly of Wayne and now of Timber Lake, S. D., suffered internal injuries and fractured a wrist and ankle when he fell while painting the church according to word received by friends here. Father Haley is a cousin of Mrs. Tim Collins of Wayne.

New Coach, Principal Selected

Menke Of Madison Coming; Baehr Or Smith, Principal

Progress in filling the many vacancies on the Wayne City Schools staff was made by the Board of Education at a meeting Saturday and through a series of conferences with applicants since then.

Henry Menke, coach at Madison High for the past two years, has definitely accepted the position as coach and shops instructor at the Wayne City Schools for the coming year, it was announced by the board Monday.

Baehr Or Smith
Herman Baehr, head of the High School, was elected to the position of principal at the meeting of the board Saturday. However, board members informed The News Monday that Mr. Baehr had not decided definitely about accepting and that it was likely if he declined, Herbert Smith, who resigned last spring as science teacher here, would return to teach science and serve as principal. Should this solution to the problem be adopted, one position would be eliminated, leaving only one to fill, since board members previously indicated only one coach would be employed. It will be Mr. Menke's duty to coach all sports.

Term Opens September 7
Latest addition to the teachers resigning is High School Principal Milton Beckman, who requested his release to accept the position as superintendent of the city schools at Scribner.

With the fall term of the Wayne City Schools scheduled to open Monday, Sept. 7, the vacancies must be filled within the next few weeks. An increased salary scale has been adopted for the coming year in addition to the bonus to those who remain throughout the year. The increase is equivalent to the bonus contracts last year and was approved to retain the high standards of the schools and reward teachers for faithful service during the year.

Teachers Leaving
The coaching and shop instruction position was left vacant when Frank Sullivan resigned to accept a coaching position at Fairbury Junior College. Axel Bundgaard, Wayne High's other coach, previously resigned to join the naval reserves as physical education instructor. Miss Kathryn Johnson, kindergarten teacher, resigned to continue work this winter in a defense plant in Los Angeles, where she has been employed since the

Many Give Records

City Canvassed By Legion And Auxiliary Members

Residential districts of Wayne are being canvassed by members of the local Legion and Auxiliary posts who are striving to reach their quota of 4,250 discs and cylinder records in the "Records for American Fighting Men" drive.

A fair response, particularly good from some farm families in this vicinity, is reported by leaders of the two organizations.

Families which have not been contacted and all farm families in this vicinity are urged to leave records they wish to donate for this cause at any business house in Wayne. Workers will collect the records from the business houses before the drive ends. The nation-wide goal in the campaign is 37,500,000 records. Good records will be used as they are in camps and others will be used as material for new recordings. Arrangements have been made to have these new records made and sent to camps regularly.

The Legion and Auxiliary are conducting the campaign throughout the country.

Rev. Eads Quits Here

Baptist Pastor Resigns To Accept Long Beach Pastorate

Rev. C. L. Eads, pastor of the Baptist church here, resigned his pastorate here effective Sunday, Aug. 16, when he will preach his final sermon here. A pulpit committee has been appointed but Reverend Eads' successor has not been selected.

Reverend Eads is quitting here to become assistant pastor of the First Baptist church at Long Beach, Calif. where Reverend Edson, Dr. J. T. Anderson's son-in-law, is pastor. The church there has enjoyed a rapid substantial growth since Reverend Edson has been pastor and has some 2,200 members at present. Reverend Eads will go from here to Minnesota to visit friends and for a brief vacation before going to California.

The popular Wayne pastor came here about the middle of April in 1940 and will leave hundreds of friends throughout the county when he moves to California. Reverend Edson and Reverend Eads became acquainted when the former came here on a visit.

Reverend Eads came to Wayne from Chambers, where he served as pastor for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tietgen returned Friday from a vacation trip to Colorado.

Dale Meyer will leave Wayne Thursday for Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where he has been assigned to a mechanical unit of the army.

Mrs. C. C. Stirtz and Mrs. R. K. Kirkman left Sunday a. m. for Pendleton, Ore., to visit the Otto Stratton family, who are managing a hotel there. From there they expect to go to the coast and California. They will return by way of Salt Lake City in about two weeks.

Names Of Group Listed: Two Volunteer

Nine of the group of Wayne county men who reported for their army physical examination and induction into the service Tuesday of last week passed and will begin training as soon as the regulation furlough period ends, it was announced by the Selective Service board Monday.

Included in the group were two volunteers and one who transferred to this county from another. Those who passed and will be inducted follow:

Strate Case Unchanged
The case of Ruben Arnold Strate, who failed to answer the call of the county board and to whom notice was posted on the information chart for registrants ordering him to report to the board on or before 2 p. m. Monday, remained unchanged Monday morning.

The notice included a warning that failure to report would make him liable for punishment by fine or imprisonment.

The next call is for August 15 but the county quote for that date has not been announced.

Youths Get Numbers

D. E. Johnson Is First Listed By Age

Assignment of order numbers to youths between the ages of 18 and 20, registered at the last registration, was completed last week by the county Selective Service board. Order numbers were assigned on the basis of age with the eldest listed first and so on down.

While youths cannot be called at present until they reach the age of 20 years, it has been indicated by officials that it is not unlikely that this will be changed if and when the present supply of men within the age limits is now established is exhausted.

Darrell Eugene Johnson of Wayne was issued the first order number in this last group registered. His order number is 10,880.

Following are the first thirty listed following Mr. Johnson: Melvin A. Jenkins, Carroll Donald H. Echtenkamp, Wayne Leonard D. Roberts, Wakefield Rt. 1.

Scrap Drive In County To Reach Climax This Week

Old Tractor Puts County In Scrap Race

21,600 Pound Machine Sends Total To 25 Tons

Wayne county's metal scrap pile in the state-wide campaign reached the 50,000 pounds mark Sunday night, thanks largely to Oscar Peterson and the famed Beat 'Em All 4-H club which justified its name again by collecting 21,600 pounds of scrap metal which came to town under its own power. The 21,600-pound addition to the county's scrap pile was in the form of a huge, old style tractor belonging to Peterson and used by him for threshing.

Eating up gasoline by the gallon, the huge tractor was brought to Wayne under its own power and parked in front of the Coed theatre, where some 36 4-H club members were admitted in return for some two tons of scrap metal. Arrangements for the scrap metal show Sunday were made by Phil March, theatre owner and county chairman of the salvage committee.

Members of the club arranged with Mr. Peterson for the sale of the big Avery and then worked most of the day on it, removing the lugs and preparing it for its journey to Wayne. Club members who aided in this work are Walt Herman, leader; Leland Herman, Lester Lutt, Don Meyer and Eugene, Warren and Gordon Helgren. The Helgren boys' father also aided in this work along with Chet Walters, extension agent.

When the tractor was brought to Wayne, it attracted a large crowd in the business district, thus helping to publicize this county's campaign for scrap.

It should make the club a strong contender in the 4-H scrap contest.

County Bonds, Stamp Sales Nearing Quota

Wayne county War Bond and Stamp purchases for July remained about $5,000 short of the $36,000 quota assigned to this county Monday, Russell Larson, county chairman, reported. However, Mr. Larson pointed out that purchases of this week should total that much and enable the county to reach the heavy goal assigned to it.

Purchases of bonds amounting to $7,985 on Friday a week ago, American Heroes Day, sent the total soaring. These bond purchases were exclusive of war stamps bought on that date, which added considerable to the total. Rollie W. Ley is in charge of the sale of bonds.

Induction Of Married Men Must Continue

Because calls for men for the armed service are larger than the available supply of single 1-A men in Nebraska, many local boards must continue induction of married men to meet quotas, Brigadier General Guy N. Henninger, state selective director, said this week.

"It is true," the general said, "that recent revisions in selective service regulations direct local boards to call single 1-A men before turning to married registrants."

"But it is also true that the same revisions order local boards to continue meeting their induction calls—a fact which Washington press and radio announcements of the revisions failed to emphasize," he added.

Many Nebraska local boards had already exhausted their immediately available supplies of single 1-A men when announcement of the revisions was made, the general said, and those boards which still had a supply of these men to draw from will deplete that supply in August.

Business Firms, Residents, Farms Will Contribute

The Wayne county scrap metal campaign will reach a climax this week as a canvass of business, residential and farm districts for all available scrap will be conducted.

Canvass of the business district will be made Thursday by the Chamber of Commerce Industrial salvage committee headed by W. C. Coryell, chairman, and composed of B. J. Brandsteter, Harry Craven, Martin Ringler, Chet Walters, Tommy Roberts, Floyd Conger, and Ted Foust. They will be in charge of the pickup of scrap metal from the business establishments of Wayne.

All Asked To Help

The business district will be divided into sections and a member of the committee will call on each business house to ask them to collect their scrap and place it on the curb in front of their store or in the alley so that it may be picked up by the city truck Thursday. The city is furnishing its truck and two men to make this pickup.

A similar collection of scrap in the residential districts of Wayne will be made Friday with the women's division, headed by Mrs. Ted Foust, chairman, in charge. A city truck will be used to make this collection. Every resident of Wayne is urged to clean out his basement and attic and pile the scrap on the curb in front of his home to facilitate collection, separating scrap metal from scrap rubber. Mrs. Foust and her committee plan a canvass of every household in Wayne to seek their co-operation.

Also Rural Areas

A collection of donated scrap in the rural districts will begin Monday evening with a special committee, headed by Al Lueders and Frank Erkleben, chairman, in charge. A county truck will be used for this canvass. Farmers who have scrap they wish picked up are urged to notify the AAA office or the county extension office and have the scrap in piles ready to be picked up. Those who have heavy pieces such as boilers or tractors, which require special equipment to handle, should mention this so that special arrangements may be made.

Proceeds from all scrap donated during the campaign will be turned over to the county Civilian Defense committee and the local chapter of the Red

Science In The News

By ORSON D. MUNN, L.H.B., L.L.B., S.C.D. Editor, Scientific American

Priorities on metals of all kinds is a subject much in the news today, yet the restrictions imposed have been so far felt by the general public more in the way of complete restrictions on certain types of goods rather than by old familiar articles dressed up in new form. Yet it is just this matter of new dress for old articles that shaped up one of the most fascinating pictures of scientific research and development that has so far come out of our present difficulties. Our armed forces need metals—metals of all kinds, from aluminum to zinc. Many of the common articles of household and personal use have formerly been made of these same metals.

In fact it seemed, when priorities were first imposed, that many of these same objects would have to be removed from the market. Some of them, indeed, did disappear, but others started to change shape or color, to feel differently than formerly—substitute or alternate materials were being brought into play in an endeavor to supply to the American public those necessities that were demanded, yet at the same time not interrupt the flow of critical materials to those industries which are supplying our war needs. And these substitutes, developed by the application of scientific research, often are just as good as or even better than the materials they replace.

Probably one of the most outstanding developments of alternate materials as concerns the average man has been made by National Carbon Co., Inc., in the design of a new "Eveready" flashlight to meet the needs of the moment. Flashlights were hard hit by priorities, yet they are in even greater demand for civilian defense and other activities than they ever were in the past. Also, the armed forces themselves need flashlights. But formerly flashlights used quantities of copper, brass, nickel, aluminum, chromium, and steel in their construction, and substitute materials needed these metals even more for other purposes than they do for lights.

With all these factors in mind, engineers in the world's largest flashlight and battery laboratory decided to design an "Eveready" flashlight that could be manufactured in quantities without using needed metals. That they have succeeded is a tribute to the intelligent application of lessons that have been learned about substitute materials and how to use them. In the new flashlight, the case is made of five layers of jute and craft papers firmly bonded and coated with a plastic varnish that renders the tube water repellent. The bottom of the case, made to the smallest possible dimensions consistent with strength, is clinched in place, the head being removable for battery changing.

The reflector of this new flashlight is made of a molded plastic, saving aluminum. The reflector surface is plated with a silver-like finish to maintain light efficiency. Altogether, the strategic non-ferrous metals have been cut to an irreducible minimum. Even the use of steel has been cut to the bone. Yet, tests show, the unit is amply strong for even the roughest type of service that it is likely to encounter.

This is only one example of the many cases of substitute material use during wartime, but it is selected as outstanding because of the manner in which the designers and engineers went all the way in the use of substitutes, instead of trying to patch an old design with a bit of substitution here and a bit there.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Hitler found out that his high powered mechanized and motorized army bogged down in the snow and mud of the Russian Winter. Although our Army is largely mechanized the cavalry horse is still a highly essential factor in this mounted division and in the Field Artillery. The Army also maintains remount farms where many cavalry horses are bred and raised.

These select horses cost from $100 to $185 and our crack cavalrymen are expert riders and carry on the traditions which have followed the cavalry from the earliest days of the Army. Purchase of War Savings Bonds will insure good mounts for the Cavalry. You and your neighbors buying War Bonds and Stamps regularly every pay day can help buy these horses for the U. S. Cavalry. NEW SCRAP DRIVE

The new scrap drive and contest will reach its climax in Wayne this week with a canvass of the business district for all available metal and rubber on Thursday will be followed by a similar canvass of the residential districts Friday.

It is virtually impossible to over-estimate the need for all available scrap metal and rubber for the war effort. A generous response is essential if American industries are to reach their maximum production of the implements of war. Hundreds of tons of scrap were sold or donated by Wayne county farmers in a previous drive and this county raised its full quota in the recent scrap rubber campaign.

However, there are still hundreds of tons of metal and rubber, no longer in use in Wayne county, which have been overlooked or are being retained in the belief that at some distant date they may again be needed. The national need is great and sale or donation of all this scrap is essential now—not weeks or months from today.

Wayne county has responded well to other campaigns and officials in charge of this campaign are making every effort to make this county a contender for the liberal prizes being offered by the Omaha World-Herald in the Nebraska scrap drive. Plan now to co-operate to the fullest extent. You may not believe that you have any scrap metal or rubber to sell or contribute but it will take only a few minutes of your time to make a thorough search of your house, basement, yard or business house. Do it now and help both your home town and your country.

WAR WOES

When the sale of sugar was temporarily halted and rationing was started, some few Americans complained rather bitterly. The vast majority accepted sugar rationing in the right spirit as a minor inconvenience necessitated by the war. Now, it appears that the new sugar crop has relieved the shortage to a great extent and restrictions are being eased so that most of us have all the sugar we want, probably more than is good for us. Naturally, some are complaining now that there was never a serious shortage and that rationing was unnecessary. However, officials, who were in a position to know, deemed it correct that it was better to be safe than sorry.

This same attitude of taking as few chances on the outcome of the war and the time it will continue is reflected in the government's conduct of the entire conflict. Many are complaining that enough risks are not being taken and that the delay in getting our vast war machine and fighting men to the war fronts is allowing the enemy too many advantages and prolonging the war. Certainly mistakes have been made and doubtless some criticism is justified. On the other hand, far greater would be the sacrifice of men and the danger of eventual defeat if we plunged into the conflict by opening a second front without sufficient forces and all fighting and transportation equipment necessary to maintain it.

It is true that the picture in Russia today is far from bright and that the Russians are in desperate need of help. They have fought and are still fighting the greatest fight in the history of that nation. But a vain attempt to help Russia would endanger the hopes of the United Nations far more than the present policy. While official figures on the number of American troops now in Ireland and defending Australia have not and will not be released, news clippings indicate that Uncle Sam is assembling large armies in those areas and plenty of action may be expected as soon as our military leaders decide that we are ready for a successful invasion. They know the facts and we'll trust their judgment against that of street corner strategists.

THE PRIMARY

While several of the candidates have been active in Wayne county during past few weeks, the primary election, now only two weeks away, apparently isn't arousing the interest it merits. True, all topics appear trivial when compared with the great war and the thousands of ways it affects all of us. We need not dodge any of our war responsibilities to devote attention to the election of the best qualified men to serve us as county, state and federal officials. The primary races are particularly important this year in Wayne county because winners in several races will be virtually assured of election since the democratic party failed to file a full slate of candidates.

Plan now to vote Aug. 11 and meanwhile investigate the qualifications of the various candidates seeking your support, their past records and pledges for the future. Only thus can you vote intelligently and intelligent voting is a necessity if a democracy is to function efficiently.

THE RED CROSS

The Red Cross is functioning efficiently and carrying out some important services in support of the war effort in Wayne county. In addition to the special sewing projects, training courses and other well known war activities, the Red Cross is serving a most important and appreciated link between our fighting men and their relatives and friends at home. Prof. Kenneth Parke, who heads this important phase of Red Cross work, has made it possible for several of the Wayne county boys to obtain furloughs when emergencies arose at home and has relieved the worries of many parents who have boys on the distant battle fronts when letters were long delayed.

Wayne county is fortunate in having such capable leaders in the Red Cross chapter here and they are doing a splendid job.

GETTING DOWN TO CASES

Washington, D. C., July 27—Important developments are taking place in the 7-year-old tussle to make the Wagner Act live up to its program, i. e.: "To prevent any person from engaging in any unfair labor practice affecting commerce." The National Labor Relations board was created in August, 1935. How far it failed in its purpose is shown in the fact that in 1941 new administration boards handled strikes and other union labor troubles. Still there were 3,312 strikes that threw 1,849,495 workers out of employment with a loss of 19,092,312 days.

A large number of bills have been introduced in congress to stop the economic waste of strikes that affect many millions of the population besides employers and workers. But all these bills were defeated in one or the other branch of congress.

The recent action of the War Labor board increasing the wages of 157,000 "little steel workers" 44 cents a day touched off an explosion that seemed to bring the President and congress to better understandings, and word went out of Washington that there would be legislation to prevent further upsets "in any unfair labor practice affecting commerce." Commerce has broadened out its meaning since last December, as war production has become the big problem.

Number one "practice affecting commerce" is inflation. Costs and prices are the headaches. The emergency is so pressing that the administration and war boards and agencies feel they must have definite laws to employ in setting never-ending threats of labor troubles.

These are some of the reasons why administration and congress are getting down to cases, and have reached the conclusion that there must be definite legislation at an early date to stabilize all items concerning labor costs, including wages.

NOW PLEASED AND PROUD

One of the most remarkable phenomena of contemporary American history is the rapid change in public attitude toward war industry since Pearl Harbor, particularly toward the automotive industry since it is the big gun of American war production.

When the Japanese upset the Sunday calm of Pearl Harbor with a sneak raid they also upset the calm of the American people. One of the by-products of this upset was a sudden demand that war industry achieve the miraculous. For some time after December 7 criticism was leveled at industry for being too slow. In reality the producers of American war materials were not being slow. They were quietly achieving the miracles demanded of them. As Paul Garrett, vice president of General Motors, and chairman of the public relations committee of the Automotive Council for War Production declared at a recent meeting of the council "Actually it is not a case of slow conversion. It was a case of changed psychology."

Suddenly, like a quickly blooming flower, the massive proportions of the automotive industry's war production were very evident and a hypercritical public became pleased and proud instead. To quote Mr. Garrett, "A Gallup poll on this industry that was in the doghouse only last January would show an amazing reversal in public opinion."

He revealed that the automotive industry is now turning out military equipment at the rate of $12,000,000 a day, a new feat in military history. That is reason on No. 1 for the changed American attitude. There are other sound reasons for the attitude: "The manner in which the industry achieved the conversion of war production with a relatively small drop in employment; the manner in which it has utilized subcontracting to get the job done, the manner in which a normally competitive industry buried its competitive spirit, except in quantity of production, without government control, the manner in which it subordinated all normal industrial interests to the needs of a nation at war, and finally, the manner in which the industry has told its war production story—without complaint when criticism was rife and without now saying "we told you so." In short, the automotive industry well deserves the high regard in which it is held.

JOBBERS ON THE JOB

The house of naval affairs committee has brought out testimony which shows that some of the fair-haired boys, acting as manufacturers' agents, have managed to haul in around a half million dollars a year from commissions on government contracts in a year's time.

The "jobbers" have their firms and one of the firms turns out to be a family of four—pa, ma, two sons.

"IN THE GOOD OLD SUMMER TIME"

The summer days are here and to quote from the Book of Job a lot of oven-heated Washingtonians might observe: "My skin is black upon me, and my bones are burned with heat." But that doesn't get a government worker a traditional 30-day vacation. Besides, most government employees worked on the Fourth of July, which for the first time in history was declared NOT a holiday.

It's a hundred miles or more from all these Eastern cities to the real country—and that is about as far as anyone can get away from home and be sure of gas. Summer vacationists have driven their cars from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and vice versa. This year the folks from the East have found it impossible to go to the National parks, particularly west of the Mississippi. New England has always been a favorite resort because of climate, mountains and sea shore.

The whole Atlantic coast, including Atlantic City, Virginia Beach, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida aren't doing as well as usual. Reports reaching Washington indicate similar conditions along the Pacific Coast from the Canadian border to Southernmost California.

So, it all adds up to show that millions of people are staying at home, and spending their vacations in the old-fashioned way with friends and neighbors. The good old summer time was always that way before automobiles were made and flying machines invented. But why bring that up?

BATTLE FRONTS

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts has told Washington newsmen thrilling adventures and bravery of American air men and soldiers on foreign battle fields with the British, whom he saw when he was at Tobruk and in the African desert.

The "Western Front" remains in a conversational stage, and the nightly raids by more than a thousand planes upon German cities seemed to peter out in a few nights, notwithstanding the promises of Mr. Churchill. American flyers participated in some of those air attacks upon Germany.

Our men are in every part of the world and are rendering good account of themselves, particularly in our war against Japan.

The reverses suffered by Russia are disturbing a lot of statesmen in Washington. Most of them are urging an attack on the Western Front; others are countering with precautions not to be in "too big a hurry."

Meanwhile Washington grows like a mushroom and it is crowded with soldiers, government employees and thousands of new families. There's a battle front in line in all places to eat, every noon and evening.

SECOND-CLASS MAIL

The postage rates on newspapers and publications were threatened with higher ceilings recently. Congress and the post office department became quite concerned when the ways and means committee of the house suggested a boost of $102,000,000 on rates of second and third-class mail. The postmaster general didn't have very much trouble in getting congress to drop the matter. But the idea has been referred to the house committee on post roads with instructions to hold some hearings. Nothing has developed yet, but Uncle Sam has the "gimmies," and bond sales and taxes still leave him short.

It's the opinion of this Washington correspondent that publishers should talk with their senators and congressmen, pretty soon.

PIPE LINES

Nine or ten new pipe lines are being laid from the oil fields, all pointing towards the east. They will supplement railroad oil transportation.

The weather has been too hot to worry much about fuel oil and coal shortages for the coming winter. In big cities like Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington and southern cities the largest amount of heating units are oil burners. There seems to be no doubt but what they will be provided with ample supplies of oil before the drop of thermometers in the early fall.

ROUND-UPS

Nearly 1,200 persons have been convicted on various charges of disloyalty and sentenced to prison terms up to 20 years, says a report by Attorney General Biddle.

Some politicians could perform a great service to their party by joining the opposition.—Nebraska Journal.

WHAT TO DO WITH MONEY

A few years ago, many of us were asking ourselves the question, "What shall we use for money?" That was during the time those of us with long memories call the Depression. Now it is different. Everybody who really wants to work can find a job at good pay. It may not be just exactly what he likes to do; many people have had their usual occupations or businesses interrupted by war conditions. But there are jobs for all, and the pay is good. We have lost our unemployment problem, except for the unemployables.

That is the usual result of a war—increased employment and more money in circulation. Twenty-five years ago, we were in another war. Then, as now, jobs were plenty and money was easy. Prices were sky high, but there was plenty of goods to be had. Factory workers wore silk shirts, sometimes to work in. The main difference between that war and the present one is that now we have a growing shortage of merchandise. That is not going to improve, at least not until the course of the war is pretty well decided, and we can predict about when it will be over. It's a brand new experience for a good many Americans to have money in their pockets and no place to spend it.

We've often heard that advice is cheap, and seldom worth its price. But at the risk of trafficking in that sort of commodity, this column takes its courage in its hand and offers a few suggestions about what to do with money. The number one thing to do is to buy war stamps and bonds as liberally as possible. That represents money saved rather than spent. It is putting away something for the future, in the safest possible place to put it. And the quickest way to get the war won and paid for is to keep the war chest full.

Next, contribute generously to the war agencies that are not directly supported by the Government, such as the Red Cross and the U. S. O., with a thought for the relief funds of the peoples of other nations less fortunate than we are. Next, use surplus funds to pay debts. There is a clear net profit in paying up obligations that are costing 5 or 6 per cent, or more, to carry. Paid now, those debts will not be hanging over our heads when money may not be quite so plentiful.

Perhaps the next most important things for which to spend money are education, and the upkeep of the home, so far as materials are available for repairs and renovation. Beyond those things, it is quite likely that our good old Uncle Sam is going to reach pretty deeply into the pocketbook for higher taxes. We can't begrudge him what he takes. We get more real value for tax money than they do in any other country. For where is there a better place to live than under the Stars and Stripes? Money is a fine thing to have. We can do a lot with it. But when money is relatively easy to earn and save, we should not forget the values that cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents—good health, good character and good humanity, along with the spirit of mutual helpfulness.

KRENNA GO GETTER CALF CLUB NEWS

The meeting was called to order by Loren Willer, president. Eleven members were present. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. Marvin Baird gave a demonstration on "How to Show a Calf". Members discussed having a booth at the fair and what kind to make. It was decided to hold an extra meeting in the afternoon of July 26, at the Fred Baird home. The motion was made and seconded that the meeting be adjourned. Guests were Jim Maben, Martin Willers, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Splittgerber and family. Lunch was served by Mrs. Russell Lindsay who was assisted by Mr. Ernest Splittgerber. The next meeting will be held in the evening of August 18, at the Bernhard Splittgerber home. News Reporter, Marian Skovsenske.

Nebraska farmers have an opportunity to make a real contribution to knowledge about the weeds, Extension Agronomist D. L. Gross of the Nebraska College of Agriculture said this week. Gross explained that the mowing of such noxious weeds as Knapweed, dogbane, and tarweed at certain critical times over a period of several years might reduce infestations of these weeds, and perhaps eventually destroy them. "Experiments to determine the effectiveness of the methods are about to be started," Gross said. "It would be well if farm operators likewise were to carry out such experiments. Perhaps they might volunteer to do this work according to suggestions of the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station and thus hasten the progress of such studies."

OPPORTUNITY IN WEED CONTROL

The agronomist also pointed out that the Nebraska weed law requires that landowners mow the weeds growing on roads adjacent to their property. Owners of building lots in cities and towns are required to mow the weeds on such property. Twenty minutes study and practice should enable the average person to pick out most of the non-laying hens in his flock, Extension Poultryman, J. R. Redditt said this week. He pointed out that good layers have dry, shriveled, scaly combs. Good dry, shriveled, scaly skinned varieties have pale or bleached beaks, legs, and toes. Colors of those prats in non-laying is yellow.

CULL NON-LAYING HENS

Volunteers who will pick up scrap evenings are urged to get in touch with Al Lueders. Wayne county is competing in the World-Herald scrap iron and rubber contest in which $2,000 in prizes is offered. A prize $1,000 awaits the Nebraska county winning the state-wide contest and a prize of $50 will go to the county placing second. Standings will be figured on a per capita basis so that the smaller counties or the state have an equal chance with the more thickly populated ones. Other prizes offered are $300 to the business firm making the largest total collection; $150 to the individual person and $50 to the junior organization such as Boy Scout troop or 4-H which leads the parade. The contest which opened July 19 will end August 8.

What are we fighting for

The Four Freedoms No. 4

NO right thinking people want a war, but they will fight one in order to have peace. They know that only while there is peace can there be real freedom, and that happiness and progress are the fruits of peace. The happiness of home and family is destroyed if it is haunted by the constant fear that fathers, sons, husbands and sweethearts may have to sacrifice their lives, no matter how noble the purpose.

We in America are engaged in a great world struggle . . . not just because our peace was treacherously violated, but because threatening forces were gaining strength in the world to carry out their long laid plans for the destruction of all peace-loving and liberty-loving people. We are in this war to win it, not just for America, but for all the peoples of the earth—both for those whose governments safeguard the individual's rights and liberties and for those who have helplessly and unwittingly become the victims of vicious and unscrupulous leaders.

The people of warlike nations or those who are forced to live always in preparation for war are inevitably doomed to privation and misery and to the loss of their liberty. They become underprivileged and unhappy and fall easy prey to the deceptions that are practiced upon them. Compare this with our country which has lived most of its national life in friendship and in peace. We have been able to devote ourselves almost continuously to the pursuits of self-development and constructive projects, with the result that America has been the pace-setter of world progress and become the leader of the nations.

With the world drawn closer together through commerce, communication and aviation, it is clear that amicable neighborliness, economic freedom and mutual assistance must be the order of the day if we are to have permanent peace and continued world progress. Then all people can live free of the frustration that comes from the fear that war may put an end to all their hopes and ambitions. America will see to it that the United Nations win the present war and that all the peoples of the world win the peace that will follow. It must be a world where all people shall be free of fear, where "swords will be beaten into ploughshares" and where there will be "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

These sentiments are presented to you through the co-operation of the following leaders of
