

Aviation Cadets to Train Here

Five Nebraska Schools Chosen by U. S. Government

Wayne State Teachers college has been selected as one of the four Nebraska educational institutions to be used as training centers for army aviation cadets, according to announcement made last Saturday by a joint committee of manpower commission and army and navy representatives. Other Nebraska schools chosen as cadet training centers are the University of Omaha, Creighton university and Hastings college. Nebraska university at Lincoln will be used by the army for training engineers.

The number of men to be assigned each school has not been made public and Dr. J. T. Anderson, president of the Wayne college, has received no word to date as to when the training will begin here. Survey had previously been made by army officials of the facilities available and further inquiries by the government are now being made into the possibilities for maximum usage of the local college equipment and teaching personnel before definite details of the program are announced.

The new program will be a much larger one than the Civilian Pilot Training now being given here. Plans are underway for changes in the courses offered to meet the demands of the new set-up. It is expected that a good deal of actual flight training will be given here.

This is a part of an effort on the part of the government to make use of the existing facilities at colleges and universities all over the country in training specialists to fill war-time needs in both military and civilian fields. Training is now underway at a number of institutions of higher learning and Wayne was one of a further list of 281 schools designated for the enlargement of this program.

NINE CARS WHEAT SOLD

Feed wheat has advanced two cents a bushel in price which makes it 81 cents per bushel off the car.

Rationing Questions Are Answered by Wayne Co. Board

The Local War Price and Rationing Board is high in its praise of the public for its interest in the point rationing program which will be inaugurated in the near future. The Board said the number of inquiries to the local office has received regarding the program is evidence that the public is interested in becoming familiar with the plan in order that it will be successful.

From their experience with the coffee and sugar programs, the public, in general, agrees that the only fair way of apportioning the available food supply is by the rationing system. We have received and answered many questions concerning the forthcoming program and have selected the questions most commonly asked for the benefit of those who, as yet, are not familiar with some phases of the program.

Q. May War Ration Book Two be used by any member of the family?

A. Yes. Ration Book Two like War Ration Book One (now used for sugar and coffee) may be used by any member of the household to whom the book is issued. Any member of the family may use all the family's ration books.

Q. Will all persons be given

Farm Front Meeting Is Held Today

Attendance Is Curtailed by Severe Weather

Attendance at the Farm Front meeting being held today at the city auditorium was curtailed by inclement weather conditions. In spite of the storm, however, quite a number of farmers and their wives were present some time during the day to consult with the specialists on farm production.

The morning program was cancelled and the annual meeting of the farm bureau, which was to have been held today, was postponed until a larger representation of the membership could be present. By early afternoon quite a number of interested farmers were arriving and the afternoon program was held about as scheduled.

Miss Dorothea Follmer, 4-H cooking demonstration specialist, was here in place of Miss Douglas, who was ill.

Featured at the meeting were the exhibits aimed to help farm families meet war time problems of living and production. Among the exhibits of interest to women were samples of work clothing, of sewing and patching, and patterns for making new clothing from old.

An exhibit of home made feeders was included in the poultry exhibit. There were also exhibits in grain production and departments of interest to dairy farmers and to those planning to produce fruit and vegetable gardens.

Carl has been in 4-H work for eight years and during that time has worked on thirteen different projects, including the baby beef and lamb projects. Last year he was a member of the Plum Creek Rustlers group.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Beginning with this week's issue, the Wayne News will reach you 24 hours later than it has in the past. This change in schedule will put the paper into the postoffice at Wayne on Wednesday evening instead of Tuesday evening, and will enable us to print more up-to-the-minute news for our readers, and at the same time partially solve the problem of labor in publishing the News.

Farm Labor Needs Should Be Filed Now

F. S. A. Will Help Find Year-Around Help for Farmers

Farmers who need year-around farm labor should file their orders immediately with the county Farm Security office or with any member of the county war board, Ray L. Verzal, county supervisor of the FSA announced today.

Under the reorganized production setup in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Verzal said, the Farm Security Administration now is charged with responsibility for recruitment and placing of year-around farm labor and is given authority to designate areas both of labor need and labor supplies.

Verzal stressed the fact that the need for this type of labor must be real to the point that all family and local labor resources have been exhausted and that without extra help there would be a drastic curtailment of production.

All available labor within the state will be utilized first, he said, and if that supply does not meet the demand, year-around laborers from areas of surplus will be imported. Concentration points will be established to which these laborers will be transported. From these points they will be sent to areas where they are needed. In establishing these labor concentration points the Farm Security Administration will work jointly with the United States office of Education. Transportation and subsistence expense of workers, until placed, will be borne by the government. The farmer will sign an agreement to keep the worker for a minimum of 90 days and will pay a fee of $10 at the time the agreement is signed. His fee, Verzal said, will only partially repay the government for the expense incurred.

Verzal said that complete details of the program would be announced soon, but that it was necessary now to get an idea of this county's needs so that recruitment could be started immediately. Plans for handling seasonal labor will be made known at a later date, he said.

Mobilize 4-H Clubs for High 1943 Production

National 4-H Mobilization week is being held from February 6-13 for the purpose of reorganizing the 4-H club work, for stimulating early organization of 4-H clubs, and to enroll new 4-H members for the 1943 production year. A goal of 3,000,000 members in 1943 has been set for the United States.

Enrollment in Wayne County 4-H Clubs is being emphasized during 4-H Club Mobilization Week. It was reported by Extension Agent Walter R. Harder.

The club work which is receiving special emphasis during the Mobilization Week are those in which production and conservation of food and fiber are greatest. These include the baby beef, swine, sheep, garden, canning, cooking and similar clubs.

The attempt during 1943 will be to turn out as great an amount of food and fiber through 4-H Club work as can possibly be attained.

The Brenna Go Getters 4-H club was reorganized last Friday night with 13 members. The Woolly Wilbrus 4-H sheep club and the Strahan Strivers 4-H swine club reorganized previously. The 4-H Rooters swine club is planning to reorganize immediately. It is anticipated that more of the clubs will be organized immediately. It is anticipated that more of the clubs will be organized this week or next. At present 41 members have been enrolled in the three organized clubs.

Kiwanians Hear College Team Debate On World Union

"Resolved: That a Federal Union Should be Established After the War in Order to Guarantee World Peace," was the subject of a debate given by the debate team of Wayne State Teachers college before the Kiwanis club at their weekly luncheon at the Stratton hotel Monday noon.

The team was introduced by Prof. O. R. Bowen. Bill Linnford and his colleague, Warren Noaks, advanced the affirmative arguments that there is a growing demand for such an organization; such an organization could be formed; advantages of such a union in the advancement of the cause of peace would be invaluable. Ivan Rosenbaum and Alden Johnson composed the negative team, advancing some very able arguments.

A new member, Herman Baehr, principal of the high school was initiated into the club. Note was made of the birthday of an absentee Kiwanian, Senator Crossland.

Wayne High Scores 45-35 Victory Over Winnebago

The Wayne Knights invaded Winnebago last Friday night to play the Winnebago Indians in a rough and tumble game ending 45-35, with the Knights holding the long end of the score.

The Indians led 12-10 at the end of the first quarter but the Wayne High boys pulled ahead in the second quarter and didn't slow up until the final whistle blew.

Strahan and Stull rang the bell for 14 points each to lead the Knights in scoring. Kelsey and Chamberlain totaled 9 each for the Indians, and Snow, whose all-around play was outstanding, scored 8 points.

Coach Menke's boys go to Wakefield this weekend to try to repeat a 30-20 victory scored earlier in the season. The Wakefield team will be out for revenge and should prove to be tough competition on its own floor.

Teachers to Assist With Registration

Housewives Must Get Food Ration Books Before March 1st

Rationing of canned, dried and frozen fruits and vegetables will begin March 1, and retail sales of the more than 200 items to be rationed will be "frozen" on February 20. Once more school teachers throughout Nebraska will temporarily step out of their customary role to perform another important war job. They will work with their local ration boards in planning, organizing and supervising consumer registration for point rationing.

The date for the local registration has not yet been set but it will be during the week beginning February 22, according to announcement made by A. R. Ellis, local chairman of the rationing board.

Housewives will register for War Ration Book No. 2, which will allow a total of 48 "points" for each member of the family for the month of March. Stamps will have values of 8, 5, 2, and 1. If a family has more than 5 canisters per person on hand, stamps will be removed from the book in proportion to their excess holdings. Official point values will be made public as soon as stocks are "frozen." Registration probably will be held in local school houses and one member may register for the whole family.

Emergency stocks of commercially canned goods of 8 ounces or more must be included in declarations by consumers when they register. Holders of excess foods are merely required to declare them and not to surrender them.

Some foods need not be counted. They include canned olives, canned meat and fish, pickles, relish, jellies, jams, preserves, spaghetti, macaroni, noodles and all home canned foods.

JESUS HEALS A MAN BORN BLIND

LESSON TEXT—John 9:1-38. GOLDEN TEXT—"One thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I see."—John 9:25.

The love of Christ is seen in its full beauty against the background of man's hatred and unbelief. Last week we saw Him coming away from the stones with which his enemies sought to kill him.

But Jesus, by a loving and gracious act, stirred in the heart of the man that faith which caused him to obey—to go, to wash, and to see (v. 7).

The argument with the man's parents hinged on one point—he had been healed of his blindness. The parents were unwilling to risk excommunication by discussing the matter, but they did know that he had been blind and now could see.

An experience like that is impossible to deny. The healing of the soul of man in regeneration is also a stubborn fact which defies the powers of God's Word.

Note the difference between the three classes here: Blind and stubborn unbelief (v. 18), faith too fearful to speak (v. 22), and the assured faith of the one healed: "That is our next point."

The appeal of the Jews in verse 24 based on their statement: "We know that this man is a sinner," reminds us that there is no knowledge so absolute (and so absolutely wrong) as that of ignorance backed by self-conceit.

They said they knew, but did not. The man had complete assurance by faith and by experience. He did not argue (v. 24), he simply restated his healing: "I was blind—now I see."

Even as the stupidity and stubborn willful unbelief of our Lord's enemies grew step by step, so also did the healed man's assurance grow as he testified. First he called the Lord "a man called Jesus" (v. 11); then "a prophet" (v. 17), and then at last, "the Son of God" (v. 35-38).

Standing true to Christ and speaking for Him means growth in faith, in knowledge and in grace. It may mean persecution and even exclusion, but remember that when the man was cast out by the haters of Christ, he met Christ. "His excommunication was a promotion. He went from the synagogue to the Saviour" (Scroggie). And that is our third point.

He did not know Jesus. He had heard His voice, but he was blind then and had not seen Him. He probably did not know where to find Him. Then, too, he was now an outcast under the disfavor of the authorities, and even his friends would fear to be seen with him.

But Jesus sought him. Ah, that's the glorious difference between our Lord and those who look at the outward appearance of things. He went to find the man who now needed fellowship, instruction and encouragement.

He had sought the man out to heal him, now He sought him again to help him spiritually. We need to learn of our Lord that we are not to wait until the sin and suffering of men force themselves upon our attention and force us to do something. We are to go out into the highways, and the hedges and urge sinners to come to Christ. We have failed in this! We have built churches and expected the people to come, instead of going where the people are, and bringing them the gospel.

The war is teaching us some lessons in that connection, but we are none too quick to learn and to act. There is a beautiful touch in verse 37. Dr. MacLaren points out that when speaking to the woman of Samaria, Jesus said: "I that speak unto thee am he," but to the man who had just begun to see, He said: "Thou hast both seen him, and it is he that speaketh to thee." The Christ who gave sight, now gives Himself to be seen.

PRIVATE PURKEYSYMPATHIZES WITH THE HOME FRONT

Dear Mom.—Well I heard on the radio a broadcast of news from the United States and it made me almost as much worried about you and dad as you are about me.

Remember away back, mom, when you was just worried that I would not have enough comforts in the army and when you was always so afraid I would not be able to keep warm?

I guess them rules about jalopies is making it hard for you, although I know you ain't the kind to squawk. I hear you can't use the flivver for nothing now except in case of sickness, but I bet the rules make you sick enough to have a good alibi if he decides to take a ride.

It looks to me like between reading automobile rules, checking tire numbers, dopping out new rusting systems, trying to keep warm, and keeping track of new rulings on what you can eat, mom, you ain't having no picnic. But cheer up, mom. Your troubles make me sorer at the Axis than ever and I will fight harder to break up this war now.

I am well and strong if a little muddly. I wood feel better if I knew who was on the level over here and who was not. Some Frenchman is double-crossing some other Frenchman or vice versa every few minutes and I guess General Eisenhower is having a time straightening out the line-up.

Well, I see there's a ruling you can't send me no more packages unless I ask for them and get the brasshats to okay it which makes me sore. It makes me feel silly making out a list of things I wood like and reading it to a officer like I was asking Santa Claus for some presents.

The brasshat I wood have to ask is a sourpuss. He wood not okay nothing for me so I am going to tell him I want a player-piano, a barrel of beer, catcher's mitt and a polo pony for my folks. I got nothing to lose.

TIP TO SQUAWKERS ("Five sons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Sullivan of Waterloo, Iowa, were lost on the cruiser Juncua.")

Kickin' about your rations? Squawkin' about the bans? Fussin' about the gas rules? Think of the Sullivans!

Blue on account of edicts? Yellin' of more ahead? What of that Western home where Five of the group are dead?

Beaf'n of sacrifices? Yawpin' about the costs? Think of the home where parents Mourn for their five boys lost!

"The used-car dealers, admitting that many autoists had called about selling their autos, said that they wanted fortunes for them."—News Item.

In the mind of a used-car dealer this means that a man trying to sell a 1941 sedan probably wants something a little above $108.

An OPA official announces that baloney will soon be but a memory. Well, we just don't believe it. You can deprive us of a lot of things, but you will have the united opposition of the entire congress when you try to limit baloney.

"Meat of some kind and an unspecified amount of substitute, including soybeans," will be used, says one OPA man. Well, we don't know much about the soybean. But somehow or other we feel the same about a soybean hot dog as we would about a turnip-hamburger.

Hitler seems to be ignoring the slogan about never changing generals in mid-dream.

Elmer Twitchell says a soldier in this war has to be between 18 and 25 in order to stand all the changes of climate.

Well, the ban on automobiling certainly gives the last laugh to the fellow who always said the auto hadn't come to stay.

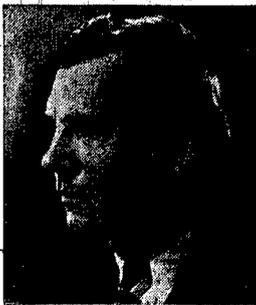

The WPB has decreed a cut of 50 per cent in the nationwide production of ice cream.

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO By VIRGINIA VALE

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

A FEW years ago a radio producer, an actress and an actor formed a trio to produce an act in a series of transcriptions called "Story of Martha Blair." Results: the producer married the actress, who became famous on the stage and screen.

Samuel Goldwyn has signed Walter Huston again to play a leading role in "The North Star"; it's his first Goldwyn picture since "Dodds."

worth." Huston's been working at Warner Bros. in "Mission to Moscow," appearing as Ambassador Davies.

For six years Cheryl Walker was stand-in for stars; then she was given the romantic lead in Sol Lesser's "Stage Door Canteen," and did so well with it that she stepped straight into stardom; CBS paid tribute to her on "Women's Page of the Air" as a result.

If you have income-tax trouble you'll enjoy "The Spirit of '43," in which Donald Duck tackles his Income Tax stink. It's the new Walt Disney short, made at the request of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. Five hundred prints will be distributed and shown under the auspices of the War Activities Committee of the motion picture industry.

When Jean Arthur does kissing scenes the set is closed; she's a bit shy and doesn't like having an audience at such times. But she and Joel McCrea exchanged fervent kisses before an audience of 21 men the other day, for "The More the Merrier"; they were soldiers, being shown through the studio.

Jean Brooks has come up the hard way, via hard-riding westerns and cliff-hanging serials. She scored in a featured role with Abbott and Costello, in "Buck Privates," and now she's won the feminine lead opposite Dennis O'Keefe in "The Leopard Man."

Eddie Cantor receives $10,000 per broadcast; his daughter Marilyn gets $50 a week, but she's the radio industry's first girl staff announcer, and proud as punch of the job. She's on WNEW, a local station in New York; she makes commercial announcements, introduces band numbers, and puts records on the studio timetable—and has ruined her father's gab about the cost of supporting five girls.

Jeanette MacDonald has no sympathy for those stars who regard service-camp entertainment tours as a hardship; she thinks they're fun. But at 14 she was dancing in a Broadway revue, taking singing and ballet lessons between times, and modeling fur coats to pay for the extra lessons. She says that an army camp tour is just a vacation by comparison.

Since fire destroyed Bing Crosby's home thousands of people have offered to replace his losses. One offered a complete collection of Bing's records; an army sergeant said every time Bing smoked a pipe in a picture he'd buy a new one; and offered the singer his choice. A vaudevillian said he'd bring up his trained dog act to replace the spaniel the children lost in the fire.

ODDS AND ENDS—Gary Cooper will sing "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" in "The Story of Dr. Wassell," his next picture. Gary Grant has signed a new contract with RKO calling for five pictures over a long-term period. Some day one of those press agents who announce that a box-office star will join the WAACs, WAVES or SPARS will get the shock of his life, when she actually goes through with it. Jinx Falkenberg carried a big red brooch on which is pinned insignia of every branch of the service, and by service men, while making "Broadway Daddies" she added six more pins to the collection.

Kathleen Norris Says:

What Would You Do?

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

"The doctor dropped in and presently was asking me tactful questions about my emotional state."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE story I am writing you may sound fantastic; indeed, writes Emily B., from a suburb of Chicago, "but I assure you that this sort of thing did not die with the Victorian writers. I have reached a point where I must help or go mad, and I turn to you, chiefly for the reason that I know, from your work, that your advice to those contemplating divorce is usually the single word, 'don't,' and because I myself have the same reverence for marriage vows.

"At nineteen I married a man of 30," the letter goes on. "That was 21 years ago. We had one child, a daughter who is married and has a son aged two. Her husband was never particularly sympathetic to either my husband or myself; he is much older than Mary, and had the great misfortune to lose his sight through a laboratory accident two years ago, so that Mary's problem is the care of a helpless man and a small child, all three supported comfortably by my husband and by a pension. It would make me very happy to go to her and help her, but my husband says in that case he would never send them another cent.

"Keith has always been a strange erratic man, but of late years his peculiarities have been so growing upon him that sometimes I am almost afraid to live in a somewhat isolated country house with him alone. We have three excellent servants, and their efficiency means that I have absolutely nothing to do; nothing makes my husband angrier than to have me interfere in the management of the house in any way. On the cook's night out the downstairs girl cooks and serves dinner, and when the chambermaid is away she also takes on her duties. Keith orders the meals and takes full charge of the whole domestic scene.

Artistic Printer Without Friends. "He is a solitary, his one interest in life his printing press, on which he does very beautiful work, right here in the house. Three or four clerks and boys are always coming and going between us and the city, but he is rarely away from home, and never away for a meal. His exercise is walking in the grounds; he does not go to church and we have no friends.

"I mean that last; we have no friends. If I attempt an occasional committee meeting here or if a caller comes in in the late afternoon, his hovering about in a state of resentment and impatience is enough to make certain that it doesn't happen twice. He calls down from the upper hallway a dozen times; 'could I see you a moment, dear?' so that the visitor is uncomfortably aware of his feeling.

"Of late he has been trying rather obviously and clumsily, but unmistakably, to convince me that my mind is falling. The constant nagging and picking that goes on, hour after hour and day after day, has certainly affected my nerves, and I am beginning to do things that in a happier day I would myself have thought queer.

"For example, there has been much discussion of a large glass vase. I took it from our room because such a mass of flowers made my head ache. He had it brought back; the flowers were changed; was it all right now? Presently the vasey headachy chrysanthemums were back; Lizzie had forgotten to put the right flowers in. What were the right flowers? Would I make a list of them? I did make a list, but Lizzie 'forgot' again. That time I smashed the vase, and Keith went to our doctor and told him a long story of my mental condition. At another time it was a hat. We went to the shop to change it; again he didn't like it. We made a third trip, he assuring me that generous tips to the saleswoman made it all right. When a fourth change was suggested I put the hat in the fire, and a few hours later the doctor 'dropped in,' and presently was asking me tactful questions about my emotional state.

ALL CONCERNED

The best solution to a domestic problem is nearly always the one that is best for all concerned. And so, Kathleen Norris rarely recommends divorce, even when it seems to be the only possible solution. And she does not recommend it to "Emily B." But she does urge Emily to leave her dreary home and difficult husband, at least for a while. She urges her to do this in spite of the fact that Emily's husband has threatened to make their daughter suffer for it. You will be interested to know why.

Daughter Enlivened Home. "When Mary was home it was different; she is like my mother, full of courage, spirit and fun, and quite equal to any little passage-arms with Keith. But these last years have been lonely and strange, and this latest development seems to me more than anyone could bear. Would you advise me to see another doctor, and get an assurance of sanity? For I am no more insane than you are! Please help me out of a fog of despair."

Dear Emily, of course you are not insane, you are a long way from being insane, and it is much harder for the sane to lose their minds than it sounds. But you are unnecessarily sacrificing yourself in a manner and under circumstances that make the situation decidedly serious, and the sooner you get away from that gloomy dark lonely house, and this man whose peculiarities and selfishness have so grown upon him, the better for both.

Pack a small bag of necessities, take all the money you can, and quietly board a bus for Chicago. Go to any employment agency there and get a job as linen woman in a hotel, extra woman in a hospital kitchen, waitress in a tea-shop, saleswoman in a big department store, or any other of the hundreds of jobs that are going begging now. Be sure it is not a lonely office job, but get in among your fellow creatures, and for awhile at least board in a family or a boarding house where there is a big group. If you can find work among children, whose needs are the best cure for introspective melancholy that I know of, or among the suffering and needy, your own troubles will blow away from you like fog before a summer sun. Plunge into active, absorbed, exhausting living, go up to your quiet little room and your books at night healthily wearied, and you'll find the cure.

Simple Separation May Help. There needn't be a divorce. There needn't be any recorded unpleasantness. You need only write Keith that in these days when help is so urgently needed in so many different directions, you could not remain idle; tell him, if you like, to come and see you, go to lunch or dinner with him and let him see for himself that you are happy.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS by Lynn Chambers

Serve Shrimp Casserole, Save Meat (See Recipes Below)

Warm Welcome!

These are days when families are divided and diminished, and there comes the urge to say to the neighbor, come take "pot-luck" supper with us. Thus, your neighbor will bring over some salad and muffins and herself and the youngster, you can make a main dish and dessert, and have company with it besides!

It's heart-warming to visit, too, and have someone to help with the meal if your once-big family is somewhat reduced. Most people welcome a visit now and then with just one of the ordinary meals—and pot-luck is the perfect answer.

Your first must-not with pot-luck is do not fuss. Just get together on who is to bring what—and have what you ordinarily would have. Your plans need not be made with campaign-like precision, simply do it on the spur of the moment, since this makes for spontaneity.

Let's take it easy on meat with some grand casserole dishes—including this on shrimp and crabmeat with a crisp, corn-flake crust:

Baked Shrimp Salad. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup minced onion
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup cooked crabmeat, flaked
1 cup cooked shrimp, cleaned
1 cup mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups corn flakes
1/2 cup butter

Combine all ingredients and mix well together. Place in individual shell dishes or one-large casserole. Cover with crushed corn flakes, dot with butter, and sprinkle paprika over top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes. Serve with lemon.

Spaghetti's a fine dish to serve at pot luck. Should hamburger supplies be low, try some of Sunday's leftover chicken in the sauce.

Spaghetti With Chicken. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 1 8-ounce package spaghetti
1 onion, cut fine
1 small clove garlic
2 tablespoons fat
2 1/2 cups cooked tomatoes
Salt and pepper
1 tablespoon sugar
Dash of cayenne
1 cup diced, cooked chicken
1/2 cup grated cheese
1 cup mushrooms, sauteed

Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and place in a greased casserole. Saute onion and garlic in hot fat until tender but do not brown. Add tomatoes, salt, pepper, sugar and cayenne. Heat to boiling, then add chicken, mushrooms, and pour over spaghetti. Toss with fork and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven about 30 minutes.

Brazil Nut Quick Bread. (Makes 1 5-by-9-inch loaf)

- 3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup chopped Brazil nuts
1 egg
1 1/2 cups milk
3 tablespoons melted shortening

This Week's Menu Pot-Luck Supper

- Baked Shrimp Salad
Julienne Green Beans
Mustard Sauce
Apple-Walnut Muffins
Wilshire Salad
Cranberry Fingers
Recipe Given.

Wilshire Salad. (Serves 8)

- 1 head lettuce or romaine
4 slices pineapple
1 grapefruit, peeled and sectioned
1 red apple, sliced
1/2 pound grapes, cleaned
1 orange peeled and sectioned
Mayonnaise

Line salad bowl with lettuce or romaine. Arrange fruit in an orderly but pretty pattern, alternating slices of pineapple with apple, and orange sections with grapefruit. Sprinkle halved grapes (seeded) over whole of bowl, or place clusters of grapes among other fruit. Serve with mayonnaise.

You can take the B-r-r-r-out of winter by serving a delicious hot bread that breaks open like a twink and when spread with butter is the answer to perfection!

Apple-Walnut Muffins. (Makes 12 muffins)

- 2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons mild salad oil
1 cup raw, grated apples
1/2 cup broken walnut kernels

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine egg, milk and salad oil and add to flour mixture, stirring only until mixed. Fold in apple and nuts. Drop by spoonfuls into greased muffin tins, filling 2/3 full. Bake in a hot (425-degree) oven for 20 to 30 minutes, according to the size of the muffins.

It's a pleasure to bring freshly baked bread to the table because it's a sign you have gone to the trouble of trying to make the meal as good as possible. You'll like the following nut bread both for table or lunch-box use.

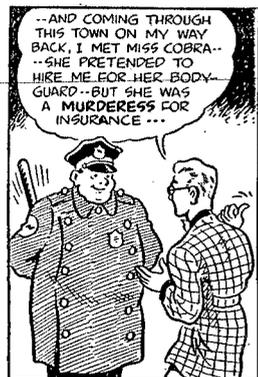

If you're using this bread for the lunchbox, slice it thinly, spread with cream cheese, blended with apple sauce, or cream cheese with crisply fried, drained and crumbled bacon.

Sift dry ingredients together, add nuts. Beat egg, add milk and shortening. Stir quickly into dry ingredients. Pour into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven 1 hour.

YOUR rag bag contains the best possible material for making attractive pads for chairs and foot stools. These may be hooked in the same manner as rugs are made. Cut or tear old materials into strips and draw loops through either burlap or canvas with a rug hook as shown at the left. Either cotton, wool, silk or rayon may be used. The strips may be cut from three quarters to one and one-half inches wide.

You will find it easy to outline a simple flower design with wax crayon. Many people do successful hooking without a frame. Small pieces of work may be stretched over an old picture frame and thumb-tacked. Flowers and leaves may be hooked in outline as at the upper right, or two or more tones may be used for a shaded effect, as at the lower right.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Redneer rubber is the product resulting from the processing of scrap rubber. It is prepared from used rubber articles that are cleaned, purified and made plastic for re-use in rubber manufacturing.

Crude rubber in 1899 was selling at $2,200 a ton. At the 1925 high was selling at $2,755.20 per long ton.

Engineers have designed the tires for one of the army's tanks to resemble the camel's tread, nature's provision for support on shifting sand.

A commercial user of tires reported that an Ameripol synthetic rubber tire used on a light truck returned over 35,000 miles before it was replaced. This tire, with 51 others, was placed in test service early in 1941.

A 35,000-ton battleship required 160,000 pounds of rubber.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A teaspoonful of pulverized alum added to stove blacking will give the stove a brilliant luster that will last for a long time.

Pipe cleaners are handy in the kitchen to clean gas burners, lemonade sippers, funnels, etc.

Left-over meat, minced, with cream or salad dressing makes a popular sandwich filling.

Place a rubber mat on the saucer under your potted plant and it will absorb the right amount of moisture from the mat.

Egg stains on table linen should be soaked with cold water, as warm water sets them.

Lincoln on Peace

Whenever we have been in Washington, D. C. on business, we have always taken a few extra moments to climb the many stairs leading to the Lincoln Memorial. Each time we have reached the top and stood in the presence of the great massive Lincoln statue we always experienced a deeper reverence stirring within our hearts, and we have noticed that men instinctively uncover as they read and reread the second inaugural address.

Lincoln's words, uttered seventy-eight years ago, should be the expression today of the noblest thought of the United Nations as they contemplate a future peace. Here is what he said on March 4, 1865: "With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nations' wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations."

One hundred and thirty-four years ago, Abraham Lincoln was born, reviled and lampooned over two continents, in four years he is canonized by mankind. Without origin, without training, without a worldly advantage, child of a poor and shiftless emigrant, he makes his way out of the wilderness to fix for all time the eyes of the world as a leader of people, liberator of the slave, deliverer of his country, and in another turn of the kaleidoscope, is numbered with martyrs and saints in glory everlasting—"Our Dumb Animals."

We Must Not Fail

Almost daily comes new evidence that our nation's leaders, and the great body of our people are realizing the need for a Peace that will mean Peace, and not a treaty with our enemies that will mean another war. That would be a tragedy unparalleled in human history.

Hard will it be to cast out of our hearts the hate and desire for revenge that this war has bred, and bring into being the spirit that can treat an enemy with mercy rather than with exacting justice. This we must do if for no other reason than for our own future. This we must do, also, for humanity's sake.

Neither the great mass of the German people nor of the panese people wanted this war. We should not hold them guilty for it, and by our hate forever doom them to despair. Every one of us—you and I—must do everything in our power to bring about a national desire for a Peace into whose terms have been written nothing that demands of the conquered submission to such crushing punishment as would seem to the conquered the very death of their national life.

The plea of Mr. Hoover, our former President, not for an Armistice, but for a sufficient period of delay between the defeat of our enemies and a treaty of Peace for the nation's hostility toward the defeated to cool down to a sane and humane degree, must commend itself to all fair-minded people. Win this war we must, but when it is won, the bitterness of hate and the spirit of revenge must have no place at the Peace Table.

No Ration Cards

There are some things for which no coupons will ever be issued. Things that are not to be bought or sold. Things that are never hoarded through selfish indifference to the sufferings of others. Things that just simply multiply themselves if you once have them. Things that come back to you the more you give them away. Yet no one ever saw them, hoarded them or tried to put a price upon them. What are they? Love, kindness, compassion, justice.

No, we never actually saw any of these things, only the expression of them. Yet they are just as realy facts as death and air and sea, and all those things of which we are as sure as that the sun and moon and stars are real. In this realm of life's supreme values no ration cards will ever be issued.

What About Peace Now?

If we could obtain peace with our enemies now, we suppose a great many people would be in favor of doing so. They would perhaps reason that by laying down arms immediately, millions of lives would be saved, and of course that would be true.

But peace now could only mean victory for our enemies. That would be exactly what they wanted us to do. It would give them the opportunity of resting and, at the same time, strengthening their occupation of conquered lands. They would then build an army far greater than their present one, and the task of beating them might well be impossible.

No, we would not want peace now. We must first and forever destroy that force of evil that is trying to exterminate human freedom. The men of the United Nations, who are giving their lives for our cause, would not want a temporary peace—nothing but complete victory and a just and fair peace will be acceptable to those struggling for a free world.

How Do You Pronounce It?

Some of us are rather tired of hearing the word, now so common, "ration," pronounced as if spelled "rash-un," the "a" short as in "hat," instead of long, as in "hay."

What do the authorities say? The Manual of English Pronunciation, based on Walker and Smart, English orthoepists, and Webster, Worcester and Goodrich, American orthoepists, give only "ra-shun," the "a" as in "nation." "The Orthoepist," a volume of often mispronounced words, gives only "ra-shun."

The New English Dictionary, commonly known as "The Oxford," gives only "ra-shun." H. E. Fowler an English authority, gives "rashun," but says that is "the pronunciation in military parlance. Webster also says "ra-shun" or "rash-un."

It certainly would seem as if our broadcasters could safely trust to the much larger weight of authority which favors the long "a."

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

"With firmness in the right...to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace...with all nations."

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
—SECOND INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Much interest has been shown in the amount of commodities purchased for the United Kingdom under the lend-lease program and which, because of lack of ships or change in requirements, were not utilized for that purpose. Many of these commodities which were cancelled by Great Britain were used in the school lunch program or distributed directly to general relief recipients. Among these commodities were, up to Jan. 15, 1943: 2,100,000 cases evaporated milk; 7,675,000 lbs. dried skim milk; 387,000 cases shell eggs; 6,862,000 lbs. oat cereal; 650,000 bushels fresh apples; 904,000 cases canned tomatoes; 1,420,000 lbs. English walnuts; 2,474,000 lbs. frozen egg yolks.

Washington people have a hard time getting any kind of meat. Buffalo meat was plentiful, a few weeks ago. A horse market has been opened in New Jersey and horse meat is expected here soon. The Jersey market opened with a stock of 40,000 pounds, described as meat from "aged, corn-fed work horses."

Harry Knudsen of St. Edward telephoned to the Third District office from Kansas City. The Navy transport plane, recently lost in Arizona, was piloted by his son, Lt. Max Knudsen, and after several days of extensive reconnaissance followed by exceptionally severe storms, it appeared that the Navy may have discontinued the search. The Navy revealed, however, that weather conditions and the increased peril to other men and ships had resulted in the reduction of the number of ships on this particular patrol, but there was no discontinuance of the search and the alertness of ground agencies was increased.

In the House, the price of feed wheat is much discussed. Penalty wheat which cannot be fed to livestock is also a problem. A bill has been introduced to permit the feeding of penalty wheat to livestock. The Committee on Agriculture expects to act on that bill soon.

The Secretary of Agriculture plans a hundred million dollar subsidy for the benefit of consumers of agricultural products. That will be in addition to the present A. A. subsidies. The question now is where is the Secretary going to get the hundred millions. Members who want farmers to get a fair price for their products so there won't be any need for subsidies are making pertinent inquiries.

College News Brevities

Four religious organizations of the Wayne Teachers college last Wednesday evening held a joint meeting in the Student Union building, presenting a program in behalf of the World Student Service fund for which a drive was being made at the college last week. The program consisted of a fifteen-minute skit, prepared originally as a radio sketch, indicating what the money contributed to the W. S. S. F. would do and giving concrete examples of the use of this fund. All four of these organizations, the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A., the Newman club, and the Lutheran Student association, were represented in the personnel of the skit. Persons who presented the sketch were Frances Blezek, Kathryn Schelly, Arthur Thomson, John Kvam, Charles Muffly, Lois Schwab, Katherine Gibbs, Evangeline Clark, Evelyn Patriek, and Marian Prill. The Washington public is looking for some real action following the President's visit to Africa. The President's movements were well shielded by the press. So were the preparations for the opening of the North African front. That job required many months planning—perhaps eight months. It required the timed arrival of hundreds of ships—more than 800—at given points. Many newswriters knew about it. The story wasn't released until the event had actually happened.

According to the best figures obtainable there are about 40,000 farms in the twenty-four counties that now comprise the Third Congressional District.

The House is investigating Uncle Sam's payrolls. The number of government employees has increased at the rate of 100,000 per month and there are now nearly 3,000,000 civilian employees. There are plans for a housecleaning. Good jobs held by relatives, and friends of those who distribute the jobs may be eliminated. Promotions with appearances of irregularity will be investigated.

Dependents of soldiers and sailors have been quite impatient on account of delay in receiving their dependency benefit checks. This bottleneck is being cleared up and the Third District Office, which has been working on many of these cases, is informed that within a short time the payments will be received on schedule. Some records and applications have been lost in transit from foreign countries and in such cases the dependents can file their own applications.

From the Senate comes the statement that plans are prepared for an Army of 8,200,000 and nearly 3,000,000 more for the Navy and Coast Guard. The House committee seems to favor 8,200,000 in the Army alone. About 400,000 monthly are now being inducted into the services including the boys 18 and 19 years of age. The Appropriations committees in both houses have served notice that they will be heard from after investigation of the pertinent factors.

Bill Jeffers stirred Washington and the War department in particular, by letting loose a blast at those interfering with synthetic rubber production. The Office of War Information was set up, with some 4,000 censorship experts, to prevent just such disturbances of Washingtonian calm. It is supposed to look over speeches of departmental heads and delete any words, phrases or sentences which might provoke departmental controversy. Mr. Jeffers was appointed to bring about synthetic rubber production on a scale that would remove all tire troubles for the nation, including those of its armed forces. Production has been disappointing. The War Department supply expeditors endeavored to have him slow down on his plan so that the critical materials could be used for other purposes. Mr. Jeffers went to Baltimore to appear before a convention of state officials. His prepared speech was tame enough, but when he tore loose and said a lot of things about Army expeditors in an impromptu talk, he gave the OWI a headache.

But Mr. Jeffers had been on the receiving end of the criticism game as well. The Gillette committee is busy demanding to know why the plans for making rubber from grain alcohol are not working out. Somehow that cheaper and easier way of producing synthetic rubber in great abundance is not getting results, and plants proposed for the middle west out where the grain is grown, are merely proposed and not built. After a full year, the amount of rubber made from grain alcohol is of negligible quantity. Mr. Jeffers has been criticized as being partial to producing rubber from oil. The committee may recommend congressional action of rather drastic nature.

RESCUE IN NORTH WOODS

TWO U. S. pilots in the Royal Canadian Air Force figured in a recent rescue drama of the northern Ontario wilderness. Flying Officer Carl Hickerson of Collinville, Texas (center), flying a Hurricane for the R.C.A.F. ferry command, became separated from his flight and made a forced landing. He lit a fire and awaited help. Squadron Leader H. O. Madden of Victoria, B.C. (left) took off in search of Hickerson, in a plane piloted by Flying Officer T. E. "Denny" Daniels of Oxford, Nebraska (right). It was almost midnight when, after hours of sweeping the northern brush, they sighted the lost pilot's fire. Hickerson flashed a signal from a landing light he had detached from his plane, and the rescuers circled to drop a sleeping bag, and axe and emergency rations.

Next morning, Madden and Daniels took off in a ski-equipped plane but found the weather "too thick" to land. In the afternoon they tried again and despite bad visibility and low ceiling, came down in deep snow at Lady Evelyn Lake to pick up Hickerson. Squadron Leader Madden, commanding officer of the ferry command squadron, who insisted on personally taking part in the search, paid tribute to Hickerson's good sense. According to Madden, the pilot used his head throughout and was in good shape, having built a brush bed and a shelter. When they met, Madden said, Hickerson "wasn't excited a bit—it was just as if I had met him in the street."

Brought out to civilization after being forced down in the northern Ontario brush, Flying Officer Carl Hickerson (inset) of Collinville, Texas, telephoned his wife that he was safe.

Lundak was the pianist. Handbook of the W. S. S. F. defines the organization as a fund-raising organization which operates primarily in the colleges and universities of the United States in order to raise money for student war relief. Its help goes to students and faculty who are victims of war in all parts of the world.

Members of the W. S. S. F. committee which sponsored the money-raising campaign at the college last week are Lois Spease, Lois Schwab, Arthur Thomson, Lawrence Graham, Katherine Gibbs, Marian Prill, Grant Van Boening, and Norman Schroeder. Each of the four religious associations and clubs is represented by two members on this committee.

Preceding the joint meeting the Lutheran club held a session on Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Martha Niederwimmer in conducting the devotions gave a reading of Scripture and led the group in singing. The Rev.

WE'RE CONSERVING MATERIALS TO HELP "Pass the Ammunition"

Conservation of materials is not new in the telephone business. We have been doing it for years because it helps in carrying out our policy of providing the best telephone service at the lowest cost.

Now, as everyone knows, there's another reason for conserving—to help win the war. We are being extra careful to save every scrap of wire, rubber and other critical war materials. With the help of the Bell System research and manufacturing organizations, ways have been found to use substitutes for many critical materials.

In every part of the job of providing telephone service, our first aim is to be of maximum service in helping to win the war.

At the close of the campaign a list of the books purchased will be listed in this column. Any individuals or organization wishing to contribute should bring the money to the library or send it to the librarian, Mes. E. S. Blair.

A new book accessioned this week is Battle for the Solomons, by Ira Wolfert. This book is for the adults. For the children the new books in the library are: Heroes of the Sky, by Adams and Kimball. Plow Penny Mystery, by Lavinia Davis. The Star Spangled Banner, by D'Aulaire, and The Black Dog Mystery, by Ellery Queen.

Have you read Bombs Away, by John Steinbeck? To write this, Steinbeck toured the country for weeks, visiting training corps and flying fields all over the country. The U. S. Army Air Forces acted as his host, working out his itinerary with him and detailing the necessary personnel to explain the work and help gather the material. With him went John Swope, himself a flier, who took the 69 photographs that illustrate the book.

All royalties of author and photographer, as well as publishing profits, will go to the Air Forces Aid Society Trust Fund. Miss Ruth Ross will tell stories for the children Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Sharon Lindsay finished filling her War Stamp book Wednesday.

Pupils in the first grade have been enjoying a "Learn to Eat Vegetables" project. The purpose is to familiarize the youngsters with the taste of various vegetables and increase their popularity when they appear on the home table. Some of the mothers have been assisting with the project. Mrs. Henry Weseloh served creamed onions to the group last Friday and Mrs. Paul Anderson sent carrots Monday. Other vegetables which have been sampled are rutabaga, cauliflower and parsnips. Children are busy this week making valentines for a valentine box Friday afternoon.

Second Grade—

Class made original valentines Friday. They are planning to have a valentine box.

The children read their stories to first grade Thursday. They showed the pictures which suggested the stories and first graders enjoyed finding the picture which belonged to the story. Billy Palmer's story was chosen as the best by the children.

Sixth Grade
Marlene Sockman and Mary Holmes made the valentine box for our room. It is very attractive, of red and white crepe paper. We will have the exchange of valentines this Friday.

The histography class have prepared and given oral reports on the various industries, products and interesting regions of Africa. Many new things were discovered about this continent. Some of the most interesting facts were about the diamond and gold regions of Africa.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Here's a piece, Judge, that says that in spite of more cars and faster speeds, the first six years of repeal showed 12% less deaths from automobile accidents than during the last six years of prohibition."
"Now doesn't that just go to show you, Henry, you've got to be on pretty solid ground as far as your facts go before you make an out-and-out prediction. Why, back in the days just before repeal quite a few folks around the country made pretty powerful predictions about how automobile accidents were going to jump up if we got legal liquor back."
"About the only thing along that line you're ever safe in predicting, Henry, is this: No community or county or nation, for that matter, ever became or ever will become dry just because it voted that way. All that the votin' decides is whether you have legal or bootleg liquor. We had nearly 14 years of experience on that, didn't we?"

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allied Command Moves to Clear Africa And Secure Control of Mediterranean; Hitler Decrees Added Nazi Sacrifices In Effort to Bolster Failing Manpower

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

How the U. S. task forces apply what the high command describes as "Swift Massive Strikes" against the enemy is illustrated by the above photo showing troops going aboard an air transport in New Guinea, equipped for marching or fighting or both when the plane reaches a destination in front of the Japs.

TUNISIA: Activity Stepped Up

Indications that the long awaited offensive to drive the Axis out of North Africa might be near, were seen in reports of the recapture of several central Tunisian positions with which the enemy had sought to form a line of protection for the flanks of Marshal Rommel's army retreating into Tunisia from Libya. Conferences of top American and British military chiefs in Casablanca even after the departure of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill had emphasized the importance of the next Allied moves.

Lieut. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's American forces had driven the Germans back from six to nine miles in the Ousseitla Valley and had pressed steadily toward a pass through which Rommel's troops must pass in their effort to join German Gen. Von Arnim's army.

Rommel's widely strung out rear guard had been constantly under attack by General Montgomery's British Eighth army.

One of the heartening features of the American activity was that this drive had recaptured several positions of tactical importance previously lost by the French when German-armored units had smashed through their lines.

AIR BLOWS:

By 'All-American' Team

Ominously prophetic of more and deadlier blows at the heart of German industries and naval bases were the first "All-American" daylight bombing attacks in which swarms of unescorted Flying Fortress and Liberators smashed at the naval base of Wilhelmshaven and industrial installations at Emden.

While three of the unescorted American bombers were lost on the Wilhelmshaven-Emden raids, United States headquarters said that a "number" of enemy planes were destroyed.

Hitler's northern flank was given a pounding when the shipyards in Copenhagen, Denmark, hitherto unscathed, were bombed by the RAF. The principal targets of this raid were U-boat engine factories which are working for Germany.

RUSSIA:

Cause for Rejoicing

With President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill's joint note in his hands promising decisive blows in the West, "Uncle Joe" Stalin could look with considerable satisfaction on affairs in the East.

How well the Russian offensives were going was indicated by a steady parade of Soviet communiqués reporting successes all along the line. The Red army had driven forward to within 60 miles of Rostov; with the recapture of the railroad towns of Ataman and Yegorlyk. To the north, the Ukrainian offensive westward from captured Voronezh had pressed on to within 80 miles of the big Nazi base of Kursk, with the recapture of Gorsechnoye.

The Russian Stalingrad trap had closed its jaws on all but a few scattered remnants of the 200 Axis divisions of 200,000 men who had besieged that industrial stronghold.

SOUTH PACIFIC:

Jap Casualties Heavy

From New Guinea came Gen. Douglas MacArthur's consoling announcement that American casualties in the victorious Papuan campaign were less than half the Japanese losses. Previous statements had said that a Japanese Papuan army of 15,000 had been wiped out. This indicated American casualties might have totaled 7,000, including those incapacitated by sickness.

As General MacArthur consolidated his forces for the drive to clear the enemy out of the rest of New Guinea, military activity was limited to continuous bombing of enemy bases. The raids included a heavy concentration on Lae, which is expected to be the next target of MacArthur's offensive operations.

The navy department disclosed that a new Jap air base established within easy raiding distance of Guadalcanal in the Solomons had been strongly attacked by American bombers. The new Jap airfield is on Ballale island, about 300 miles northwest of Henderson airfield on Guadalcanal.

The navy likewise announced that in air action over Wake island, a number of Jap Zero planes had been shot down, while all United States aircraft had returned safely to their fields.

CORN GROWERS: Reap Big Benefits

Corn belt farmers and western wheat growers will get the lion's share of the $595,500,000 in benefit payments to be distributed among growers for complying with last year's federal crop control programs. It was indicated in a preliminary report of the department of agriculture on 1942 farm subsidies.

Southern cotton farmers will get the smallest amount since 1936, largely because of the improved price position of this crop.

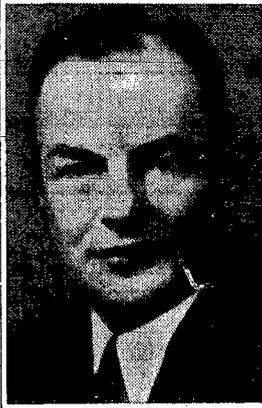

The department's figures disclosed that payments to wheat farmers will total $133,477,000, compared with $107,353 for the 1941 crop. Corn payments will amount to $188,219,000, which is the record for that crop. Payments on the 1941 crop totaled $130,188,000.

Cotton payments for 1942 will amount to about $78,833,000, compared with $124,857,000 in 1941 and a peak of $265,595,000 for the 1936 crop. Until the 1942 crop year, cotton payments exceeded those for any other commodity.

YANKEE FOOD: Aids Russ Offensive

That American lend-lease food shipments have helped the Russian armies deal their deadly blows to Hitler's Nazi legions was revealed by Claude R. Wickard, secretary of agriculture.

Food shipments to Russia which rose sharply as the winter offensive progressed went directly to the Red army, Wickard disclosed. "In December, for the first time," he declared in a report to the war council of the National-American Wholesale Grocers association in Chicago, "shipments to Russia were larger than the combined shipments to the United Kingdom and other British destinations."

FOOD ADMINISTRATOR WICKARD

Discussing the 1943 outlook, Mr. Wickard said that "our armed forces and those of our Allies will require almost a quarter of all the food we produce."

RUBBER PROGRAM: Green Light on 55%

While a house of representatives naval committee ordered an investigation of charges made by Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers that "army and navy loafers" were interfering with war production, WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson disclosed that he had directed that 55 per cent of the synthetic rubber program for which Mr. Jeffers has been battling vigorously be carried through "as rapidly as possible."

In testimony before the senate rubber investigating committee, Mr. Nelson defended his curtailment of the rubber administration's demands and declared he was aiding Jeffers as much as possible without serious interference with other urgent war production.

The 55 per cent rubber plant construction program means that 25 synthetic rubber plants will be completed as early as possible, the WPB chairman indicated. Mr. Jeffers had been demanding right of way for 35 to 70 per cent of the original Baruch program.

Nazi Submarine Menace Is Allies' Chief Problem

Pre-Fabricated U-Boats Said to Boost German Output; 'Vanishing Luftwaffe' Puzzles United Nations' Military Observers.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

"It will be a long and bitter war." That was the remark of the Australian minister of defense in a recent interview. Two days later, I heard a general, who had visited many fronts, make a similar statement. You have heard the same prediction made from dozens of officials. And the strange thing is, it is usually preceded with an account of Allied successes. Nothing but a "but" stands between the enumeration of victories achieved and the prediction of the long, hard road ahead.

Since this perplexed me, I tried to get a concrete answer from various persons as to just what lies on the long, hard road. Out of the answers, two obstacles stand out, the submarine and the story of the "vanishing Luftwaffe." Only recently has it been definitely revealed that the enemy's greatest and most effective weapon is the submarine. For a long time, the British permitted only the most general statements regarding the sinking of Allied or even neutral ships by U-boats. Lately, because it was realized that the people were in ignorance of the extent of this menace, more detailed statements have been made, although still no figures are given out.

We know that America is building ships faster than American ships are being sunk. We know that the margin between launchings and sinkings is very narrow. And we know that launchings alone do not really balance sinkings hull for hull because the enemy sinks loaded ships—valuable cargoes are destroyed—trained men not easily or immediately replaceable are killed or at least taken out of action for long periods—gaps are left in the war effort with each lost cargo.

When I was in Berlin covering the outbreak of the European war in 1939, I heard a great deal of talk about Germany's counter-blockade, how the Nazis could fill seas with their U-boats. There was much talk of the great numbers which could be produced by the American method of the assembly line. I had no idea how much truth there was in those statements. Then in the months that followed, not much was said about the U-boats. For a period when they were operating on our coasts, America was conscious of their presence but when they were driven out of sight of our shores, they were driven out of mind as well.

German Advances In Synthetic Gas

We know that Germany has made remarkable advances in the manufacture of synthetic gasoline and oils. We know that some oil has been retrieved from the Malkop oil fields in Russia, new ones developed in Austria.

If Germany is not yet starved of gasoline and lubricants, if the Luftwaffe has not really disappeared from the earth, its absence from the air may have another meaning. We know that in spite of the heavy German losses in men and material in Russia, Germany still has a large and powerful army. Possibly over 300 fully equipped divisions—trained men.

It is estimated that aside from soldiers engaged in Russia and North Africa, the garrisons in the occupied countries, there must be a striking mobile army of a million men and more. Of course, these are estimates but they are not over-estimates. And besides this army there is the "vanished Luftwaffe."

The assumption is that this great army like the air force is resting, conserving and building up its strength for one of two things: either a long, last stand defense of the borders of the Reich or one more powerful offensive.

Meanwhile, we know that every day that Japan is allowed to occupy the rich possessions of her stolen empire, she is nearer to the exploitation of their resources, the development of which will make her stronger. And every day she is left undisturbed by a major attack, she is able to increase her fortifications, wear down the Chinese and spread her "silver bullets" among the less loyal war-lord followers on the fringe of Chiang Kai-shek's central army.

There are two factors which make the road ahead a hard one—the present successful operation and the rapid replacement of the German submarine flotilla and the probability that Germany is holding back a powerful army and air force either for another telling blow or to defend its strongly fortified terrain.

Ideologies—Put Them on Ice?

As I go wandering round the town, taking a look in every quarter—with apologies to Wan-Eyed Reilly—I have acquired data in the last few days that have convinced me that we will have to expunge the word ideology from the bright lexicon of war, if we are going to win.

I have observed three places where the ideologies have gotten in, and done more damage than a buffalo moth in an overstuffed sofa.

Of course in North Africa—it may be the climate or the rainy season—ideologies have done some of their most devastating work. I have conversed with an army officer, an official, who knows that terrain and also what it produces, a newspaper philosopher and a radical—all of them look at the situation on the shores of the Mediterranean a little differently. The official explains that the politics are very important—the radical, happy over the success against all Fascists, but infuriated over using them even to help defeat themselves, shouts—"We should have shot Darlan the day after he served his purpose."

"Well," remarks the official, "somebody did, didn't they?" The army officer calls the whole controversy a backyard row that will be forgotten as ground dries up and the Allies get a few victories.

But the correspondent philosopher paused to analyze.

He said: "You have heard that one thing that greatly improved the morale in the Russian army was making the officers supreme and removing the authority of the commissars which were originally placed at their elbows. You know the Russian officers could make no move without the okay of the commissar and yet the officer was responsible if anything went wrong. Now, the officer has the final word—many of the former commissars who had military training have become officers."

Nazi Boasts Largely Confirmed

Now we learn how great their depredations are on the shipping lanes where they converge in the eastern Atlantic, confirming to some degree the German boasts which are sounding again. It is stated by British naval observers that the Germans are pre-fabricating the subs, making the parts in factories scattered all over the Reich and assembling them in great underground caverns hewn out of the rock or covered with concrete on the shores of the Bay of Biscay in France.

Therein lies a clear and simple explanation of the Allies' greatest problem, the chief obstacle on the "long, hard road."

The second obstacle may be a fancied one but it is real in the minds of many. The unknown is usually more terrible than the known and perhaps this one is at least partly a myth but no hard-headed realist can afford to underestimate the enemy's potentialities.

Those who believe this "obstacle" exists, say it is hidden behind the mystery of "the vanishing Luftwaffe."

According to military men, there are at present very few German planes on the Russian front. I heard a recent estimate of one-seventh as many as a year ago.

There are not many German planes over Africa—the Allies have at least achieved parity in air power. Where is the German Luftwaffe? Its presence darkened the skies of Europe—once—has it really vanished? Been used up? Worn out? The factories which turn out replacements all destroyed by Allied bombers? Is its necessary fuel and lubrication exhausted? Some people think that this, at least to a large degree, is true. But that explanation does not seem reasonable.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air force, doesn't believe in the impossible. He defines the impossible, roughly, as something that hasn't been done yet. That's why he's not dismayed by his current job of creating overnight the greatest air force in the world: 125,000 planes this year, a hundred thousand pilots annually—an air force with an estimated total of 2,000,000 men. He isn't sure himself how many men and planes will be needed before the sky is over. There's no precedent to guide him; even 2,000,000 may not be enough. But he's sure of one thing: It can be done, no matter how big the job. It may be impossible, but it's going to be done.

He takes his accustomed place in the front left-hand seat of the converted passenger plane as the expert fingers of Major Douglas takes off on the next leg of his rapid-fire swing. We flop into the seat opposite him, in considerable relief, and loosen our collars. This business of spending an average day with the general, we are beginning to find, constitutes a man-sized workout.

Off to an Early Start.

We were up at five-thirty this morning, and still he was ready long before we were. He's inspected half a dozen factories and airfields and training centers so far today.

You glance across the aisle at him now—restless, alert, checking the schedule, calling notes over his shoulder to his aide (ten days later he'll recall every last word he said and ask if the job has been done), going over a sheaf of papers, peering down through the window at a half-finished staging field, glancing around to make sure that everyone else in the cabin is comfortable. His face, silhouetted against the light, is smooth-cheeked, ruddy and as al-white as grinning. There's a slight vertical scar on his chin; he got it in 1912, flying from Salem, Mass., down to Bridgeport when he made a crash landing in the water.

Winner of First Mackay Trophy.

His story is virtually the history of military aviation in this country. He won the first Mackay Trophy ever given, in 1912, by flying a Wright biplane around a 30-mile course at the breathtaking speed of 43 miles an hour. The same year, he established an altitude record of 6,540 feet. Later in that crowded year, he carried the first air mail ever flown in the United States, a sensational five-mile hop from Nassau Boulevard airdrome in Long Island all the way to Hempstead.

He was likewise the first to mount guns and wireless on planes; he pioneered air reconnaissance; inaugurated the initial forest air patrol; was the army's first aerial engineer. In 1934, he won the Mackay Trophy a second time—a record in itself—by leading a flight of ten Martin bombers from Washington, D. C., to Alaska, proving his friend Gen. Billy Mitchell's oft-asserted contention that the United States was within easy bombing range of Alaska.

First, last and always, he's a flying general. He guides a ship with a veteran hand, and you recall the wording of his most recent citation, when he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for flying the Pacific from Brisbane to San Francisco in the record-shattering time of 35 hours and 53 minutes:

"As commanding general of the army air forces, he has given a conspicuous demonstration of leadership, the strategic mobility of long-range army aircraft, and the ability of the high air commander to maintain intimate contact with his units in the field."

—He lives every job himself. He knows first hand the feelings and reactions of every pilot, every officer, every cadet, every enlisted man in the ground crew. He worked his own way up, a step at a time, and he hasn't forgotten a single lesson. That's why the safety of the youngsters in his command is more important to him than anything else in the world. That's why he has refused to build planes that might gain a few hundred extra feet of altitude, at the sacrifice of essential armament, or leakproof gasoline tanks or other safety devices.

He's proud of the fact that the accident rate in our army air forces is so low today, and he intends to keep it that way.

His grin hasn't faltered, for all that he's faced with the toughest job in history. Creating overnight the best and mostest and fustest air force in the world—buying days with dollars, as he says—is a big job; it takes a big conception. It takes vision. Luckily he has that. All the incredible feats you see taking place today on a thousand scattered airfields didn't happen without a lot of preparation; don't fool yourself.

Gen. Arnold No. 1 Airman
By Corey Ford

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air force, doesn't believe in the impossible. He defines the impossible, roughly, as something that hasn't been done yet. That's why he's not dismayed by his current job of creating overnight the greatest air force in the world: 125,000 planes this year, a hundred thousand pilots annually—an air force with an estimated total of 2,000,000 men. He isn't sure himself how many men and planes will be needed before the sky is over. There's no precedent to guide him; even 2,000,000 may not be enough. But he's sure of one thing: It can be done, no matter how big the job. It may be impossible, but it's going to be done.

He takes his accustomed place in the front left-hand seat of the converted passenger plane as the expert fingers of Major Douglas takes off on the next leg of his rapid-fire swing. We flop into the seat opposite him, in considerable relief, and loosen our collars. This business of spending an average day with the general, we are beginning to find, constitutes a man-sized workout.

the same number of ration stamps?

A. Yes. Exactly the same ration book, with the same number of stamps, will be issued to every member of the family.

Q. Will processed baby foods be rationed on the same point system as food for grown-ups?

A. The processed baby foods that are made of strained or chopped fruits, vegetables, or meats, or combinations of these, put up in sealed glass or tin containers are included in the ration order. Canned milk, canned milk formulas, and canned prepared cereals will be rationed.

Q. Suppose I have used all my family's point stamps and run out of baby foods?

A. You should learn to make your points last throughout each ration period, just as you now budget your money for food to last until next payday.

Q. How will I know how to budget my ration stamps?

A. The point value of all rationed goods will be published and posted in each store at the beginning of each ration period. You will also know how many "points" your family will have to spend during that period.
