

THE CREED FOR A FREE WORLD

The people of many nations have been lifting their voices and asking "what's going to become of us after the war?" India isn't the only questioner. The Philippines; have no doubts but what they will gain independence.

Wendell Willkie split the subject wide open when he returned from his trip around the world. General Smut gave Britain similar warnings. Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt indicated that the "creed for a free world" would be solved and that freedom and popular government was on the schedules throughout the world.

If you refer to the "great speeches" made a year and a half or two years ago you will find that there were many endorsements of the idea of restoring the League of Nations. Therefore, it is a good sign to observe the rebirth of such ideals.

WHEN OUR DREAMS COME TRUE

It's a lucky thing that American industrial leaders are as optimistic as the politicians are pessimistic. Henry J. Kaiser, West Coast shipbuilder says that the requirements of foreign markets after the war, will be sufficient to keep "every wheel in America turning for several years."

It seems probable that the production of synthetic rubber in the United States will solve the rubber problem for all time. Leaders of chemical industry and the Government Administrator of rubber, told the Herald Tribune Forum this week of a half-dozen methods known to them, which would improve the quality of synthetic properties, over natural rubber, especially in resistance to oil and solvents.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard declared this week that American food would be ready for the conquered nations as soon as the yoke of the Axis was thrown off, and he indicated that there would be world markets for everything that American farms could produce.

A typical axis rumor that American troops overseas are compelled to pay high customs duties on parcels sent to them from home, particularly when they are quartered in Britain or other parts of the British empire, has been investigated and disproved. The rumor has been circulated by the Nazis to worry relatives of American soldiers and sailors and to spread distrust of this country's allies. "Pure rot," is what the U. S. Army Post Office has to say about it.

Housewives and others who stocked upon coffee will have to count all above one pound they have on hand November 28 as part of their ration. The OPA has ruled. Deduction of stamps to cover excessive coffee supplies held by individuals will be made when they apply for War Ration Book No. 2 sometime around the first of the year. The coffee ration regulations will provide that each consumer must retain in his ration book for later surrender, a coffee stamp for each pound of coffee he possesses in excess of one pound. When he applies for War Ration Book No. 2, he will be required to declare the amount of coffee he had on hand at the start of consumer rationing.

Living costs are going up, but not as fast as they would if it weren't for price and rent control. The living cost of families of city workers rose just one percent between September 15 and October 15, the U.S. Labor Department reported.

The Thanksgiving turkey can help win the war even after it has done its duty on the dinner table. Turkey grease and all other waste fats are needed to make glycerine, an essential ingredient in explosives and gunpowder. Add the grease to that which you already have collected and when you have a pound take it to the nearest meat market where you will be paid four cents for it.

The War Production Board has assigned higher preference ratings to processors of dairy products for their equipment, maintenance and repair material by an amendment to Preference Rating Order P-118.

Attendance

Openhouse Was First Of Many Festivities On Holiday Program

Early Thursday evening, crowds thronged Wayne business houses to view the splendid display of gift suggestions and enjoy the annual "Open House" event.

Christmas lights were strung at the intersections in the business district on Monday. In compliance with instructions from the War Department, Christmas lighting has been reduced to 60% of previous years as a means of saving fuel oil. Mayor Herman Lundberg feels that a knowledge of this saving for the war effort, will even add to the Christmas spirit, in place of detract. It is estimated that the savings in Christmas lighting would light 60 average cities for a year.

War And Navy Depts.
Want Your Old Silk
And Nylon Hosiery

The War and Navy Departments have the "gimmies," according to Mark T. Caster, Executive Secretary of the Nebraska State Salvage Committee. Now they want large stocks of silk and nylon. We do not know what the poor lowly silk worms in Japan are doing with their products, but we are not getting it. Our orange plants require silk bags to contain powder charges for the shells used in large caliber guns. Our Army and Navy need more large caliber shells.

No other known material is as good as silk for powder bags because silk burns up entirely and does not deposit any gum or other detrimental material on the inside of the gun.

My lady, or even the mere man who wears silk and nylon hose, now has an opportunity to perform an additional patriotic service. Stocks of discarded silk and nylon hosiery should be washed and dried and donated to the nearby hosiery dealer. When the hosiery dealer has acquired one hundred pounds or more, he will ship his stock, freight charges collect, direct to the Government's representative, Defense Supplies Corporation, c/o John T. Ryan Sons, Inc., Green Island, N. Y.

Kiwanis Enjoy Talk By Norbert Brugger On City's Lighting System

Kiwanis members enthusiastically participated in a chicken dinner and songfest on Monday noon at Hotel Stratton. Two new members, Mr. Dale Anderson, manager of the Golden Rule store and Mr. Milo Drier, manager of the Safeway store were welcomed into the club. A letter was read from Larry Brown who is now in the service.

Mr. Norbert Brugger, engineer of the city light and water plant, gave a very enlightening account of the fundamental principles of electric lighting. Using laymen's terms and chalk sketches, Mr. Brugger explained many interesting points about how Wayne's 24 hour service is maintained. Alternating current is generated at 2400 volts for economical transmission over the lines and reduced to 110 and 120 volts by transformers within two blocks of each patron. Numerous circuits limit the chance of interrupted service to a small section of the town in case of emergency. Two main transmission lines, one on the east and one on the west side, may be joined by a switch at the north end, permitting current to be sent back around the U, in case of a break in either line or a fire. Likewise, the pumping plant at the north part of Wayne permits water being pumped into either set of mains in case of fire or damage to either line. These measures offer double assurance of service in case of emergency and show much foresight in planning the system.

An exceedingly interesting disclosure was made of the "biggest clock in town" keeping the electric clocks accurate. All electric clocks are synchronized with the large generator at the light plant through the 60 cycle feature. Consequently, in keeping the time correct, if the clocks are slow, the speed of the engine driving the generator is increased slightly until the time is accurate; then the governor is set to maintain that speed.

A series of questions brought out many other interesting points.

The county draft board will soon use a new yardstick in reclassifying farmers for military service. To begin with, the amount of livestock on the farm November 12 will be the basis and a producing dairy cow will be the unit, a set number of beef cattle, hogs and poultry being equivalent to a dairy cow. An equivalent of eight dairy cows will be the base from Nov. 12 to Feb. 1, 1943 when a larger base will be used.

In reclassifying married men without children, instructions were received to not "induct any who have reached the age of 45 since registering. Questionnaires have been sent to 18 and 19 year old boys who registered in June. Classification of these boys will be based on this information.

Recent enlistments include the following: Quinton Preston and Dean Bruggeman.

National Goal Of Payroll Savings Drive
Is $500,000,000 Monthly

With the snappy slogan, "Top that ten percent by New Year's," the Payroll Savings Drive is launched by Chairman Russell Larson. The national goal is $500,000,000 monthly from deduction of 10% of gross payroll to invest in War Bonds, and the enrollment of 80,000,000 workers by New Year's. Wage earners in Wayne county will do their share.

How has Payroll Savings reached its current peak? The answer is that in Payroll Savings we have a plan that fits the need. It has been proven that the workers of America want to buy their share of Victory through the most effective and least complicated means, the Payroll Savings fit that to a T.

The American people are determined to win this war. Anything short of this means that our future as a nation and individuals will be spent in the darkness of Axis brutality.

The one word which cannot exist in our vocabulary today is "relax." Twenty-two million participants is an impressive figure, but we cannot rest on our laurels; that's only the start of the job. Let us never relax until Victory is won. New Year's Day, 1943, will be a milestone on the road to victory if wage earners of Wayne county can point to their achievement of topping the ten percent of gross payroll. You and I will be helping win our war if we "Top That Ten Percent By New Year's Lay 'Em On The Fighting Line."

More than 6,000,000 farmers, recipients of Agricultural Adjustment Agency checks, are receiving a leaflet from the Treasury Department urging them to convert a part of all of the payments into War Savings Bonds. Millions of the leaflets began late in October and is to continue until late winter.

State and county AAA workers and state representatives of the War Savings Staff are also to receive copies of the leaflet.

The leaflet, in addition to pointing out the benefits to purchasers of War Bonds, contains an order form on its back to facilitate the conversion of AAA checks into War Bonds. It especially emphasizes that farmers will get $4 for every $3 invested if they hold their bonds until they mature.

"Lay 'Em On the Fighting Line," is the title of the folder, which outlines a three-fold financial plan for farmers. It recommends that farmers "Produce all you can on your farm," "Get your debts in shape," and "Invest to the full limit of your ability in War Savings Bonds both to help your country and safeguard your own future."

Four reasons are given to illustrate that it is both patriotic and profitable for farmers to convert a portion of their income into War Bonds. They are: "You will be helping to buy the fighting equipment needed by your sons," "You will be making the safest investment in the world," "You will be getting a profitable return on your money," and "You will be doing your part to stave off inflation."

"After the war," the leaflet emphasizes, "your savings will enable you to buy the necessities and luxuries you perhaps need now but can't get until then."

"Your savings will provide you with funds for adjustments on your farm, education, travel, recreation and retirement."

It further stresses that "War Bonds are the best form of financial reserve ever offered to United States farmers," and urges these producers to "Make Every Market Day Bond Day."

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Durris came from Omaha Monday evening and visited until Tuesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Needham of Wayne moved into their residence Wednesday of last week. Louie will drive back and forth for the balance of the year.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

Time to Give Thanks.

WHEN THE PILGRIMS SET FOOT ON AMERICAN SOIL THERE LAY BEFORE THEM AN UNCONQUERED WILDERNESS—COLD, PRIVATION, HARDSHIP AND SAVAGE WAR—YET THEY FOUND TIME TO PAUSE... AND GIVE THANKS.

TODAY, WHILE WE ARE FIGHTING TO PRESERVE OUR HERITAGE OF LIBERTY—BORN OF SACRIFICE, NURTURED IN STRUGGLE—WE, TOO, TAKE TIME TO PAUSE... AND GIVE THANKS.

Library Notes

Many of the Wayne people were in this past week to look over the display of new books which were purchased before National Book Week. The greatest interest was shown perhaps in the children's department where they could hardly wait for the books to get into circulation. On November 4 the Christian Century contained an article called "Comics are no Longer Comic" written by Margaret Frakes. For a long time the Parent-Teacher organization has been trying to clean up the comic magazines but it takes more than just one organization. A great deal of indifference on the part of adults about the situation must be overcome. We recommend the reading of this article. One has only to watch the children and see their interest in really good literature to know that it is not the demand of the children for comics that keeps them on our news stands. Three very interesting new books were on display at the library last week but for those who did not see them we wish to call your attention to Audubon's America, The Nutrition Handbook, by Taylor Demetria and the Progress of Science, by H. H. Horton. These titles are of interest to the layman on account of the manner in which they were written. Two extremely interesting books on the war to be found in the library now are, Last Train From Berlin, by Howard Smith and From Suez to Singapore by Cecil Brown. Both of these reporters had some very astounding experiences and have told them in an exciting manner.

Over the Top by New Year's Is the Plea of Secretary Morgenthau

November 13, 1942

As of today twenty-one million American workers are investing eight per cent of their salary—every pay day—in United States War Savings Bonds. This is a very remarkable tribute to our armed forces who are fighting this war. But this job is only two-thirds accomplished.

There are nine million additional American workers who are not investing in War Bonds every pay day.

This appeal is directed to two groups of Americans:

First—the twenty-one million people who are investing eight per cent of their wages. We ask them to increase their investment to ten per cent or more.

Second—the other nine million whom we ask to join the Payroll Savings Plan and to invest ten per cent or more of their earnings.

It is our earnest hope here at the Treasury Department that by New Year's Day thirty million Americans will be investing ten per cent or more of their wages in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Henry Morgenthau Jr.
SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

The Nebraska American Legion has declared an open season on old "jalopies," and they will make a house-to-house, farm-to-farm canvass for these old cars, that they may be added to the nation's scrap pile. The drive will start Monday, Nov. 23, and will continue for fifteen days. In an address prepared for delivery at Indianapolis, Ind., Thursday, M. Clifford Townsend of the Agricultural Adjustment and Conservation Administration will call for immediate establishment of an international organization to enforce permanent peace.

A WHOLESOME SIGN

Prompt payment of taxes is always a wholesome sign. It indicates that incomes are above requirements for bare necessities. Between November 1 and 21, 840 people paid their personal tax 95% paying in full in place of using the option of paying half at this time. The auto tax was paid by 555 during the same period according to J. J. Steele, county treasurer.

More Democratic Spirit

England has witnessed a general leveling influence of all groups alive to the war. The same influence will come out of war's fiery test in the United States, tending towards a more democratic spirit and a new nationalism.

IMPORTANCE OF MOTOR TRANSPORTATION IN OUR SCHEME OF LIFE

The scene at the Wayne auditorium and at designated school houses throughout the county on Friday, when car owners registered for gas rationing books, was a strong indication of the importance which auto transportation has assumed in the scheme of life at the present time. To state that the populace is transportation conscious is putting it mildly. In fact, our mode of life, if not our very existence, is dependent upon the passenger car, together with the motor transport (trucks were registered a few weeks ago) for the exchange and transfer of necessities from their source to the point of consumption.

The task of registering approximately 600 drivers was capably taken care of by teachers and school officials who served cheerfully and courteously during the extended hours required for its completion. Supt. J. W. Litherland and his staff of 19 teachers, Supt. E. B. Decker and seven teachers from the training school and college checked the applications, the car certificates and issued the books.

INDIRECT METHOD

The method of limiting the amount of gas available to car users as a means of saving rubber has been questioned. Keeping necessary transportation moving is of first consideration. In the first place, the system has brought unnumbered thousands of unused tires into use. That in itself is an accomplishment of no small account. As long as human nature remains selfish, some means must be used to protect society from itself. In war time, the individual is subordinate to the group to a much greater degree than in time of peace.

MOVING THE SCRAP

About one feature of the scrap salvage situation there appears to be a misunderstanding that should be corrected. A large portion of the public is worrying because automobile graveyards in particular, and junkyards in general, contain mountains of scrap while intensive efforts are being made to locate every pound that may be mislaid in somebody's basement or garage.

That is not a cause for legitimate worry, but rather for rejoicing. The old jalopies and other scrap are not lying idle. They are in a state of flux. So long as there are piles of metal in the junkyards our hard-pressed steel plants can run to capacity. It will be when the junk piles get small that we should start fretting.

The ferrous metal that reaches junkyards is not all the same. It varies from plain iron to the most valuable steels, the latter containing alloying metals that are worth more than all the gold at Fort Knox so far as the war effort is concerned.

It is the junk dealers' job to sort these different metals, so that each can be sent where it is needed most; so that fine steels containing critical alloys can be reworked to salvage the alloying metals for re-use.

When you look at an automobile graveyard, it may appear to contain the same wrecks that were there a month or six months ago. Apparently nothing has been accomplished. But in all probability, if a month ago you had marked the cars there, now you would find them all replaced by a new lot.

A similar warning is needed in connection with the scrap collection in smaller communities, where personal observation shows that the salvage has not been moved since the town worked to get it together.

With transportation at a premium, the government can not send trains or trucks to clean up small junkpiles as fast as each is ready. They must be added to the inventory of potential supplies so transportation facilities can be routed to pick up adjacent piles with a minimum of waste motion.

Regardless of how much scrap metal you may see in junkyards, the heat must be kept on if we are to provide American mills with the 45,000,000 tons they need this year.

Remember—the scrap salvage drive is not a one-shot affair. It must be continuous, week after week and month after month. Don't think your duty is done because you have given once, or twice, or half a dozen times.

As long as you can find anything salvageable to turn in or report, your country needs it.

DON'T SLOW WAR TRANSPORTATION

"If anyone in Washington or any other part of the country ordered a governor put on all factory machines to slow them down 30% bewildered outcries would chorus from the Atlantic across to the Pacific," observes Harvey C. Fruehauf, president of the Fruehauf Trailer Company, and this veteran manufacturer says that by this same token "we should think many times before we slow down war-time transportation, because transportation is geared to production, and must be, in order to keep raw materials rolling into our factories and finished products coming out."

It is very probable that the recent order slowing down highway transportation to 35 miles per hour was done with the twenty million or more passenger cars of the country chiefly in mind. At the same time practical every factory in war work, however, is the terminal of another type of highway transportation which is just as necessary for the maintenance of production as the conveyor system or traveling cranes in the factory itself. This is the motor transport system which is the blood stream of arriving parts and materials and departing finished products. In calling attention to these facts we are reminded that the Baruch report pointed out that we must keep motor transport moving. "We cannot win the war without it," declares president Fruehauf, who adds: "We must find the rubber to keep it moving and it can be done. Commercial transportation does not travel at 45 to 50 miles per hour for pleasure. This speed has been reached because it dovetails into consumption, production or delivery. When we throw that system out of balance by slowing down traffic we affect it just as vitally as the railroads would be affected if a similar limitation were placed upon the speed of freight trains. Remember common and contract carriers use only 10% of the rubber as compared with 90% by individuals, farmers, etc."

"So far this has been the only negative approach to our rubber problem. We cannot win the war by negative approaches. This country is big enough and strong to lick its problems positively. This rubber problem is one of the greatest we have to face because of the need of motor transport. The government agencies which have need of the manufactured material, our Army and our Navy, know how essential it is to keep production on time. They know it cannot be kept on time without a correspondingly punctual delivery schedule. We have a certain volume of required delivery to meet.

"Before it is too late, let us stop and reconsider artificial speed limitations against a form of traffic which is vital to our war effort. Slowing down war transportation means slowing down war production. The country cannot afford to do it. We must find rubber to keep these essential vehicles rolling, and rolling on schedule."

Weekly Farm Review

Wayne County Extension Agent

Corn husking has progressed rapidly in Wayne county, states Walter R. Harder, county agent. Farmers have estimated that from 2/3 to 3/4 of the corn is picked. Others predict that the corn will be all gathered in the next three or four weeks, if the weather remains favorable. Harder is finding that most corn fields in the county are above the farmers' expectations.

A swine survey on 14 Wayne county farms last week showed the following facts: 24% more litters were being planned for 1943 spring farrowing than were farrowed in the spring of 1942; 3 of the 14 farmers wanted to buy 70 more gilts; 8 of the 14 have 78 gilts for sale or have gilts suitable for breeding stock; 12 litters each were raised in the average last spring; 15 litters each is planned on the average for next spring and 3 to 4 litters each were farrowed this fall, on the average.

Wayne County farmers should arrange to purchase locally their needed breeding stock now. It is suitable animals can be located. Good type healthy breeding stock should be purchased that have been produced under clean, sanitary conditions for best results.

Bulletin 343 "Wintering Rations for Cattle" by R. R. Thalman, Department of Animal Husbandry, at the University of Nebraska, College of Agriculture, has been recently published. The bulletin furnishes a wealth of information on cattle feeding experiments and should be an aid to all cattle feeders, but more especially to the occasional feeder and the young beginners.

Additional copies will be available soon at the county extension office, according to county agent Walter R. Harder.

MEAT CANNING

With colder weather coming on, and the summer's supply of home preserved meat dwindling, homemakers will again be deciding whether to can or freeze the new supply of butchered beef, pork, or lamb. The solution may be to do both according to State Demonstration Agents. This year it will be more important than ever before to use every precaution in preserving the winter's meat.

There are several things to remember if canning is to be used for preserving meat.

First, precook the meat. It may be done in the oven, in water or fried before being packed in to the container. If it is fried, flour should not be used as the flavor is not so good.

To precook in water, cut the meat into about one pound pieces of uniform size and place in boiling water to cover. Lower the meat and simmer for 12 to 20 minutes until the color of raw meat has almost disappeared from the center of the pieces. Cut the meat into smaller pieces and pack into jars. Reheat the broth, strain, and pour over meat to within 1/4 inch from the top of the jar. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt per pint.

Second, partially seal the jar and process at once.

Third, a steam cooker is preferred for meat canning, but the boiling water bath has been used with success by careful workers.

Last, be sure to process the length of time recommended for each kind of meat. Victory Circular No. 8 gives the recommended time tables and this may be procured from the county extension office.

Clarence Wright and sons, Jack and Bob went to Blackwell, Okla. Friday afternoon to bring Mrs. Wright home and visit relatives. Mrs. Wright spent two weeks at that place. They returned home Monday evening.

Grass cattle, comprising 45 percent of the supply, cleared at firm prices, with stock steers to $14.25, feeding heifers to $13.50, steer calves to $15.50 and heifer calves to $14.00. Swine trade was on an even keel, with good and choice butcher hogs steady at $13.15 to $13.25, good sows $13.15 and $13.20. Fat lambs, meanwhile, were mostly 25 cents higher at $14.25 to $14.60. What About Meat Rationing?

Heavy consumer buying, resulting from high wages and a rising national income, has brought about a shortage in the supply of meat.

Ceiling prices will prevent some people being "rationed out" of meat as they were by high prices in the World War I.

Henderson said, "We need some system, perhaps rationing meatless days to assure equitable distribution of what will be a short supply of meat."

Don't Telephone Centers of War Activity Unless It Is Necessary

Many long distance telephone lines are very busy these days with calls that are vital to the nation's war effort.

You can help keep telephone lines clear for essential war-time calls by not calling centers of war activity unless it is necessary. If you must call, please call by number and keep your conversation brief.

New facilities cannot be added now to relieve congestion on overloaded lines because the materials which would be required are needed to fight the war.

THE Secret OF THE MARSHBANKS BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE STORY SO FAR: Charlotte (Cherry) Rawlings, an orphan at Saint Dorothy's convent school since she was seven, knows almost nothing of her early history, but she has gradually realized that like other girls at the school she has no family. She questions whether she has the right to her father's name. Judge Judson Marshbanks and Emma Haskell, housekeeper for wealthy Mrs. Porteous Porter in San Francisco, are her guardians. When Cherry is twenty, Emma gets her a secretarial job with Mrs. Porter, but she goes first to the Marshbanks mansion, meeting the judge's young wife and his rich niece, Amy, daughter of his brother, Fred, now dead. Life at Mrs. Porter's becomes monotonous and Cherry is thrilled when Kelly Coates, an artist, sends her a box of candy, and she is jealous when he brings Fran to a party at Mrs. Porter's. Emma tells Cherry that her sister Charlotte was Cherry's mother. Kelly takes Cherry along so Fran can visit his studio, and Cherry senses that he is very much in love with Fran, but soon he tells Cherry despondently that Fran has promised the judge she will not see him any more. Mrs. Porter dies, leaving Cherry $1,500, and she learns from Marshbanks that his brother Fred, who was Amy's father, was also her father. Cherry decides to go to Stanford University and the judge suggests that she live with Mrs. Pringle. As Fran is driving her there she asks Cherry to be Kelly's friend, saying he likes Cherry, and that she has decided to do the honorable thing and avoid him. Kelly wifes Cherry, drives her to his studio, and after a party there with friends starts with her to the Marshbanks mansion. Dora Marshbanks, the formidable woman who was the judge's mother and Amy's and her own grandmother, objects to Cherry's presence in the house. Cherry tells Kelly about it some weeks later.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XI "Yes, but old Mrs. Marshbanks was too wild to mind that... Well, after we'd all stood petrified for what seemed about an hour, she said to Amy, 'it is extremely dishonorable to listen to the conversation of others!' and walked out of the room. Of course Amy was mad with curiosity and so I pretended that her grandmother didn't like me because Emma was once their nurse, and she didn't think it was a very suitable friendship for her granddaughter."

"Good girl, Cherry!" There was a long silence. Kelly raised himself on his elbows and stared at her. "What are you thinking?" Cherry said. "That you look very nice, today. That—well, I was wondering if you'd like to come and live at Topcoke, Cherry."

"How do you mean?" "I mean marry me, of course; I mean as Mrs. Coates."

"I see," Cherry said, she looked away. "I've been thinking about it. Ever since that night when you made the toast and it was so cold and the Wilcoxes were there, I've been wondering why it was all so cozy that night. It came to me that it was you. So I telephoned you and asked you if you were free last Sunday, and you were going on a picnic to Point Lobos."

"George arranged that." "Is George Pringle in love with you?" "He has a case," Cherry answered indifferently. "But you don't like him."

"You know how I feel about Fran," Kelly said presently. "She'll always be the unattainable—the dream woman. I can't help that. But you and I could have a lot of fun, Cherry, roaming about, painting things and clearing the creek."

He looked at her expectantly, and met a strange, thoughtful look in her eyes, fixed upon his.

The One Over H.I. Phillips POPPER EXPLAINS INFLATION

"Popper, can you explain inflation so I can understand it?" "Don't bother me now, son, I'm too busy."

"How long will you be busy, popper?" "I'll always be too busy when anybody wants me to explain inflation."

"(Voice from Mother—"Aw, go on and help Junior out! He's got to write a school essay.")

"Well, ahem, sonny, it's like this, ahem... inflation means a condition under which the dollar will be worth less."

"But it will still be a dollar, won't it?" "Yes. A dollar bill will still be a dollar bill, but it won't be the dollar that we used to know. What I mean is that while a dollar may still be a dollar, strictly speaking, its value as a dollar will not be the same value as it would have been if there had been no change in values... ahem... Is that quite clear to you?"

"No. Is it to you?" "No. Let's try it a different way. Let us take meat for example. Take a $100 bill. Now let us assume that this $100 will buy a stack of steaks piled up 45 feet in the air. Got that?"

"Forty-five dollars will buy 100 steaks piled up how high, popper?" "No. Now, take your time. We've got our steaks piled up 45 feet. And right now we can buy them for the $100 bill."

"What hundred dollar bill, popper?" "Shush! Now, then, comes inflation... What happens?" "That's what I'm asking, popper?"

"Well, we suddenly look around and find that while the steak pile is still 45 feet high the $100 bill has shrunk down to $32.79."

"Huh?" "No, that's wrong. Let's make it easier. The $100 bill is still O.K., but the steaks have changed. In fact, the pile is now only 20 feet high. See?"

"Is that in regular steak or hamburger, popper?" "Omgiggh! Any steak. I don't even have to use steak in this story. I could use eggs or liver or even codfish cakes. I could make it just as clear if I used a suit of clothes, a new tie, a pair of shoes or a bicycle."

"Let's do it with codfish cakes and bicycles, popper." "Why!!!" "It'll be more fun."

(Voice from Mother—"Gee, Clinton, I don't think you're explaining it to Junior very simply.")

"Very well. Now listen, son. Let us take house paint. Today $25 will get me enough paint to paint our garage two coats."

"We haven't any garage." "Don't interrupt. Let's paint it, anyhow. Comes inflation, and what happens if we want to paint it a year from now? Twenty-five dollars will only buy enough to paint three sides, and only one coat. Do you see what happens?"

"Yes. We write Mr. Roosevelt and he paints the other side at government expense, popper. But what CAUSES inflation?" "Awah-h-h!"

Baukhage Tells About WILLKIE'S NEW JOB in An Exclusive Interview in THIS WEEK'S ISSUE of THIS NEWSPAPER

THE WAR AGAINST MRS. HADLEY

Adapted from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture by WILLIAM McCORMICK

SYNOPSIS: Mrs. Stella Hadley, a Washington society matron and staunch Republican, is old time to go that the war is directed against her personally. She has lost a man servant in the draft; her daughter, Patricia, works at a canteen; the family's friend, Elliott Fulton, is always busy at the War Department and her son, Ted, has just been drafted, even though he is working for Fulton at the Department. Stella has just called Fulton to ask him to have Ted deferred. Fulton is in conference and she leaves word for him to call, not knowing that it was he who arranged to have Ted drafted because the boy has been neglecting his work and dissipating. Many more rude shocks are in store for Mrs. Hadley. She does not know that her butler, Bennett, has become an air raid warden, nor that Pat has met — and fallen in love with — Private Michael Fitzpatrick.

Chapter Three

"Madam," said Bennett hesitatingly, "would it inconvenience you if I went out for a while this evening?" "Why, no — of course not. But isn't it rather odd time to go out — during a blackout?" "In a way, Madam — yes. But — well, it's quite important." "Very well, Bennett. You know best," Hadley replied.

Pat brought Mike to her home that evening. Mrs. Hadley acknowledged his introduction vaguely and it is doubtful if she would have remembered him if he had dropped out of her life — and Patricia's — then, which, of course, he was not to do. "Now I know where you get your good looks," Mike told Pat after meeting her mother. "She's lovely."

"She's really a darling," "She's passed that on to you, too," Mike told her as he kissed her goodbye. Pat encountered Ted in the living room. "I've been drafted," her brother told her. "I'd say it was Elliott's subtle way of firing me."

"Elliott doesn't work that way," Pat said in bewilderment, "unless — unless he's trying to keep Mother from knowing why you're being fired." "Well, why am I?" "You ought to be able to answer that one yourself," Pat replied. "Ted, did you tell Mother about suspecting Elliott?" "Not yet. I want to make sure first. She's going to ask him to get me out of it. If he refuses, that means he got me in."

BOYS' LIFE There is a tremendous need for a clean, wholesome and educational, yet entertaining boy's publication. That's why, for 30 years, the Boy Scouts of America has published BOYS' LIFE It's the magazine you will be glad to give your son... or a friend's son.

If you're a heartsick wife — mother — or sweetheart... you'd do a lot to give that boy a better chance to get back safe. Well then... do it!

ROUND up your scrap metal—it's needed to make steel. Steel for armor plate to protect him from bombs and bullets. Steel for weapons to help him do the job that must be done before he can come home again. You don't want production figures. It's enough to know that 50% of all new steel is made of scrap—that our steel mills now have only enough scrap in sight to last another 30 days at the most! What happens after that depends on all of us. If production falls and you've not done your part, will you rest easy? Next week we're starting a collection drive — to build the biggest stockpile of scrap metal you've ever seen. Then when the mills need it, we'll have it—because you came through... for his sake!
