D. A. Jones Is Taken By Death Here

Long Time County Resident Dies After Long Illness

D. A. Jones, resident of Wayne county since 1889 and well known throughout this area, having represented the seventeenth district in the state house in 1897, was taken by death at 6 o'clock Sunday evening.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed Monday but the Beckenhauer Service will be in charge with the Baptist minister conducting the services.

Mr. Jones was born in Claremont county, Ohio, on January 25, 1858. His ancestors were pioneers and he spent most of his life on his farm west of Wayne, moving to the city of Wayne where he resided with his daughter, Mrs. George Sherbahn, in 1907.

The deceased spent two years on the cattle ranges of Texas. Leaving there, he located at Mills county, Iowa, where he married Miss Lucie E. Strahan in 1880. Six children were born to this union, four of whom survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones became residents of Nebraska and Wayne county in 1889 and he resided here continuously until his death.

County Bond Quota Hiked

Wayne Seeks To Top $37,900 Assignment

Wayne county faces a quota of $37,900 in the August war bond sales campaign and every effort will be made to go over the top again as was done in July when total bonds and stamps sales amounted to $42,885.

Increased sales during the last week of the month plus the heavy sales made on National Heroes Day, when Wayne merchants co-operated in publicizing and pressing the sale of both war bonds and stamps contributed greatly to the success of the campaign in July.

The special barometer on which sales were recorded during the month on the Boyd hotel building will record the progress of the campaign this month.

Another major factor in the July campaign was a contest sponsored by the Brown-McDonald company for its employees.

RYE WARNING IS ISSUED

Prospects are that some rye will be brought into Wayne county this fall for feed and seed and a warning was issued Monday that many areas which produce rye are infested with bindweed so that extreme caution should be exercised.

For the past two weeks, we have canvassed virtually every town and city in north and central Nebraska and western Iowa seeking a qualified operator and the story is the same everywhere.

However, our search was not entirely in vain and in the very near future—probably next week—The News will return to its usual size and publication of the Advertiser, which was suspended for the same reason last week, will be resumed permanently.

But, to forget our woes and return to the city in general, we extend our congratulations to Lieut. Chet Walters, who resigned his post as extension agent in Wayne county this week to do his bit for Uncle Sam.

Loss of Lieutenant Walters will throw the burden of responsibility for the success of the 4-H clubs free county fair here on the shoulders of his successor and Win Swett, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

Wayne State Teachers College's staff members are enjoying their annual month's vacation this month. The summer session closed last Friday, August 7, and college will reopen for the fall term a month to the day later, September 7.

That long needed rain arrived Sunday evening and prospects for an excellent corn crop are much brighter now than they were a few days ago.

Officials in charge of Wayne county's scrap metal campaign deserve great credit for the excellent showing which this county made in the state contest.

Remember Wayne county's record bond and stamp sale quota for this month and send your dimes and dollars to aid your sons, husbands and brothers at the front, on the seas and in the skies.

Remember also that today and today only you have an opportunity to cast your ballot for your favorite candidates in the primary election. Vote as you please, but VOTE.

PILOTS TEST TO BE MONDAY

The mental screen test for civilian pilots will be given at Wayne State Teachers college at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, August 24. All interested in taking this test should report.

July of this year brought cooler weather and about the same amount of precipitation as July of 1941, according to records compiled by the official government weather recording station at Wakefield, according to C. W. Long, observer.

The first half of 1942 has brought cooler weather and more rainfall than the first six months of 1941, Mr. Long pointed out.

Rainfall last month amounted to 1.31 inch compared with 1.35 inch in July, 1941. Rainfall for the first six months of this year measured 14.36 inches compared with 12.17 for the same period last year.

County And State Tax Levies Cut

Wayne, Winside, Hoskins, Sholes Residents Pay Less

A reduction of .16 mill was made in the Wayne county tax levy, which was fixed by the county commissioners at their regular session Tuesday at 2.94 mills. This levy is based on a total valuation of $25,401,685.

The 2.94 mills levy of the county is divided as follows: .20 for unemployment relief; 1.10 for general fund; .80 for general road fund; .70 for bridge fund; .08 for soldiers' relief; .06 for Wayne county fair and nothing for mothers' pensions.

The levy last year of 3.10 mills was divided as follows: .26 for unemployment relief; 1.10 for general fund; .72 for bridge fund; .80 for general road fund; .08 for soldiers' relief; .09 for fair, and .05 for mothers' pensions.

Tuition Levy Cut
Free high school tuition levy was slashed from 1.46 last year to .92 mill this year while the assessment for bindweed control was raised from a half cent an acre to one cent. Old age tax of $2. per person and the bee tax of 10 cents per colony were unchanged.

The state tax levy has also been reduced from 2.88 mills last year to 2.60 mills this year. This year's levy includes 2.39 for general fund and .21 for insane fund.

Wayne Taxes
Total tax to be paid by Wayne residents will be 44.58 mills compared with 46.22 mills a year ago. This year's levy is divided as follows:

- State and county levy, 5.54 mills.
School tax levy, 16.86 mills.
Bond levy, 2.08 mills.
City levy, 20.10 mills.
(This city levy is based on a valuation of $1,801,750 and compared with a levy of 23.10 mills a year ago.)

The tax levy to be paid by Winside residents is also slightly less than that paid a year ago. This year it is 24.54 compared with 24.98. It includes this year in addition to the state and county levy, which is naturally the same as in Wayne, a school levy of 8 mills and a city levy of 11 mills. The Winside city tax is based on a valuation of $312,360.

Carroll Levy Up
Carroll residents, however, face a considerably higher levy than last year—34.05 mills compared with 30.48 mills. This includes a school levy of 12 mills and a city levy of 16.50 mills. The city valuation is listed at $220,840.

Hoskins residents will pay virtually the same levy as last year—27.04 mills compared with 27.08 mills. This includes a school levy of 6.80 mills; bond levy 3.90 mills and city levy of 11 mills, based on a valuation of $142,160.

Sholes residents will pay almost a mill less than last year—15.66 compared with 16.50. This includes a school levy of 6.62 and a city levy of 3.50, the latter based on a valuation of $92,785.

The few Wakefield residents living in Wayne county will pay in addition to the state and county levy, a city levy of 11 mills, based on a valuation of $42,755.

FAREWELL AND THANKS -WALTERS

(By Chet Walters)
By the time this article is published in the newspapers, I will have been sworn into the army. I am happy to have the opportunity of serving our country and doing my bit toward bringing the war to a victorious finish.

I wish to take this means of thanking all those with whom I have worked in Wayne county. The three and one-half years that I have served as extension agent in the county have been an enjoyable experience. I wish to especially thank the 4-H club leaders, women's project club leaders, members of the Farm Bureau board, members of the Wayne County Fair board, Board of Supervisors of the Wayne County Noxious Weed district, editors of the Wayne county newspapers, county commissioners, Wayne Chamber of Commerce, and all others who have been very co-operative in helping to carry on the agricultural extension program in Wayne county.

While the next county extension agent has not been definitely appointed at this time, one will be appointed in the very near future. I am sure that if the same operation is extended to the next agent as has been extended to me that the agricultural extension program will be of ever increasing value to Wayne county people.

If there is anything which I regret it is that it has not been possible to work with more people in the county. However, it is impossible for any one individual to know and work with as many people as there are living in Wayne county in a period of three and one-half years. I would like to urge all of the people, both rural and town, to cooperate with the County Extension Service any time it can be of service to them. They will find the County Extension and its personnel in this and every county in the state, willing and anxious to provide for them every service that it is possible for them to give.

Rain Aids Corn Crop

Showers on Sunday Measure Nearly Half Inch

Wayne received .46 of an inch rain Sunday through a series of showers, which will be of inestimable benefit to the corn crop throughout this section of the state. Sunday's rain brought the total precipitation thus far this month to .73 of an inch.

While some sections of the county have received considerably more moisture than has fallen in Wayne in recent weeks, the rainfall was needed in this immediate vicinity. Total rainfall last year during the entire month of August was 2.29 inches.

Rainfall as recorded on the gauge at the Carhart Lumber company here this month has measured as follows:

August 1, .10 inch; August 5, .11; August 6, .06; August 9, .46.

While July brought many showers, they were widely scattered with some sections of the county receiving ample moisture while others reported little rain.

Three County Class 'B' Men Accepted By Army

Three Wayne county men who answered the call for Class B men—Melvin Horst of Fullerton, Walter Sund of Wayne and Arnold Mau—have been accepted by the army. The first two listed, Mr. Horst and Mr. Sund, will enter the service as I-1 men since they were accepted as such when they were re-examined.

Three other county men, Milo Siel, D. Lueders and Joe Brandl, have enlisted in the armed service and been credited to Wayne county, according to the Selective Service board. Mr. Siel and Mr. Lueders are both of Wayne, and Mr. Brandl's home is at Coleridge.

DEADLINE FOR FAIR ENTRIES

All livestock entries for the state fair must be in the state 4-H club office by August 20 and August 28 is the deadline for all other entries, according to Chet Walters, extension agent. Entries for the 4-H calves may be made during the county fair here, which is scheduled for August 24, 25 and 26.

Walters To Army As Lieutenant

Successor to County Agent To Be Selected

Chester Walters, extension agent in Wayne county since the reorganization of the Wayne County Farm Bureau three and a half years ago, has received an appointment as First Lieutenant in the army and left Wayne to report to the Mead ordnance plant today Tuesday.

Lieutenant Walters' appointment culminates several months of effort on his part for assignment to active duty in a branch of the armed services. He successfully passed his physical examination more than a week ago and was told at that time to be ready for call soon. However, his orders were not received until last Friday.

While his successor as county extension agent in Wayne county has not been selected, several agents in other counties are reported to be interested in the post. Funds have been allotted by the county for a portion of the expenses of this office so farmers are assured that the work will be continued.

Mr. Walters won an excellent reputation throughout the state for outstanding work in Wayne county. A marked increase in the number and projects completed successfully by the women project clubs and the 4-H clubs of the county together with a crowded program of activities and projects for the farmers reflect credit on his work. He also took an active role in community work of all kinds and has co-operated with local civic leaders and organizations for the mutual benefit of Wayne and the farmers throughout this section of the state. He served as assistant manager of the Wayne county fair both in 1941 and 1940 and deserves a large share of the credit for its success. He has also taken the lead in farm co-operation with the various war campaigns.

Bert Surber Rites Held

Wayne County Pioneer Taken By Death Friday

Bert Surber, Wayne county pioneer, passed away at his home in Wayne at 7 o'clock Friday morning after an illness of several months due to heart trouble.

Funeral services were conducted at the Beckenhauer chapel with the Rev. C. L. Eads, Baptist pastor, officiating at 10:30 Monday morning. A large crowd of friends attended the services as Mr. Surber was well known throughout this area. Burial was in the local cemetery.

So you and your neighbors can do your bit by investing at least 10 percent of your salary every pay day in War Bonds to help pay the cost of this equipment for intrepid American flyers. ## A NEW FUTURE...

With VICTORY, Nebraska looks to New Horizons, a NEW FUTURE. Agriculture is Nebraska's Biggest Business. As it prospers, so prosper all of us.

Chemists are pointing the way to new uses for farm products. Grain alcohol-synthetic rubber plants should be built promptly in Nebraska. Congressman Harry B. Coffee was the first to urge this on Congress last January.

Some of Coffee's other effective efforts in behalf of Nebraska Agriculture: sponsored the 85% Parity Loan Program; author present Federal Seed Labeling Act; sponsored legislation authorizing disposal of surplus Agricultural products through Relief channels . . . this resulted in the Food Stamp Plan. He will continue to fight to preserve the American Market for the American Producer. He supported every measure designed to protect our National Security—but opposed all measures he felt would involve us in war.

her spare time collecting old phonograph records from radio artists. These are turned in to a phonograph company which has agreed to match each old disc for a new one to be sent to the doughboys.

Kay Kyser's NBC "College of Musical Knowledge" will emanate from Hollywood for the rest of the year while the Ole Professor is busy making his fifth motion picture.

Raymond Paige, pictured here, is one of the versatile music conductors. He switched from a 99-piece symphonic group to an authentic "theatre pit" type of orchestra with which he currently supplies the music for radio's "Star Spangled Vauceville" series over NBC Sunday nights.

Bois in the service don't care particularly for war songs. Andre Kostelanetz, CBS "Pause That Refreshes" conductor, finds. A survey shows, he reports, that they prefer such numbers as "Tangerine," "I Don't Want to Walk Without You" and "String of Pearls."

Dinah Shore may make her film debut with Eddie Cantor, in the comedian's musical which is to start shooting in September. Meanwhile the famed songstress continues her Friday night programs on the Blue network at 9:30 p. m., e. v. t.

Ordinarily, Sammie Hill, pictured here, plays ingenue leads, but her role as Betty Ryan in "The Story of Bess Johnson" is a complete departure from her usual parts. Betty is a meddlesome 13-year-old, who is one of the chief thorns in Bess Johnson's side.

Edward R. Murrow's most unusual broadcast was the one in which a telephone conversation, worked out in advance, between Ed in London and William L. Shirer in Berlin was aired in the U. S. Ed heard Bill's voice after it had traveled by short wave to New York and then been relayed by short wave to London.

George Sebastian, pictured here, was head of all broadcast music in the Soviet Union for five years before coming to this country and is now duplicating his fame in American radio. He conducts the orchestra on "Great Moments in Music" over CBS Wednesday nights.

The major credit for the entire performance must go to the cast and their employees, and to shippers of the country. The railroads did not forget the lessons which they learned in the last World War. This time they were organized, and their plans were ready. They built those plans around the proposition that the way to move freight is to keep the cars rolling, and that the unforgivable sin is to allow cars to be loaded which cannot be unloaded when they reach destination.

That is a tribute to private enterprise—and a tribute which has been thoroughly earned. The railroads are a perfect example of flexibility of private enterprise—of its ability to swiftly and efficiently adapt itself to unprecedented problems and conditions. More than a year ago, harbingers of doom were forecasting that the railroads would soon collapse from inability to handle the load. The record of performance is their answer.

This magnificent record is also the best possible answer to those who would use the war as a means of rapidly socializing the industries of this country. What the railroads are doing, other basic industries are doing. Free enterprise will win the war.

A REAL JOB

War has brought new and vitally important jobs to the retailers of this country.

The pinch of shortages is only beginning to be felt by the bulk of consumers. Stocks of certain kinds of goods which are no longer manufactured are dwindling fast. Even in the food field, many items will disappear. In all fields, the consumer will have a smaller range of choice than he has been accustomed to.

So one of the retailer's new tasks is to help the consuming public make, with as little discomfort as possible, the great adjustments in living standards resulting from war's enormous demands on our productive resources. And most retailers of the country, little ones as well as big, are cooperating to the limit of their abilities in doing that. They are featuring abundant, reasonably-priced foods and manufactured goods. They are helping the consumer choose suitable and satisfactory substitutes for scarce and costly items. They are showing us how we may avoid waste, and make what we buy go farther.

On top of that, they are doing other work, of great importance to the war effort. They are, for example, aggressively selling and promoting the sale of War Stamps and War Bonds—at their own expense, and without a penny of recompense. They are cooperating with the government in fighting speculation, profiteering and hoarding. They have accepted great responsibilities, and they are discharging them fully. The retailers are protecting our standard of living to the greatest possible extent. While they can't keep us supplied with "luxuries as usual" in these times, they are doing a real job, a vital job, in our interest.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

As a nation, Americans haven't been fighting this war—not by a long shot," said Life recently. "A comparative handful hasn't even begun. Most of America is earning big money, eating well, rolling up new betting records at the horse races, dashing around the country on rubber that is absolutely irreplaceable. The only battle the U. S. citizens have won so far is the battle of the newspaper headlines. Meanwhile the Axis pushes in, rings us with steel, accumulates real bases all over the world."

That is a pretty tough statement, but the facts certainly bear it out. The incredible optimism concerning the war that still seems to prevail in some quarters is not shared by real military men. As General Somervell, the Army's chief of supply, said in a 4th of July speech at Detroit, the United Nations have taken a terrific shattering in every corner of the world. And most of us, he added, have no idea of the magnitude and difficulty of the job that lies ahead. The hard truth is that Hitler and his brother dictators have done more to change the map of the world than any conquerors in modern

National Industries Weekly Review

The Nation's Leading Letter by J. E. JONES Washington, D. C.

"HIGH GRADE SOLDIER"

In a recent comment upon price control, Leon Henderson, administrator of the OPA, said this: "During these first early weeks we have had the enthusiastic support of the great majority of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. The people have gone to work with a will to make the program succeed. I would like particularly to pay tribute to the nation's 1,900,000 retail store operators. Many of them are experiencing federal regulation for the first time. Some of the regulations admittedly have been difficult. These storekeepers have enlisted wholeheartedly to see that the battle against inflation is won. The retail storekeeper of the country has shown himself to be a high-grade soldier."

That tribute has been well earned. As consumers should recall, retail distribution, fought price inflation long before this country entered the war as a belligerent. It made a determined and successful effort to keep prices at the lowest possible level—even at the expense of its own immediate profits. With a few exceptions, retail merchandising didn't profiteer or speculate. With few exceptions, stores, both small and large, considered protection of the consumer and the country ahead of their own immediate interests.

Unfortunately, the original price freezing order worked a potentially ruinous injustice upon some merchants who had done the most to hold prices down and retard inflation. The order made no allowance for the fact that wholesale prices had increased much faster than retail, prices, and as a result, in many cases, merchants were legally bound to sell goods at a price which returned them little or no profit and which in some instances involved actual operating losses.

Now it looks as if the OPA is recognizing this injustice and has taken steps to correct it. On July 1, Mr. Henderson allowed an increase in the retail prices of the 1942 pack of canned and dried fruits. Similar action should be taken in behalf of other commodities whose current ceiling prices do not give the merchant the return he must have if he is to stay in business.

GREATEST POST-GRADUATE
A short time ago, the American Medical Association held its annual meeting in an eastern city. Despite gasoline rationing, more than 8,000 physicians from all sections of the country attended. And that meeting was of importance to all the American people because it was a symbol for this country's preeminence in medical progress.

Doctors didn't come there for amusement. They came to listen, to learn, to see—to "talk shop." Six or eight motion picture theatres were in operation, showing medical films. There were special assembly halls for lectures, and scientific demonstrations were given on diabetes, heart disease, etc. Visitors from other nations expressed continuous amazement at the scope of the display. As one authority put it the scientific exhibit was "the greatest post-graduate training course ever assembled anywhere in the world."

In war time, a meeting such as that takes on more than ordinary importance. Doctors discussed the advances that are being made in war medicine—in treating patients suffering from horrible wounds. They discussed how the civilian population may be adequately served at a time when thousands of doctors are being called from private practice into uniform. These are problems that affect us all.

American medicine holds and will maintain world leadership. And in the hard years ahead, it will do more for suffering mankind than it ever did before.

CROAKERS EAT CROW

In a recent address, Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, had this to say about the vast difference in the transportation picture in the last war and now: "When we were fighting the first World War, the government took over the railroads—This time, believe it or not, we are less socialistic. The government has not taken over the railroads nor any other carriers, and the Office of Defense Transportation is not operating them. The present arrangement is more like a partnership."

"We cannot fight our best unless transportation is on the job and functioning somewhere near 100 percent every minute. I can say, without boasting, that our domestic transportation has come reasonably close to such a performance ever since the beginning of the emergency in 1939. The reason I can say this 'without boasting' is that I have had comparatively little to do with it.

Professional And Business Men Listed Are Equipped, Trained To Serve You

history. The Russians showed great valor in the defense of Sevastopol. They were hopelessly outnumbered in both men and equipment, and after the first days the Luftwaffe had command of the skies. The Red Army made the Germans pay tremendously for their victory, and, according to the Moscow account, Sevastopol was left a pile of useless ruins. But Sevastopol was a vital position, and its loss is extremely important. Now Germany can release many battle-trained soldiers for service elsewhere. Sevastopol is a key point in Hitler's drive to seize the oil resources of the Caucasus, and to shatter the U. S. supply line to Russia. That is why the German commanders figured it must be taken, no matter how great the cost.

As yet, we have not fully appreciated the extraordinary fanaticism of Axis leaders and troops. With them it is "win or die." They take incredible chances. They fight under the worst climatic and geographical conditions. They violate classic rules of warfare. The commanders are, apparently, completely callous when it comes to shedding the blood of their compatriots. These Axis hordes can be compared in many respects to the brutal hordes of Genghis Khan. To stop them, to defeat them, will require a comparable fanaticism, held in a very urgent cause, on the part of all the United Nations.

From the U. S. point of view, the Jap landings in the Aleutians cannot be passed off casually, as some optimists have tried to do. It is true that a few rock islands, shrouded in fog, off the tip of Alaska, aren't important in themselves. It is also true that Aleutian and Alaskan outposts could be used for devastating raids on the U. S. proper. General Billy Mitchell once said, in effect, that whoever controls Alaska would win the next war. There is no reason to suppose that the Japs raided Dutch Harbor and seized remote Attu and Kiska just for the sake of what military men call a diversion. The Jap commanders have shown, all along, that everything they do is part of a carefully prepared plan, and that everything has a bearing on their grand strategy. It will be hard to drive the Japs out of their Aleutian footholds. The Axis is seeking to encircle this country now, and it has made gigantic progress. That circle must be broken.

Some of the best news is found in ship production figures. Records are being made so fast in leading shipyards, especially the West Coast's Kaiser yards, that it is hard to keep up with them. One yard recently completed a 10,800 ton Liberty ship in 40 days.

At the same time, some experts doubt that the overseas transport problem can be solved by ships alone. Major de Severisky, for instance, looks forward to the time when a great part of our supplies, men and equipment, will be flown to their destinations in air transports of incredible size. This, he argues, is the best way to answer the U-boats—to take our shipping off the seas and put it in the air. Then the submarines can prow about the oceans from now on, without finding anything to destroy.

To Win The War And The Peace

Editor's Note—The following article, written by Hugo L. Black, whom it will be recalled delivered an outstanding address in Wayne in 1936, appeared in last week's edition of "The New Republic". Because it presents so well the war picture today and necessity for complete and unselfish co-operation among ourselves and allies, it is reprinted here:

One of the first steps to take towards winning this war is to get rid of the idea that we could not lose it. It is dangerous to think because we have never lost a war we could not lose one. Japan also boasts that she has never lost a war. The people should know that we are in grave danger of losing if we do not rouse up our minds to do absolutely everything that we can do to defeat the enemy—absolutely everything that we can do, whatever the hardships may be. We must be prepared grudgingly and without complaint—even eagerly—to devote ourselves, and all that we have or can get, to the sole and single cause of winning. Civilian pleasures, business profits, special privileges of every kind, must be subordinated to the one and primary task of an all-out effort to win. We are, therefore, forcibly confronted with the question of personal sacrifice. This means that we must deny ourselves all luxuries and even many things that we have considered to be daily necessities in order to devote every available resource to those who risk their lives on the battle fronts.

Complete victory can be accomplished only through the full cooperative efforts of every man and woman able to work, give or fight—the rich and the poor; the brilliant and the stupid; the white, the yellow, the brown and the black; the Christian and the non-Christian; the Republican, the Democrat, the Socialist and all the rest. In Europe, in Asia, in Africa, in Australia, in Alaska and in our own coastal waters the bombs and torpedoes of the Axis have indiscriminately snuffed out the lives of persons of all groups, races and beliefs. The Axis tyrannies make war against all the peoples of the earth; the sacrificially maimed, blind and dead will be of all colors, all classes and all faiths.

We should not forget the admonition that every country divided against itself is brought to desolation. We must therefore dispense with the luxury of quarreling among ourselves over differences, however important, which do not directly relate to the cause for which we fight. If we win, free men can settle their differences in a democratic way at the ballot box, and in courts whose judges are sworn to uphold the American Constitution. If we lose, there will be no free men, our Constitution will not exist, and all differences will be rapidly liquidated in the Hitler way in concentration camps or by firing squads.

Cooperation with our fighting allies is of equal importance with cooperation among ourselves. This cooperation should be complete and sincere. That our form of government differs from that of some of our allies is no reason against the alliance. We are not a constitutional monarchy as is Britain, nor are we a Union of
