JUDGE KOHLSAAT'S DECISION:

From the Indicator, Chicago.

Briefly stated, the defendants are neither descendants of nor successors to Jonas Chickering, the source of complainant's rights. They are at best remote relatives. So far as concerns Chickering & Sons, they are strangers. Can there be any doubt in the mind of a court but that defendants deliberately and for the purpose of appropriating wrongfully the trade name and good will of complainant, and not with the intention of using their own name in a proper way, assumed and heretofore to the public a name which, when used in connection with the piano business, had no other purpose than to wrongfully bring to themselves, and deprive complainant of its property in, the good will and trade of the public which complainant and its predecessors had been more than 80 years in accumulating? There is no doubt in my mind but that such is the case. It is true that defendants have conducted themselves shrewdly and with an attempt to keep within the limits of the law, but courts will strip off such covering when evidently used as a veil for the concealment of fraudulent acts toward the public or toward an individual. The defendants, Chickering Brothers, are engaged in a dishonest use of their own name, such a use the law will restrain.

From the New York Music Trades of June 28, 1902.

The proof, therefore, that Messrs Chickering & Sons rights were being infringed upon by Chickering Bros. must have been over-whelming to have induced a man of the conservatism and standing of Judge Kohlsaat to render the decision which he has. Virtually, this decision puts Chickering Bros. and all their agents out of business, it closes Chickering Bros. factory and deprives every one of their agents of the right to sell a Chickering Bros piano whatever.

It is not merely the unscrupulous dealer who has been trying to sell a Chickering Bros. piano on the specious and lying plea that "it is the only piano made by a Chickering" who is out short in his work by this decision; it is every dealer who is today endeavoring by fraud and misrepresentation, by trading on the reputation of some honorable and long established concern, to cheat the public into paying a large price for a cheap piano.

Talk for a week—a year—you can sum it all up in few words: McCarthy will support President Roosevelt, Robinson never will. Which will you support?

Wear a "McCarthy" button, it is the proper thing. Nothing like "showing your colors" and standing up for Teddy. McCarthy is for Roosevelt every day in the week.

The fusionists owe Helen M. Gouger for campaign services in 1900 and won't pay. Fusion central committees are mighty poor pay. We know of several bills that could be bought at a discount.

Roosevelt's 1904 renomination will be such an ovation as would turn the head of a Sphinx with a bit of inward gratification. See em line up—Iowa and New York have added themselves as a unit to the long list of states endorsing our president's firm and patriotic stand on the side of the people. Who is for Teddy?

The firm of Allen, Robinson and Reed, solicitors at law and office holders by choice, will soon be able to resume business at the old stand and without any member of the firm hampered by official duties they ought to be able to write hail insurance and pick up work enough on the side to keep them well employed.

If anyone says Robinson should be returned because he is "just as good as" McCarthy, just tell him that is what the cheap John grocer says when he sells baking powder. Insist on "John J." on the label "John S." won't go half as far when it comes to the point next winter when we want to uphold our able President Theodore Roosevelt.

Without republican votes Robinson cannot be elected—what valid claim can that gentleman establish to one, even one, loyal republican vote? What can induce even one consistent republican to fritter away his vote to the eloquent advocate of dead issues when patriotic duty demands his support for Teddy, the most democratic president since Abraham Lincoln.

The leading fusionists do not speak enthusiastically of their ticket, they have nominated good men without a doubt but good men can not save a political principle erroneous in the minds of the people. National issues will dominate the state election this year and old prejudices will not influence many votes. There isn't much in the situation to cheer up the fusion boys.

Hon. J. J. McCarthy, of Ponca, republican nominee for congress from this district, was in our city Wednesday looking after his political interests. Mr. McCarthy is highly qualified and should be elected this fall, we honestly believe he will attend to his duties in a manner satisfactory to one and all. He is a pleasant gentleman to meet and we predict that John S. will have to do a great deal of training to win the third heat in the race for congressional honors this fall.—Plainview (Fusion) News.

If someone should find a huge gold nugget somewhere in the corner of the earth immediately the country would be shaken with a wave of prospectors. Better than gold nuggets are the curly tails and white faces dotting every part of this section of the country more real wealth will be produced from these farms than from the gold diggings of neighboring states, it comes steadily, a ceaseless flow of wealth that will make every farmer wealthy, afford him and his family the comfort and culture not possible to the "diggings" of Klondike or Thunder Mountain.

F. D. Fales, chairman of the republican congressional committee, was in Lyons this week. After election when he hears of Hon. John S. Robinson's big majority over McCarthy he will change the spelling of his name to "Falls." It was meet and proper that the republican chairman's name be Fales. It is in all cases and "Falls" it will be.—Lyons Mirror. If Brother Warner would go up to Dixon county and listen he would hear it something like this: "Fales! Fales! He never falls!" And you can look up his record of majorities if you wish—it won't give you much encouragement if you now have a "faint spot in your stomach," to find out that Fales has never failed at anything, not even on base ball and fish stories, and he has a record of riding goats with the fuzziest tails and hump-eest backs that ever cavorted over an emblem carpet. Sorry, Brother Warner, but we must differ with you.

Who are Tariff Reformers?

Are the democrats who go to the extreme of "free trade" and the republicans who go to the extreme of "highest possible protective tariff" either of them to pose as the real tariff reformers? We think not. Probably money interests in operations of tariff prompts the extreme free trader and the extreme protectionist to action, and undoubtedly the great majority of the American people endorse a protective tariff that operates to make us a great nation and at the same time consider it in no way sacrilegious to raise the question of the "abuses" as well as the "uses" of the tariff. They will endorse the following plank in the Iowa republican platform unanimously adopted a few days ago and like those men feel the dignity of statesmanship is being exercised by the common people, for the common people, and one of the common people graces the president's place in our nation. Around him will rally all true tariff reformers, all others are only a cheap imitation. The following is the Iowa platform plank referred to:

We stand by the historic policy of the republican party in giving protection to home industries and point for its ample vindication to the extraordinary rapidity with which our national resources have been developed and our industrial and financial independence secured. We favor such changes in the tariff from time to time as become advisable through the progress of our industries and their changing relations to the commerce of the world. We endorse the policy of reciprocity as the natural complement of protection, and urge its development as necessary to the realization of our highest commercial possibilities. That we assert the sovereignty of the people over all corporations and aggregations of capital and the right of residing in the people to enforce such regulations, restrictions or prohibitions upon corporate management as will protect the individual and society from abuse of the power which great combinations of capital wield. We cordially endorse the position of President Roosevelt in appealing to the courts to secure regulations that will control great combinations of capital that prevent competition and control the industries of the industries of the people, without legal sanction or public approval. We favor such amendment of the interstate commerce act as will more fully carry out its prohibitions of discriminations in rate-making, and any modification of the tariff schedules that may be required to prevent their affording shelter to monopoly.

Doings in Hoskins and the Vicinity

Mrs. Lonkie is much better.

Mrs. H. J. Candor returned from Wayne Friday.

Mrs. Kuhl went to Norfolk Friday evening to visit friends.

Dr. Serugg and lady were calling on Hoskins friends Saturday.

Banker Crosby visited over Sunday with a brother at Bloomfield.

Louie Ziemer was home getting acquainted with his family over Sunday.

Mrs. Kuhl left Wednesday for Iowa where she will visit for sometime with friends.

Mrs. W. J. Weatherholt, Artie and Estella left for their home at Stuart Saturday.

Mrs. Will Templin and children came up from Norfolk Friday to visit Will's parents.

F. C. Oldenberg and family arrived home Friday from a visit with relatives in Hospers, Iowa.

Dr. Sawyer has at last arrived at Hoskins and will be found by all desiring his services, at Kuhl's drug store.

There is a new building going up on north Main street, but who is to occupy it is as yet only conjecture with the majority.

There is no resident preacher at Hoskins so Rev. Lister was summoned from Stanton to marry a couple Tuesday morning.

John Ziemer and family went to Stanton Saturday evening to visit Mrs. Ziemer's sister, Mrs. Leslie Baker, returning Sunday.

Charley Burband was gone to Wyoming last week on a business trip, which accounts for the look of sorrow worn by one of our Hoskins girls.

Rev. Lister will only be at Hoskins twice more before conference and after then expects to attend school a couple of years to more fully prepare himself for his work as a minister of the gospel. His two last services here will be August 17 and 31.

The Much Time on Hands.

Two fellows giving their names as Harold Olson and Rik Kristoffson, tramp like fellows without any residence or friends in the country that they would speak of, though Olson spoke of a "poor mother" in the old country who would feel awful if she found out his wrong doing, were arraigned in Judge Hunter's court Tuesday afternoon and held under $500 bonds to stand trial in the District court. They were in D. A. Danielson's store Monday and while the proprietor was out for change Olson slipped eight watches valued at $113, into his pockets and as soon as convenient skipped out some where south west. They followed the railroad towards Winside, and Marshall Harry Smith accompanied by John Peterson met them and arrested them about a mile east of that place. The authorities here acted promptly in their search for them and Sheriff Mears had them in the county jail in time for supper. In default of bail they will board at the expense of Wayne county until December unless they choose to plead guilty. There is no doubt of their guilt as the watches were positively identified and found in Olson's pockets. He does not try to lay the blame in the least on Kristoffson who denies any accessory part to the deal. Olson would plead guilty no doubt and get at time serving at once but there seems to be some doubt about the guilt of Kristoffson and it will probably take a jury to determine that. The state feels that he is likely an accessory after the fact, at least. The penalty is one to seven years in the penitentiary in grand larceny under which charge they will be tried. The men are aged about thirty and forty years and evidently were not looking for work as much as they were looking for valuables. Judge Hunter aptly remarked it "looked like a case of two much time on hands" and it looks now that "time" will be the principal thing they will indulge in for some time to come. They claimed extenuating circumstances in as much as they were boozed up pretty well but the booze from the same kegs did not seem to affect any one else the same way and will not have much weight with a jury. Both men have worked a short time around here.

A Pretty Monument.

Some time ago Prof. R. Durrin received an order to execute in his own design a memorial piece for the late A. J. Watson, editor and publisher of the Coleridge Blade, and Mirah, their daughter, a sweet young lady who died a few weeks before her father. When the artist has the liberty of choice he brings out effects that in the conventional styles of art are often passed and the effect is mechanical rather than artistic. In this piece of work little is attempted in ornamentation, simply a contrast—the intuitive of classic beauty. The whole piece weighs nearly a ton, the shaft done in New York marble polished perfectly is simply inscribed and resting on a heavy base stands about four and one-half high. The top is beveled and presents to view a hand holding a pen and resting upon a scroll beside the hand carelessly dropped is a rose and its triparted leaves; the one emblematic of the sire, cares and responsibilities recorded on a page of life's busy chapter, the other emblematic of a careless, sweet and fleeting life that knew only its Junetele. This done in Carrara (Italian) marble, the most classic and most expensive stone that yields to the sculptors chisel in its snowy whiteness, the artists ideal of contrast and relief. No doubt this is one of the most beautiful of the many pieces done by Prof. Durrin, he has taken much time to execute it and followed each line with that care and precision that impels the artist to chisel his thoughts and sentiments in classic lore. Those who have seen the piece, especially those who know the late Editor Watson, appreciate the fitness of it and all have greatly admired it.

RAISING A GHOST

(Original.) "Come, grandpas, tell us a ghost story."

"There are no ghosts, my children." "Oh, yes, there are!" "I will tell them one," said grandpa.

"one in which I had a part, so I can vouch for its truth."

The children clapped their hands, and grandpa proceeded:

"It was before the day of railroads in America, I was traveling between New York and Boston by coach and stopped over in a village which has since grown to be a city. During the evening the coffee room was full, and in those days people did not sit apart, but fraternized and telling stories. One man, it is true, sat at a table by himself and would have nothing to do with any one else. He was a man with a red shabby head and snaggle teeth. No one regretted his unsociability on account of his disagreeable appearance. At one of the tables half a dozen of us were discussing the subject of supernatural appearances on earth, and a young peddler brought his flat down on the table and said:

"The man who says the dead come back to us lies!"

"The redheaded man turned his head slowly and fixed a pair of greenish eyes on the speaker.

"I say that the dead come back!" "Then you lie!"

"The peddler started up, but one held him back.

"Young man," said the green eyed man, "if I chose I could convince you of the truth of my words."

"If you will do so, I will give you all the money I have with me. See here; it is $10."

"The other turned away with a gesture of contempt. 'Raise the dead for $10! What a sacrilege!' Then, suddenly changing his mind, he said, 'I'll lay you a wager of $100 to $50 that I can call up one of the dead who will make you howl with terror!'

"But I have only $10."

"Well, then, if you cannot make good your words, hold your peace."

"By this time we were all interested in making the green eyed man prove that he could raise the dead. To do so it was necessary to get $40 to put with the peddler's $10. There were by this time eight of us, and we each lent the peddler $5.

"Who shall be stakeholder?" he asked.

"You," said the green eyed man. "Keep your fifty and take my hundred. Go up to your room. It is now 11 o'clock. At midnight I shall show you your friend Elnathan Harmon!"

"Elnathan Harmon! How did you know he was my friend?"

"Never mind that. Go to your room."

"The peddler went up stairs, the green eyed man took up a newspaper, and the rest of us discussed in low tones the probability of the peddler winning the money. We feared that the ghost raiser would play him some trick, for he was a villainous looking creature, while the peddler was a happy go lucky individual who might be easily swindled. But when we considered that he himself held the stakes we could not see how a fraud could be possible.

"We sat thus, watching the clock in the corner, drinking, smoking, chatting, stealthily keeping an eye on the ghost raiser. He paid no attention to us whatever, keeping his eyes on his newspaper. As the hands of the clock neared the hour of 12 we expected to see him get up and go out. What we most feared was that he would go up stairs, frighten the peddler and claim the stakes. A few minutes before midnight I said to him:

"Are you going to raise a ghost sitting there reading that newspaper?"

"He turned his green eyes slowly toward me. 'I do not raise ghosts. I have only the power to communicate with the dead, which I do mentally. I sent a mental message to Elnathan Harmon to meet his friend up stairs at midnight. I have nothing more to do with the matter. The spirit of Elnathan Harmon will be there.'

"As he spoke the hammer of the big clock began to strike the hour of 12. At the first stroke we heard a sudden jar in the room above. By the sixth stroke something fell heavily on the floor. Every stroke after that was accompanied by a piercing shriek, each growing more frightful than the previous one. At last there was a cry of 'Help!' followed by guttural sounds, as if some one were strangling.

"Every one of our party sprang to his feet and, rushing up stairs, attempted to enter the peddler's room. It was locked. We listened, but heard no sound.

"He's done for!" cried one. "Break open the door!" cried another. "Give me a lift," said I. "I'll look through the transom."

"I was lifted to the proper level, but as the room was dark I could see nothing.

"Then we tried to break open the door. It was not only locked, but securely bolted on the inside by one of the enormous bolts used in those days. Finally the strongest as well as the heaviest of the party drew back and, rushing forward, drove his heel against the door. It flew open, and we all rushed into the chamber.

"It was empty. A window was open, and a shed a few feet below formed a convenient stepping stone to the ground. The peddler had fled. We quickly went down stairs to the room where we had left the ghost raiser. He was not there. These two precious rogues had made away with our $40."

The Norfolk League team and the College play ball this afternoon.

K. Taylor is in this city looking for a location for a photograph gallery.

The College team put it on the Real Estates Monday to the tune of 11 to 0.

E. J. Raymond returned Sunday afternoon from a two month's sojourn through the west.

Frank Mettlen and wife, of Winside attended the funeral of Mrs. W. J. Mettlen on Friday.

The fare from Wayne to Laurel, to the M. W. A. picnic tomorrow and Friday will be 75 cents for the round trip.

Hon. J. H. Mickey, republican candidate for governor, will address the Old Settlers of this county at their picnic on the 21st.

Mrs. J. G. Ingraham, of Quincy, Illinois, arrived in the city Friday for a visit of a month or so with her sister, Mrs. W. H. Gibson.

Chas. Sheldon, who will conduct the Wilson Bros. store at Fairfax, South Dakota, and Miss Wilson, left for that place Sunday evening.

G. E. Stone and Miss Adula Stone, brother and sister of Mrs. Horace Gregory arrived yesterday from Anita, Iowa, for a short visit at the Gregory home.

J. L. Criss and family left Wayne Friday, Mr. Criss and Floyd going to Omaha, and Mrs. Criss, daughter Nina and son Neil going to Bloomfield to visit relatives.

A basket ball game between the Wayne First Five and the Stars and Stripes, of the College, at the latter's grounds last evening, resulted in a score of 17 to 22.

Mrs. Sanford and daughter Maude, with their cousin, Mrs. C. K. Smith, all of Sioux City, left for home after a very pleasant visit of three weeks at the homes of relatives and friends.

The young ladies class of the M. E. Sunday school will hold an ice cream social Thursday evening in the building vacated by Darnell's bakery. Everybody attend and have a good time.

M. S. Davies sold a fine oak piano case to W. G. Rice a few days ago. Mr. Rice is a lover of nice things in his home which is one of the most hospitable in Logan township of Dixon county.

The young ladies' Sunday school class of the M. E. church will serve ice cream and cake Thursday afternoon and evening in the rooms vacated by Mr. Darnell. Proceeds are to be applied on building fund.

W. S. Goldie has purchased the Midler building, formerly occupied by Volpp Bros meat market, and will move it to his lot on the east side and convert it into a print shop. He will move the building now occupying his lot to the rear of the one recently purchased and occupy both buildings with the Democrat.

F. D. Fales was in Wayne the latter part of last week in the interests of the republican congressional campaign. He speaks very encouragingly of the favor with which McCarthy is met by the people of the district. He drops into a place sometimes and without the people recognizing him as the Campaign Manager, they speak freely of the situation. Mr. Fales says he finds the people awake to the fact that a principle deep and convincing underlies the purpose of the people to vote for the man who will support Roosevelt.

Prof. R. Durin has bought the property where his marble works are located and will add considerable improvements to the place, building and making it meet the demands his business calls for. Wayne people will be pleased to hear this as they are greatly appreciative of the progress of an enterprise as our marble works have proven to be. The quality of the work and the reasonable price it is done for bring many orders which are unsold and save the customer the agents profit. This is largely the reason why Prof. Durin has to build. He has to catch up with the business that has outgrown his present quarters.

J. C. Pawleski was at Carroll Thursday.

John Harmer went to Norfolk last night.

M. P. Ahern will go to Chicago tomorrow.

Are you a post-millennialist? Or are you a pre-millennialist? What do you know about the second coming of Jesus Christ? This is the topic at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening 8 o'clock. Come and bring your friends.

The College ball team played a game at Pender Thursday in which the score stood, at the windup, 13 and 2 in our boys favor. George Sherbahn pitched the entire game and the Pender boys only secured four hits during the entire game.

Henry L. Shattock, of Shellsburg, Iowa, was cured of a stomach trouble with which he had been afflicted for years, by four boxes of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He had previously tried many other remedies and a number of physicians without relief. For sale by Raymond's Pharmacy.

One of the proudest girls we ever knew married the most utterly worthless man in the community and now has to do washing to support seven children. The two oldest are married. The husband and father gives nothing toward the support of the family, finding it a serious task to provide for himself and lay by an honest dollar now and then for something to drink. A lazy man is worse than seven years of famine.—Ex.

Shortly after five o'clock on Thursday afternoon the clanging of the fire bell and the screech of the siren at the power house told the inhabitants of a fire in the west part of the city at the home of Asher Hurlburt. The fire department quickly responded, but by the time they arrived on the scene the blaze had almost entirely destroyed a small barn and stack of hay belonging Mr. Hurlburt. Children and matches caused the conflagration.

Emanuel P. Bowlsby, an old settler of Antelope county and who entered the homestead adjoining Neligh now owned by P. D. Thompson, died at Pearl, D. U. T. county, Wyoming, June 23. He had been sick since April, and was 87 years of age at the time of his death. He was a well known character in the history of Antelope county, where he had resided with the exception of short absences until about two years ago. Mr. Bowlsby's father who is buried here was a printer who worked on Benjamin Franklin's paper in Philadelphia and reached an age of 107 years.—Neligh Leader.

Mr. Bowlsby resided near Dixon for a few years and many friends up there will be interested in hearing of his death, as he was a well liked man and a unique character.

Mettlen.

Mary E., wife of W. J. Mettlen, of Omaha, died at the Methodist hospital, in that city on Monday, the 28th. The remains were brought to this city on Wednesday evening and the funeral was held from the home of Mrs. J. T. Mettlen, in this city at ten o'clock Friday morning and the remains interred at Greenwood cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Peter Birrell, of the Presbyterian church of this city. Those attending the funeral, from abroad, were Dr. Mettlen, of Bloomfield; A. G. Mettlen, of Breaux; and Frank Mettlen, of Winside, and their wives, and Chief Railway Clerk Shewer, of Omaha, who accompanied Mr. Mettlen to Wayne. Deceased was born in Canada, March 11, 1864, and came to Wayne 19 years ago. In October, 1888, she was united in marriage to W. J. Mettlen at Sturgis, South Dakota and moved to Omaha where they have resided ever since. Deceased has a host of friends here who will sympathize deeply with the bereft husband in the hour of his extreme sorrow.

Note for Senator.

W. L. Mote, the Plainview banker, was at the county seat on business last Saturday morning. He informed us that an encampment of Odd Fellows was instituted at Plainview the night before, the entire night being taken up in the work. Mr. Mote is one of the most enthusiastic and energetic Republican workers we have in the county and we have heard his name mentioned in connection with the State Senatorial nomination this fall. We feel certain that should Mr. Mote consent to make the race he would prove a strong campaigner and be elected by a nice majority. The other counties in the district concede that it is Pierce county's turn to name the candidate.—Pierce Call.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Don't Be Penny-Wise and Pound-Fool.—Follow the Advice of a Prominent Physician.

George M. Moore, M. D., in the American Health Journal, says: "The market is overflooded with fake laxatives made only to ruin a person physically and financially. They contain injurious ingredients and should be avoided by all who require a laxative. The one laxative which has merit is Cascarine, made from roots, herbs, barks, plants and berries, nature's true remedies, and has given universal satisfaction. It would be an excellent investment for any one to keep this remedy near at hand. The digestive organs often need a laxative tonic to aid them in their work which every one makes doubly hard through carelessness." Cascarine cleanses the bowels thoroughly, strengthens the stomach, stimulates the liver and increases the flow of bile. This results in more of the food being digested and purer blood being produced. Pure blood will overcome any disease. It tones up the nerves, makes the complexion clear and healthy. No one can afford to be without a bottle of Cascarine, for it only costs 50 cents a bottle and your money will be refunded if it is not entirely satisfactory.

The manufacturers will send to any address, free of charge, a little booklet explaining thoroughly the cause and cure of diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and one week treatment, for ten cents in stamps to cover postage.

Address: Rea Bros. & Co., Minneapolis, Louisville and New York.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this Remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by Raymond's Pharmacy.

Young Lady's Life Saved.

Dr. Chas. H. Uiter, a prominent physician, of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Raymond's Pharmacy.

Senatorial Convention.

The republican electors of the eleventh senatorial district of Nebraska are requested to send delegates to a convention to be held at Norfolk, Nebraska, on Tuesday September 2, 1902, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for state senator from said district, to select a central committee and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention. The basis of representation shall be one delegate for each county and one delegate for each 100 votes, or major fraction thereof, cast for W. W. Young for state senator in 1900. The several counties are entitled to representation as follows: Madison 18, Pierce 9, Stanton 9, Wayne 12.

It is recommended that county conventions empower the delegates in attendance to cast the full vote of the county at the senatorial convention, and that no proxies be admitted.

A. F. ENOS, Chairman.

P. F. SPRECHER, Secretary.

Road Notice.

To all whom it may concern: By order of the Board of County Commissioners of Wayne County, Nebraska:

Upon the petition of Martin Muth et al for the opening of the following section line road: Commencing at the northwest corner of section one, township twenty-five, range four, east of the sixth principal meridian, running thence west of the township line between township twenty-five, range four and township twenty-six, range four, for a distance of four miles and terminating at the northwest corner of section five, township twenty-five, range four, in Wayne county, Nebraska. All objections to the opening of said road or claims for damages by reason thereof must be filed in the County Clerk's office on or before noon of the 20th day of August, A. D. 1902, or such will be established without further reference thereto.

Dated at Wayne, Nebraska this 18th day of June, A. D. 1902.

KING EDWARD WILL NOT ALLOW POSTPONEMENT.

Bursts Into Rage at the Suggestion Haunted by Superstitious Fears—Doctors Fear King Will Not Survive Another Disappointment.

London: King Edward is firmly resolved to be crowned next Saturday, even if he has to be borne up Westminster Abbey in a litter.

When he heard that the duke of Norfolk had issued new invitations to the coronation, the king was extremely annoyed and sent a message to the duke directing that all preparations be completed immediately, as the coronation certainly would take place this time.

The duke of Norfolk has been in constant direct communication with the queen and the officials of the royal yacht, and if he thought it desirable to omit the date from the invitation cards it can be realized how well founded is the public uncertainty.

The desire to get the coronation over with has grown to be a perfect mania with the royal invalid. It is related that the other day his friend, the Marquis de Severn, let fall an expression which seemed to imply that the coronation date is not absolutely certain.

The king himself is making all his engagements for the fall on that basis. If anything should happen now to defer the coronation, the king would be in a race that caused the doctors no little alarm.

Undoubtedly the king's anxiety to be crowned is largely due to superstition. He seems to have been beset with evil omens before his breakdown.

The world correspondent learns that when the king arrived from Aldershot and Windsor castle the royal standard could not be got above half mast. It stuck there and could not be hoisted.

AN UNWELCOME SURPRISE. Gen. Smith Did Not Expect His Forced Retirement.

San Francisco: Gen. Jacob H. Smith, who returned last Friday from Manila, will spend several days in this city, and then go to his home in Portsmouth, O.

Speaking on the subject for the first time since his arrival, Gen. Smith said his forced retirement from the army was an unwelcome surprise. He did not expect more than a court martial.

REGARDED AS ALIENS. Immigrants from Porto Rico and the Philippines Must be Examined.

Washington: Commissioner General Sarant, of the immigration bureau, with the approval of Secretary Hughes has issued a circular prohibiting the coming to the United States of residents and natives of Porto Rico and the Philippines except after the same examination as is enforced against other alien emigrants.

Hail Storm Ruins Crops. Lisbon, N. D.: This place was the center of a hurricane and destructive hail storm Friday evening. Crops in this section are totally destroyed.

Blamed for Disastrous Wreck. Rochester, N. Y.: Conductor Delavergne and Engineer Connelly have been arrested and admitted to bail on the charge of manslaughter.

Noted Bandit Drowned. Manila: Pablo Mulas, a bandit, who had terrorized the island of Romblon for the past ten years, was captured by the native constabulary.

GEN. SMITH LEARNS HIS FATE.

San Francisco: Standing on the bridge of the steamer Thomas, eagerly waiting with the ship's captain for a glimpse of his native shores, Gen. Jacob H. Smith, tried by court martial for having ordered the island of Samar transferred to a howling wilderness, was doomed Friday morning to first learn that the president had retired him from active duty.

The pilot boat, which met the Thomas just outside the heads at 2 o'clock Friday morning, brought to Gen. Smith the first news of the president's action. In the falling light of a bimbed lamp the veteran read the message that apprised him of his fate.

Six hours later, when the Thomas reached the quarantine station in the harbor, Maj. Dwyal, of the transport service, boarded the ship with his secretary and met both Gen. Smith and Lieut. Shields at the door of the general's cabin.

A sealed document from the war department was handed Gen. Smith. It contained the official notification of President Roosevelt's action, and upon reading it Gen. Smith retired, overcome with emotion.

MISSOURI RIVER COMMISSION TELLS OF EXTRAVAGANT EXPENDITURES.

Reports from officers in charge of river and harbor improvements, with estimates for the fiscal year 1904, received by the chief of engineers include that of the Missouri river commission, which ceased to exist June 30. The commission has been in existence since 1884.

The report states that the policy of the commission, which has remained unchanged, was to continue the progressive control of the river, contrary to the general opinion of the public, but that unfortunately the commission has not been permitted to carry that plan out.

The report expounds into an elaborate defense of the commission, based upon criticisms in the press and in the report of the House committee on rivers and harbors. It is asserted that Congress specifically directed the expenditure of funds for local work unconnected with the general improvement of the river.

Since the organization of the commission $7,150,000 has been appropriated for work under it, of which $240,000 has been expended on the river above Sioux City, Iowa, $2,164,364 on detached localities, $486,585 for surveys and gauges, $855,765 for plant, office work and expenses of the commission, leaving but $3,289,021 for effective, progressive and systematic improvement of the river extending over a period of eighteen years.

It will almost certainly be the largest crop ever grown in the west. Wheat in the same territory is very heavy and not less than thirty bushels per acre are raised.

STATE OF NEBRASKA

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN CONDENSED FORM.

Consolidation of Creamery and Dairy Interests Affects the State Food Commission—The Farmers Now Use Hand Cream Separators.

A Lincoln special says: The general consolidation of the creamery and dairy interests of Nebraska has deprived the state food commission of a large source of revenue.

Not only have the small creameries and dairies consolidated, but the skimming stations are being rapidly discontinued. The small creameries and dairies give way to the modern central plants and the skimming stations bow in submission to the hand separator.

The fees required are: Skimming stations, $1; creamery, $10; manufacturer of butter, manufacturer or wholesale dealer in dairy vinegar, $15; manufacturer or wholesale dealer in cream, whey or fruit vinegar, $50; manufacturer or wholesale dealer in adulterated vinegar, $50; retail dealer in imitation butter or cheese, $25; wholesale dealer in imitation butter or cheese, $50; manufacturer of imitation butter or cheese, $100.

Colored Divine Receives Bad Wound at Fremont. Considerable excitement was caused on West Sixth Street, Fremont, Wednesday evening by some of the colored population, in the course of which Rev. Wilson, who claims to be a Baptist minister from Lincoln, received a severe cut on the neck from another colored man, H. A. Adams.

Wednesday evening Rev. Wilson, who is a man about 35 years old, was passing the Adams house and seeing Adams and his wife on the front steps raised his hat and bowed. Adams told him to leave, and as the divine didn't seem to be in a hurry he pulled a knife and slashed the preacher in the neck.

Beware of the soft drink in too large quantities. In regard to Mr. Cleveland, is Col. Watterston all in? What will President John Mitchell do with all his bonquets? Hobson should enter a caveat against the whole of womankind. Gen. Smith may be glad that retirement from the army was all he got. Is the Chicago safety-deposit box really so better than the old stock-piling? Farmers along the Mississippi River are having the "water cure" administered to their crops. It may be that the coal trust is keeping up the strike just to get the people used to high prices. By this time the Mayor of Minneapolis is probably convinced that the grand jury is a prejudiced body. Mary MacLane does not read all that is printed about her. The poor girl has had some sleep. While collecting her scattered diamonds Mary Yoko made no attempt to gather up her scattered husbands. Gen. Bragg should hasten to demonstrate that is an easy charge to make a whistle from a pig's tail. With his Mayor far away in one direction and his chief of police in another, Minneapolis breathes easier. Bandit Tracy's method of paying for his meals would never become popular with timid eastern landladies. We may be able to live without Mr. Wu, but for the first week it will seem as though something were lacking. Midwestern floods and spring droughts demonstrate that the old reliable patent medicine almanac is no longer running the weather. Chicago bookmakers who bet that the United States navy department was necessary to have a new people, when they have departed, are in a situation that the bookmaker is in.

STRIKERS ARE SHOT.

DEPUTIES AND POLICE FIRE ON MINERS.

Mob at Shenandoah Attacks Nonunion Men—Rioters, After Victory, Control the Town—Troops Are Rushed to the Scene.

One thousand shots were fired, a merchant was killed, two score strikers and four policemen were shot and a deputy sheriff and two non-union miners were beaten almost to death during a battle at Shenandoah, Va., between 5,000 strikers and strike sympathizers and officials who sought to protect non-union miners that had been imported in an effort to break the coal strike.

Sheriff Reddick, whose cousin was slain in one skirmish, appealed to the Governor for troops, and the Eighth and Twelfth regiments were ordered out, to go with the Governor's troops from Harrisburg. The miners' union admitted that the torch element was beyond control. The troops took complete control of the town. The United Mine Workers posted a bulletin disavowing any connection with the rioting, and calling upon all miners to aid in maintaining peace. Mayor Brown issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens to help preserve the peace.

The long night of anger of the strikers, to control which has been the continued effort of the leaders of the United Mine Workers, burst all bounds shortly before midnight Wednesday and a desperate battle raged. The men engaged in the conflict were the torch element of the strikers. They flung the counsel of the leaders to the winds. Shenandoah, a town of 25,000 inhabitants, and the surrounding region during the night underwent a reign of terror.

All day the town was in disorder, but the serious trouble did not start until 6 o'clock, when Deputy Sheriff Thomas Reddick, a cousin of the sheriff, attempted to escort a non-union miner, through the strikers' line of pickets. The workmen were dressed in their street clothes, but one of them carried a bundle of sticks and the other the suspicion of one of the strikers. The bundle was torn from him, and when it was found to contain a Bible and a hymn book, the man was taken from the deputy and beaten almost to death.

In the meantime Reddick opened fire on the mob which he followed by this time and the mob was resolved. Two of the strikers took effect, one man being shot in the leg and the other in the foot. The deputy and the other strike breaker were now compelled to fly for their lives and took refuge in the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad station. The station was soon surrounded by an angry mob of 5,000, who were being urged on by a crowd of demonstrators. A moment later Reddick, a hardware merchant and a member of the deputy sheriff, was seen making his way through the crowd in an effort to reach his brother, and the mob, thinking that he was carrying ammunition to those inside the station, seized him and beat him with clubs into insensibility. He fled on the way to the miners' hospital.

The strike continued to stone the station, and the entire borough police force rushed to the scene and escorted the deputy sheriff and his men to an engine which had been backed into the station for that purpose. When the mob realized that its prey was about to escape, it surrounded the engine, and the engineer was afraid to move.

In a few moments the police fired a volley, a score of the crowd fled, and the mob was now divided into two groups. One group moved toward the station, and the other toward the town. The mob that moved toward the station, and the other toward the town. The mob that moved toward the station, and the other toward the town. The mob that moved toward the station, and the other toward the town.

FOOD DEAR IN LONDON.

Poor Feel the Recent Breaking Price of Provisions.

The increase in the price of provisions is making a great difference to London's humble inhabitants. At the present moment, in the plain of Londoners in the provision trade, food is dearer than at any time for a quarter of a century. Bacon, the most necessary luxury, has risen in price from one shilling and one-half to one shilling and six pence. It is due to a scarcity of hogs in the United States.

"There is a great dearth of hogs," says a dealer experienced in the retail trade, was asked. "He simply doesn't do at all," was the reply. "He is either to diminish the quantity of hogs he eats, or else, the more usual course, he substitutes a cheap jam or marmalade."

Frogs Far and Near.

Edward Philbrick, one of the largest cattle owners of Eastern Montana, was drowned in the Rosford River near Forsyth, Mont. The Madrid Express was derailed owing to some unknown cause near Guadalupe (Portugal). Nearly all the cars were wrecked. Six persons were killed and twenty-seven injured.

Secretary Moody, after consultation with his bureau chiefs, gave orders that one of the battleships authorized at the last session of Congress be constructed at the New York navy yard.

William J. Haddock, for thirty-eight years secretary of the board of regents of the University of Iowa at Iowa City, has resigned because of ill health.

A Mexican woman in El Paso, Mexico, has given birth to two healthy children, the second one born six weeks after the first. The case has caused considerable comment among the physicians.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

Mr. Ware, the commissioner of pensions, received a letter from a man in Illinois a few days ago which read: "I am now getting a pension of $20 a month. Recently the Lord has prospered me, and I do not think I should get so much money. I gave my services to the country, and I think I should have some pension, of course, but I think $20 a month is too much. Is there any way I can have my pension reduced or suspended while I enjoy the prosperity that is mine at present?" This is the only request for a reduction of pension ever received by the bureau. It was referred to the postmaster in the district in which the man lived, who reported as follows: "I have the honor to inform you that the person who applied for a reduction in his pension is now in the insane asylum at this place, and has been for some time."

All members of the Cabinet who are able to speak will be on the stump this year at the request of President Roosevelt, who himself will make several campaign speeches. Secretary Shaw will speak in Maine and will close the campaign in Iowa. Secretary Moody will deliver several addresses in Massachusetts and other New England States. Secretary Hay is preparing a careful speech to be given widely publicity during the campaign. Secretary Root, upon his return from abroad, will go to the Northwest for a brief tour. Secretary Wilson will speak in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and other middle Western States. Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock and Postmaster General Payne have not the gift of public speaking, and will not appear on the stump. Postmaster General Payne, however, will act as a political manager.

On either side of the United States Senate chamber is an ancient snuffbox—one for Republicans and one for Democrats. The boxes are a survival of the old-time habit of snuff taking, which was almost universal in the eighteenth century among persons of fashion and public men. The habit persisted well through the first half of the nineteenth century, but during the past fifty years has gone out of style. The Senate boxes, however, remain, and it appears that they are kept filled. Senator Vest of Missouri and Senator Harris of Kansas, who formerly used the boxes occasionally, have broken off the habit, and Senator Pettus is now their solitary patron. He is the last of the snuff takers in that historic body at least.

Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador to this country, is a confirmed cigarette smoker. Once he contracted nicotine poisoning by his excessive smoking and for a couple of weeks was near to death's door. Nothing daunted, he resumed smoking as soon as he got well and he and the cigarette are now inseparable. Years ago, when on a diplomatic mission in China, he used to smoke between ninety and 100 cigarettes a day and used 400,000 of them during his stay in that country.

President Roosevelt signifies his intention of going to Mississippi next fall to enjoy a bear hunt with Gov. Longino. In Tallahatchie County, where Gov. Longino's plantation is located, bears are so plentiful that the farmers are organizing bear hunts as a source of protection to their stock. This is assurance that the President will have rare sport so long as he cares to indulge in it.

It is said that Senator Clark, the opposition Senator, is very fond of singing. He has a mild parlor tone, and people who have heard it say they like it. When he warbles "The Evening Star" or "The Night Wind Crosses the Mountains," it is claimed that the listeners even go so far as to murmur, "Isn't it sweet?" and "What an exquisite melody!"

An order issued by the treasury officials extends to Chicago commercial interests the privilege of depositing funds in the sub-treasury there for payment in New York on the telegraphic notice of depositors. The object of the order is to facilitate transactions in cotton operations, and it places Chicago on equal footing with New York as a center of financial exchange.

Secretary of the Navy Moody has decided that the press correspondence shall not be favored with reports of the army and navy. He is doing this, it is thought, in order to bring to light news leaks and in testing official vigilance in preserving the secrecy of the navy.

It is quite probable that the signal corps of the army will use a system of wireless telegraphy in the coming joint army and naval maneuvers. Gen. Gray is designated a special army board to consider the matter.

The government has decided to build the first wireless telegraph station on the New Jersey highlands of New Jersey. With such a station the Navy Department will be able to communicate with ships many miles at sea.

The civil service commission has announced an amendment to the civil service regulations, providing a punishment for government employees who shall attempt to secure promotion by means of bribery.

It has been announced from Washington that there is now no likelihood of an extra session of Congress. The President will negotiate a reciprocity treaty with Cuba and ask Congress to ratify it when it meets in December.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

During the past week beef cattle sold for $8.25 per 100 pounds, the highest price ever received for beef in open market.

Leading window glass jobbers and some makers have withdrawn price quotations pending experiments with the new glass machine in the De Pany factory at Alexandria, Ind. The associated jobbers have advanced prices, and it is predicted that American glass factories will be exporting glass soon.

A syndicate of capitalists has been forming a company in Buffalo for the control of the milk supply of that city. Options have been secured for a limited period on 20,000 of the 33,000 gallons of the daily supply, all but twenty of the 330 dealers being included in the "combine."

With the object of increasing the use of fuel gas for domestic purposes, a number of women have been employed in New York to go about teaching housekeepers how to manage gas stoves and so to make the use of gas more attractive and economical. This constitutes a new field of work for women.

GENERAL CROP CONDITIONS.

Temperature Is Highly Favorable Throughout Middle West.

The crop report issued by the weather bureau gives the following general summary of crop conditions in the country. Drought of considerable severity generally prevails from Virginia and the Carolinas westward over Kentucky, Tennessee and the northern portion of the central and east gulf States, including eastern Arkansas, southeastern Missouri, and the southern portions of Illinois and Indiana, while heavy and damaging rains have continued in Texas, portions of the Missouri valley and lower lake region. Rains are generally lull in the central and southern Rocky Mountain districts. The temperature conditions have been highly favorable, except in New England, New York and Texas, where it has been too cool and in California where excessive heat has caused some deciduous fruit to ripen faster than it could be handled.

The corn crop has experienced another week of exceptionally favorable conditions over much the greater part of the principal corn area. The least favorable reports being received from southeastern Missouri and southern Illinois, where the crop is being injured by drought. A fine field is promised in Kansas, Nebraska, Indiana and over much the greater part of Missouri, Illinois and Ohio. In Iowa, where the crop has suffered much in previous weeks from heavy rains and lack of cultivation, corn is improving, and in the early fields is coming heavily. In the middle Atlantic States and to the southward of the Ohio river corn has suffered much from drought in sections, especially the early planted.

Showers have prevented the completion of the winter wheat harvest in the lake region, New England and the northern portion of the middle Atlantic States, where damage to wheat in shock is quite extensively reported; elsewhere harvesting is completed, except on the Pacific coast, where it is progressing rapidly in Oregon and has begun in Washington. Late spring wheat needs rain in portions of South Dakota, and just as appearing in North Dakota, but on the whole its condition is very promising. The crop is ripening rapidly in the northern portion of the spring wheat region. In portions of southern Minnesota fields are too wet for the binders.

But harvesting is progressing under Illinois and in the upper Mississippi valley and lake region, where the crop is fully lodged, and fields in some sections too wet for the reapers. Notwithstanding these adverse conditions, the general outlook for a large yield is favorable, especially in the Missouri and upper Ohio valleys and the northern portion of the middle Atlantic States.

The northern portions of the eastern and central districts of the cotton belt are suffering from drought, the effects of which are beginning to be more seriously felt especially on uplands. Outside the drought area in the districts named the crop is making very favorable progress, the plant being heavily fruited. General and heavy rains in Texas were very beneficial in western counties, but they were not needed elsewhere in that State. These rains have caused very rapid growth and the plant is heavily fruited, but considerable damage by boll weevil, hot and dry weather is now needed in Texas to permit cultivation and check ravages by insects. Picking continues in the southern counties and has commenced in the central counties, but has been retarded by frequent rains.

Tobacco is suffering from drought in Tennessee, Virginia and portions of Kentucky and Maryland. In the other tobacco States the reports are generally promising. Dry weather in the Carolinas has been very favorable for curing. As a rule the general outlook for apples continues unpromising, although in some sections a good crop is promised. The most favorable reports are received from New England, eastern and northern New York, Michigan and portions of Illinois, Kansas and Oklahoma.

The lack of a good hay crop has been reported in the States of the central valley. In the lake region and northern portion of the middle Atlantic States hay continues, but has been considerably delayed by rains and much has been damaged.

INNOVATION IN CHURCH MUSIC.

New York Girl Who Whistled Solos During Services. Probably the first occasion on which a whistling solo has ever been given in a church was the other Sunday morning in the Lexington Avenue Baptist Church at Lexington street and 11th street, New York City.

Miss Louise Truax, the whistler, is a charming young woman who began whistling in public at society gatherings about two years ago. Musicians, who heard her range wonderful, it extends from B below "middle C" to F above "high C"—three full octaves. She also sings beautifully and her voice ranges from B above "high C" to G—two and one-half octaves.

Miss Truax says that the position of her body makes no difference to her in whistling. She can do just as well sitting or bending over toward the front or even reclining, as she can standing erect. Whistling has had a wonderful effect on her chest and lungs, her expansion having increased greatly. The solo with which Miss Truax delighted the congregation was Traumer's by R. Schumann.

MERCHANT ENDS HIS LIFE.

Former Head of a Chicago Store Shoots Himself While Ill.

Abraham M. Rothchild, millionaire and former president of the A. M. Rothschild & Co. big Chicago department store, committed suicide Monday afternoon in the bathroom of his residence. He accomplished his purpose of self-destruction by sending a bullet through his brain. Mr. Rothchild's death. Always a health worker, he was obliged to retire from business on account of ill health last May. Since then he had been suffering from the disease which was the indirect cause of his tragic act.

Friends and relatives believe that he was temporarily deranged. That is the only explanation offered as a solution of the suicide. The merchant was prosperous and happy in all of his relations. Mr. Rothchild used to call himself "No. 33" and was proud of the fact that from being the thirteenth child of a poor family in the Black Forest of Germany he had risen to a position of prominence in the American business world. At the time of his death his estate was conservatively estimated to be worth at least $1,000,000.

COMMERCIAL FINANCIAL

Each day brings the agricultural products of the nation nearer maturity, and as the possibility of any serious injury becomes smaller the feeling of confidence in fully established trade grows stronger. Storms destroyed much property in some sections, and the prompt restoration of structures has added to the activity of building trades. Railway stocks rose to new high record quotations and gold was exported, yet money ruled easy. July oats succeeded corn as the leading speculative cereal, but all distant grain options tended lower as the outlook improved. The heavy distribution of merchandise is shown by railway earnings thus far for the first 25 per cent larger than last year and 20 per cent in excess of the corresponding period of 1900.

R. G. Dun & Co's weekly review thus sums up the trade outlook and continuing, says: "Insufficient fuel is the serious difficulty in the iron and steel industry, interruptions and delays from this cause becoming more noticeable each day. Supplies of coal are curtailed by the strike, although coke ovens are making new records of production. Shipments are retarded by the car and motive power shortage. In a market where there is comparative dullness because deliveries cannot be made promptly, the outlook for long continued activity seems favorable, especially as security of fuel cannot be shown to be a factor unduly. All forms of pig iron have sold ahead, and there is no evidence of over production in the near future at least. Billets are still somewhat unsettled by heavy importations, yet domestic prices are steady and further foreign arrivals are expected.

There was less activity in the speculative markets for the leading cereals, yet prices were somewhat weaker on large receipts and smaller export buying. Among the other staples coffee continues active and firm, despite the statistical situation, while cotton was irregular, but improved crop prospects acted in opposition to the brisk demand for consumption. Finally the former influence prevailed, and quotations declined sharply.

Failures for the week numbered 208 in the United States, against 198 last year, and seventeen in Canada, against twenty-eight last year. Exports of Grain.—Wheat, including flour, exports for the week ending July 24, aggregate 3,980,969 bushels, against 3,775,222 last week and 6,974,526 in this week last year. Wheat exports since July 1 aggregate 13,745,390 bushels, against 14,797,047 of the corresponding period last year. 79,811 bushels, against 130,679 last week, and 1,155,276 last year. For the fiscal year corn exports are 450,405 bushels, against 7,164,043 last season.

The Northwest is just about entering upon what may be called the nervous period of the year. The time is close at hand when the growing wheat will have reached the most delicate stage, and the weather attendant upon the process of maturity through the critical period of grain may make or unmake the crop. What wonder, then, if interest for the next few weeks centers upon the crop reports? From every corner of the Northwest comes good news, and from every point of view the present outlook is highly encouraging. Grain men, whose business it is to anticipate, and who habitually scan the horizon for a speck that denotes the dawn of an adverse factor, are unable to discern the faintest indication of anything in the least disturbing. Hot winds, always a possibility through the milk period, could do great damage to the crop. There is no more reason, however, to expect them now than in any other year.

One of the most conservative financiers in the country said: "If the corn crop fulfills its promise, this fall will see the advent of the most remarkable era of commercial prosperity America has ever experienced."

Without a doubt a bumper crop year will bring this about, for if the granger roads made money with a corn failure last season, a heavy yield this year should enable them to show the largest earnings in their history. All other roads will share in this to some extent, and the people will be benefited by the continuation of general prosperity.

The country at large presents a view not materially changed from the previous week. The same activity is noted in the leading lines, the same hopefulness and continued talk of the good fall business that is to come. The fruit season is now at its height. Produce prices in general are high, considering that there is a sufficiency in the supply centers, but the people are consuming largely and are paying for the best. Cotton, nearly all hog products and the cereals are lower. An exception is found in cereals for July delivery in which the scarcity of supply and bull manipulations forced prices to really phenomenal points. At 72 cents, July oats were higher than corn, and higher than at any time since the Civil War.

HUMOROUS PARAGRAPHS FROM THE COMIC PAPERS.

Pleasant Incidents Occurring the World Over—Sayings that Are Cheerful to Old or Young—Funny Selections that Everybody Will Enjoy.

Mrs. Winks—A peddler was here today, and I got the greatest bargain—a whole pound of insect powder for only 10 cents. It looks just like dirt, but it's awfully effective. I tried it. Mr. Winks—Worked, eh? Mrs. Winks—Yes, indeed. The peddler said I should put a little in water and apply it boiling hot, and I did, and it killed every insect it touched.—New York Weekly.

The Woman of It. "But how do you know he loves you if he hasn't told you so?" asked the girl in the Gibson waist. "Oh," replied the maid with the curly hair, "I can tell by the way he looks at me when I'm not looking at him."

Erratic. Pedestrian (anxious for his safety)—Now, which way are you going to hit the ball? Worried Beginner—Only wish, to goodness I knew myself!—Punch.

His Experience. Sister—I don't believe that horrid Miss Filipperton would stop at anything. Brother—That's where your trolley is twisted, sis. I was out walking with her the other evening and she stopped at the first soda fountain we encountered.

Willie's Query. Little Willie—Say, pa, this book says nature never wastes anything. Pa—I guess that's right, my son. Little Willie—Then what's the use of a cow having two horns when she can't even play on one?

The Feminine Trait. He (glated)—Then it's a bargain; you will be my wife? She—Certainly. A woman is always looking for bargains, you know.

He Tied the Score. "No," said the beautiful creature, who was at least three seasons to the bad, "I couldn't think of marrying you."

"What's the nature of your because?" asked the man who dared. "Because I do not love you," frankly replied the woman of it, "and what is more, I could never learn to love you."

"Oh, perhaps you could," rejoined the masculine end of the controversy. "Eyes at your age it is possible to learn one or two things more."—Chicago News.

At the Races. "I understand the race was quite a moving event." "Yes, it was. The winner romped in, the others also ran, and I walked home."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

His Idea. Architect—I suppose you want closets in every room, sir? Newwiche—Certainly not. There are no skeletons in my family, sir.—Chicago American.

Limited Occupation. Housewife—Why don't you work? Tramp—I can't, ma'am, 'till next Easter. I'm a hot cross bun-baker.

Queer Creature. "Merchant has a most remarkable typewriter girl." "What's so remarkable about her?" "Why, she doesn't carry one of the Duchess novels to the office with her to read between whiles."

Good News. "You won't be bothered any more by the mlister, papa." "Why not, boy?" "Because he told Miss Judson, my Sunday school teacher, that he'd finished our block."—Life.

A Charitable View. Miss Antiquate—Do you suppose he really proposed to me because I have money? Miss Younger—Well, of course, I don't know; but there's no telling what a man will do in a fit of desperation.

Rather Sarcastic. Hixon—My wife has persuaded me to accompany her to church next Sunday. Dixon—Well, you have my best wishes.

Hixon—Best wishes for what? Dixon—Pleasant dreams.

The Feminine View. He—Do you believe in the doctrine of every man for himself? She—Certainly not. I believe every man should be for some woman.

A Literary Boomer. Stripes—My new novel will be read, I tell you. Stripes—How do you know? Stripes—Why, my publisher has just signed a $2,000 price for the book.

GOOD Short Stories

"Johnny" said his father, "you have disobeyed your mother again. Come out with me to the barn. Johnny complied. There was a woodshed on the premises, but the stern parent preferred the barn. He bent his disobedient boy across his knee and proceeded to punish him in the ordinary method. "Oh, that hurts!" screamed Johnny. "I know it, my son," replied his father. "It hurts you (whack) a great deal worse (whack) than it hurts me (whack) (whack) and I'm glad it does" (whack! whack! whack!)

Milkless Water. Landlady—Do you care for a glass of milk? Star Boarder—No, I'll take a glass of water; you needn't mind putting the milk in it to-day.—Ohio State Journal.

Knew the ropes. "Have you ever had any experience in handling high-grade pottery?" asked the importer of an applicant for a job. "No, sir," replied the applicant, "but I can do the work all right."

"Suppose," said the merchant, "you should accidentally break a valuable vase, what would you do?" "It would put it together carefully," replied the job seeker, "and set it where a wealthy customer would be sure to knock it to pieces again."

"Consider yourself engaged," said the merchant. "And now, tell me where you got on to that trick of the trade?" "A few short years ago," answered the other. "I was in the 'wealthy customer' class."—Chicago News.

Of Course. Citizen—This is considered the liveliest corner of the town. Visitor—Why? Citizen—Because so many trolley lines meet here.

Visitor—The idea! I should think that would make it the deadliest.—Philadelphia Press.

Will Hear Them Soon Enough. Browne—Do you think that the honorable way is to tell a man his faults to his face? Towne—Perhaps. But the safe way is to tell them to his neighbor's face.—Stray Stories.

A Hardened Wretch. "See that man with the hard face? He's killed his man." "Indeed! Chauffeur or motorman?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Not Many. Teacher—Johnnie Stokes, how many make a million? Johnnie—Very few go to earth.

Extract from a Love Letter. "I waited for over an hour for you, dearest, but in vain; I hope that you were ill."—Blonde Blatter.

A Savage Encounter. Miles—I wonder how Swiggs happened to get bruised up so artistically. Giles—He had an encounter with an Indian, I believe.

Miles—What! You don't mean to say he got into trouble with an Indian here in Chicago? Giles—Certainly. He ran into a cigar sign on his way home from the club the other night.

Rubbing It In. She had just handed him the key mitt. "You are a heartless woman," he hissed in a tone seventeen degrees more bitter than quinine, "but thank heaven, I have at last found you out."

"Be it so," rejoined the human refrigerator, "and what is more, you will continue to find me out hereafter should you call."

On the Boat Excursion. Eleanor—Poor Ethel! Edgar—What's the matter? Eleanor—She would rather dance than eat; and she's engaged to a man who would rather eat than dance.

The Power of Laziness. Hopkins—Why don't you take a rest in summer? Jenkins—It's too dangerous. If I should ever quit work I don't believe I'd ever get started again as long as I lived.

How It Happened. "So Ted lost his heart to that pretty woman doctor?" "Yes. You see, when she asked him to show his tongue his heart was in his mouth."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Sedentary. Layard and Lucas—Wot wud youse do if youse wud rich? Tired Timothy—I'd buy a seat in th' United States Senate an' I wudn't do nuthin' but set in it.—Ohio State Journal.

Age Limit and Hair Dye. For a long time there has been close to complete cessation in the manufacture of hair dye, but in the past year or so a boom has developed in that branch of industry. The general establishment of an age limit in the employment of men in commercial and mechanical pursuits is said to be responsible for this unexpected revival.

An official of the American Federation of Labor says he knows for a fact of many men who are using dyes to hide their gray hairs and boasts of others who shave constantly to look young enough to be able to hold their positions. Statistics prove that it is every day becoming more difficult for a man past the prime of life to secure employment. The skilled mechanic, engineer or employe who wants a job in any service must have youth as well as ability. If he doesn't possess it, he must counterfeit it. Presumably the elderly man with a bald head must wear a wig in order to cover his pate.

Factor's Note. The man who wears a face that has written a story of a century.

They Were Attentive. A clergyman, preaching in a country church for the first time, was delighted to find the congregation very attentive, and, told the vergor so after the service.

The vergor replied: "Lor' bless you, sir, we was all looking for you to dis appear!" "Why, what do you mean?" said the clergyman.

"Well, sir, you see, the pulpit is full ten year or more."—Pearson's Weekly.

Quite Sure. Mother—Now, look here, Bob, you know your father has a very nice den you to eat any more of these things and here I find another stone.

Bob—Why, mother, sister, what's the matter with that? I did not think you were here.

Mother—Are you sure about that? Bob—Yes, mother, I'm sure. I can't I've never seen you here.

Does not cure correctly is a nuisance. If you wish to remedy your eyes, watch it will prove itself by forever. Spectacles fitted. All work guaranteed to be satisfactory.

Headache

kills, not necessarily suddenly, but SURELY. It preys upon the intellectual powers more than we realize. It consumes the vitality faster than nature can replenish it, and we cannot tell just what moment a temporary or complete aberration of the mind will result. Headache and pain should be promptly removed—but properly. Many pain cures are more harmful than the pain. Beware. If you would be safe, take

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

"As a result of neuralgia I lost the sight of my right eye, and the pain I have suffered is incomprehensible, being obliged to take opiates almost continually. A friend gave me one of Dr. Miles' Pain Pills and it promptly relieved me. I then purchased a box and now my trouble is gone. They have also cured my daughter of nervous headache, and I heartily recommend these to others."—W. J. CORLEY, Bremond, Texas.

Notes From Our Neighboring Towns

Winer held a harvest picnic Monday. Cedar county fair will be held at Hartington September 17, 18 and 19. A new Independent German Lutheran church was organized at Norfolk last week. Misses Love and Rousseau returned from Wayne Tuesday morning.—Pender News Era.

A new Baptist church is to be built at Pilger. It will be of brick and the size will be 90x125 feet.

Bruce and Albas Emley spent Sunday in Wayne at the home of Professor Snodgrass.—Winer Chronicle.

The farmers' elevator at Bloomfield burned to the ground Tuesday night, together with several freight cars. Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Howard, of Columbus, formerly of the Papillion Times, died Saturday.

Norfolk will hold a street fair in connection with the Woodman picnic to be held there in September and $500 will be appropriated for the races.

The Winer Chronicle says that the rumbling of the earth last week was thought by people in that section to be occasioned by the rapid growth of potatoes.

Rev. McGinness, the erring preacher mentioned of whom was made last week, did not return to Tama, Iowa, as he said he would, but instead went to Canada where he was from last reports.—Wakarusa Republican.

Mr. Holtz and Otto Beckenhauer drove across country to Wayne Sunday. Mrs. Beckenhauer went to Wayne Monday noon where she met her husband on his return from Blair. They returned to Randolph the same evening.—Randolph Reporter.

James Leahy has been visiting his home folks here this week. He will open his new drugstore in Wayne next Monday. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Leahy, Sr., have decided to remove to Wayne and be with James in his new location.—Winer Chronicle.

Miss Fiedke Bayer after a visit of a few weeks at Tekamah and Blair departed for her home in Wayne last Saturday. The family are well pleased with Wayne as a home and are very successful in the millinery business in which they are engaged.—Tekamah Journal.

T. R. Nelson, who is now attending college in Wayne, was in Concord Monday and was a welcome call visitor. Mr. Nelson is an applicant for principal of the Concord schools. He appears refined, well educated and entirely worthy of the position he seeks.—Concord Call.

THE WAYNE REPUBLICAN says they will have a big time down there at their fair in September, and wants a joint debate between McCarthy and Robinson. We might add that THE REPUBLICAN published by Bro. W. H. Gibson is one of the best papers that comes to our office.—Newcastle Times.

Out at the Bilby ranch they have twelve hundred acres of speltz, a new kind of grain well adapted for this section of the country. The growing crop resembles bearded wheat more than anything else, while the grain, after it is threshed, looks like a cross between barley and wheat. The ranch people raised something over two hundred acres of the grain last year, and they tell us that it makes good feed for all kinds of stock. As a rule the crop yields from thirty-five to forty-five bushels per acre. Nob Bros. also have a small piece of speltz growing just south of town, and it would pay anyone who has never seen the crop to go and take a look at it.—Howells Journal.

A policeman found a hotel guest roaming about the streets in his sleep a few nights ago. He started to lead the man to jail, when the man protested, "I am guilty of no wrong doing," he said. I am a somnambulist." It don't make any difference what church you belong to," returned the officer, "you can't do no walking on these streets in your shirt tail."—Atkinson Globe.

A New England farmer who had spent a lifetime trying to eke out a scanty living farming the rocks and hills of that locality finally gave it up and went to heaven. He was well pleased with the change. He had had such a hard time on earth that Saint Peter was showing him around and jollying him up. The came to a man on one of the golden streets chained to an alabaster post. The overworked farmer asked, "Why is he chained?" Saint Peter answered, "That man is from Nebraska and wants to go back."

A certain paper tells us that the moon gets full but she goes on shining, the rain drops but gets up again, the stars shoot but do not kill, the willows weep but never shed a tear, hills fall but don't break, day breaks but the sun doesn't fall, the bees buzz and so do the girls. The editor alone and unaided has discovered that the creek runs but never tires, the wind whistles and the thresher sings, that by watching close you see Johnny-jump, that the trees nod and the grain waves to everyone, that the potatoes root and the corn ears and the editors crow like a spring rooster.

Man's life is full of crosses and temptations. He came into this world without his consent and goes out against his will, and his trip between the two eternities is exceedingly rocky. If he is poor he is a poor manager, if he is rich he is dishonest if he's in politics he's for pie; if he out of politics he has no standing in the community and is no good to his country; if he does an act of charity its for policy and if he won't give for charity, he's a stingy cuss and lives only for himself. If he dies young there was a great future before him but if he lives to an old age he has outlived his usefulness. He is introduced to this world by a doctor and to the next by the same process. The road is rocky but man likes to travel it.—Exchange.

An Iowa editor gets off the following comparison of the doctor and the editor: "The doctor from Algona said that newspapers are run for revenue only. What in thunder do doctors run for? Do they run for glory? One good healthy doctor's bill would run this office six months. An editor works half a day for 50 cents with an investment of $3,000; a doctor looks wise and works 10 minutes for $200 with an investment of two cents in catnip and a pill box that cost $1.87. A doctor goes to college two or three years and gets a diploma and a string of words the devil himself cannot pronounce, cultivates a look of gravity that he paws off by wisdom, gets a box of pills, a loquax and a meat saw, and sticks out his shingle, a full-fledged doctor. He will then doctor you until you die at a stipulated price per visit, and puts them in as thick as your pocket book will permit. An editor never gets his education finished. He learns as long as he lives and studies all his life. He eats bran mash and liver, he takes his pay in hay and turnips, and keeps the doctor in town by refraining from printing the truth about him.

If the editor makes a mistake he has to apologize for it, but if the doctor makes a mistake he buries it. If we make one there is a lawsuit, tall swearing and a smell of sulphur, but if the doctor makes one there is a funeral, cut flowers and a smell of varnish. The doctor can use a word a foot long, but if the editor uses it he has to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife he will charge the man for the visit. If the editor calls on another man's wife he gets a charge of buckshot. Any medical college can make a doctor. You can't make an editor. He has to be born one. When a doctor gets drunk it is a case of overcome by heat, and if he dies it is heart failure. When an editor gets drunk it is too much booze, and if he dies it is a case of delirium tremens.

There were two young ladies who were waited on by a public of young men who appeared to have serious intentions. One of these young men was pronounced just to sweet for anything by all the girls in the neighborhood. He was equal to a wax figure for showing off a suit of clothes, and he could kick a goal or buck the center better than any other man in the eleven he belonged to. He had a darling of a blonde mustache and his cheeks looked like a picture of apples the nursery agents carry around with them to fool the trusting farmers with. The girl he waited on was awfully proud of him and pitied the other girls because there weren't any more such fellows as her's in the country. The other young lady's fellow was no beaut. He had a sort of shriveled look like a cow hide that had long been hung over the fence to dry. As compared with the first girl's steady this one was generally conceded to resemble three battered 10-cent pieces but the girl wasn't sure that she could bait another fellow if she would let this one go so she held on to him. Twenty years after the two young ladies were married and the little, weazened, dried-up man was at the head of an insurance company and drew an annual salary of $56,000 a year, but the man with the blonde mustache and the pink cheeks, who used to be called to sweet for anything, was keeping door for the little weazened man and lying to visitors at a stipend salary of $60 per month, and his wife, who used to think she was in great luck and pitied the other girls, added to the family income by taking in boarders.

CAUGHT A TARTAR

Virginia Maynard was strolling near a wood adjoining her father's winter home in Florida. Coming to the edge of the thick timber, she heard familiar voices. Stealthily drawing near, she took position behind the trunk of a tree and listened.

"I must put this man Sumner out of the contest. I can never be the fair Virginia so long as he is in the race."

"How will you do that?"

"With your assistance."

"Explain."

"I want you to pick a quarrel with him. You are a dead shot. If he challenges you, I will step in and save him from you by taking the quarrel upon myself. If he does not resent your insult, I will challenge you on his account. In either event he will be under an obligation to me. Then I will cook up a story about myself and Virginia and secure his promise to withdraw from the contest."

"And what am I to gain?"

"By this time the speakers had passed out of hearing. Miss Maynard at first determined to warn Mr. Sumner of the conspiracy. Then she concluded to remain silent and see how he would conduct himself. He was a quiet man, with more inclination for books than for fight.

A week passed, during which she saw nothing unusual in Sumner except that his manner toward her was changed. It was plain to her that the scheme of the plotters had worked admirably. Every day she expected to receive a call from the victor, Martin Archer, but he did not appear, and at last she heard that he was suffering from typhoid fever. Then, with a freak which she herself could hardly explain, she sent Archer some flowers. A reply came from his mother that he was too ill to thank Miss Maynard even by note. The next day Sumner called, and she sent word to him by the maid that she was engaged and would like to be excused.

Sumner did not need so strong a hint as this to drive him away. He ceased his calls on Miss Maynard and in another week went to his home in the north. Archer, after several weeks' confinement, went to New York without visiting her or in any way taking leave of her. From New York he sailed for Europe.

Miss Maynard was puzzled. She returned to her northern home and spent a summer wondering what it all meant.

The following November found her again in Florida. She knew of but three persons who could satisfy her curiosity, and none of them was available. Neither Sumner nor Archer was near, and George Hinkley, Archer's accomplice, had been obliged by the authorities to leave the state for some infringement of the law.

Miss Maynard was wondering what to do when she made the acquaintance of Stephen Withers. Withers was a northern man, the owner of an orange plantation, and lived most of the year in Florida. He was acquainted with all the parties concerned and had been an intimate friend of Sumner. Miss Maynard noticed that Withers always regarded her with a curious interest. This at last induced a suspicion that he knew something about the affair which had aroused her curiosity. One day she boldly asked him:

"Mr. Withers, do you know anything about a challenge having passed from one George Hinkley to Walter Sumner?"

"I ought to, since I was Sumner's second."

"You don't mean it! So there was a duel? Why didn't you tell me?"

"It was pledged not to tell; but since the affair was about you and is a thing of the past, I don't mind speaking of it now."

"Tell it all at once."

"Hinkley insulted Sumner, and Sumner knocked him down. Then Hinkley challenged Sumner, and Sumner accepted. Archer told Sumner that Hinkley was a dead shot and would kill him, offering to take the matter off his hands. Sumner finally permitted him to settle the matter amicably, which he did. Then Archer intimated to Sumner that in consideration of having saved his life, he would like him as a favor to do something. I never knew what, but it made bad blood between Archer and Sumner. They had a scuffle one day in the presence of witnesses, and Archer challenged Sumner. I acted for Sumner, Hinkley for Archer. At the first round Sumner surprised us all by firing very quick and true, wounding Archer in the arm. Then we tried to stop the affair, but Sumner would not consent unless Archer would agree never to communicate with you in any way again. Archer would not make the pledge. At the next round Archer was badly wounded. Again we tried to patch up a peace. And so it went on till Archer felt assured that Sumner would kill him if he didn't promise. Then he made the pledge. We carried him home, put him to bed and gave out that he had typhoid fever."

A few days later Mr. Sumner received a letter from Miss Maynard asking what had become of him. It closed was a note from her father inviting him to visit their winter home in Florida. The invitation was accepted.

"What right had you," asked Miss Maynard, "to demand that Mr. Archer should hold no further communication with me?"

"Do you know of that affair? Well, I was convinced that he was trying to play the same game on me."

"You have deceived me of a handsome sum."

"I can only offer my regrets for the part I played in the matter. I was deceived myself, and I am sure that you were deceived also."

Notes From Our Neighboring Towns

Winer held a harvest picnic Monday. Cedar county fair will be held at Hartington September 17, 18 and 19. A new Independent German Lutheran church was organized at Norfolk last week. Misses Love and Rousseau returned from Wayne Tuesday morning.—Pender News Era.

A new Baptist church is to be built at Pilger. It will be of brick and the size will be 90x125 feet.

Bruce and Albas Emley spent Sunday in Wayne at the home of Professor Snodgrass.—Winer Chronicle.

The farmers' elevator at Bloomfield burned to the ground Tuesday night, together with several freight cars. Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Howard, of Columbus, formerly of the Papillion Times, died Saturday.

Norfolk will hold a street fair in connection with the Woodman picnic to be held there in September and $500 will be appropriated for the races.

The Winer Chronicle says that the rumbling of the earth last week was thought by people in that section to be occasioned by the rapid growth of potatoes.

Rev. McGinness, the erring preacher mentioned of whom was made last week, did not return to Tama, Iowa, as he said he would, but instead went to Canada where he was from last reports.—Wakarusa Republican.

Mr. Holtz and Otto Beckenhauer drove across country to Wayne Sunday. Mrs. Beckenhauer went to Wayne Monday noon where she met her husband on his return from Blair. They returned to Randolph the same evening.—Randolph Reporter.

James Leahy has been visiting his home folks here this week. He will open his new drugstore in Wayne next Monday. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Leahy, Sr., have decided to remove to Wayne and be with James in his new location.—Winer Chronicle.

Miss Fiedke Bayer after a visit of a few weeks at Tekamah and Blair departed for her home in Wayne last Saturday. The family are well pleased with Wayne as a home and are very successful in the millinery business in which they are engaged.—Tekamah Journal.

T. R. Nelson, who is now attending college in Wayne, was in Concord Monday and was a welcome call visitor. Mr. Nelson is an applicant for principal of the Concord schools. He appears refined, well educated and entirely worthy of the position he seeks.—Concord Call.

THE WAYNE REPUBLICAN says they will have a big time down there at their fair in September, and wants a joint debate between McCarthy and Robinson. We might add that THE REPUBLICAN published by Bro. W. H. Gibson is one of the best papers that comes to our office.—Newcastle Times.

Out at the Bilby ranch they have twelve hundred acres of speltz, a new kind of grain well adapted for this section of the country. The growing crop resembles bearded wheat more than anything else, while the grain, after it is threshed, looks like a cross between barley and wheat. The ranch people raised something over two hundred acres of the grain last year, and they tell us that it makes good feed for all kinds of stock. As a rule the crop yields from thirty-five to forty-five bushels per acre. Nob Bros. also have a small piece of speltz growing just south of town, and it would pay anyone who has never seen the crop to go and take a look at it.—Howells Journal.

A policeman found a hotel guest roaming about the streets in his sleep a few nights ago. He started to lead the man to jail, when the man protested, "I am guilty of no wrong doing," he said. I am a somnambulist." It don't make any difference what church you belong to," returned the officer, "you can't do no walking on these streets in your shirt tail."—Atkinson Globe.

A New England farmer who had spent a lifetime trying to eke out a scanty living farming the rocks and hills of that locality finally gave it up and went to heaven. He was well pleased with the change. He had had such a hard time on earth that Saint Peter was showing him around and jollying him up. The came to a man on one of the golden streets chained to an alabaster post. The overworked farmer asked, "Why is he chained?" Saint Peter answered, "That man is from Nebraska and wants to go back."
