

County's Draft List Announced

Order Wayne Youths Are To Be Called Given

With the probability that enough will volunteer to fill the state's quota of 122 draftees to be called from Nebraska, it is unlikely that any Wayne county youths will be called under the selective service program this year.

However, early next year, it is expected the first group will be called from this county in the order in which they are listed below. The list which follows and which includes Wayne county youths whose new numbers — the order in which they will be called — is less than 4,000 on the national list, is unofficial.

Delay Seen
It is probable that less than half of these listed below will be called into service during the next 12 months unless the number of those exempt runs higher than anticipated, although the number assigned to this state in later orders and rapidly with which the national draft is conducted, may alter this.

The list, which is unofficial, and was obtained by checking Wayne county numbers against numbers listed in the national lottery is given in the order in which they are slated to be called — the numbers listed in front of the names are the original numbers assigned to the men and not the new numbers but they are listed in the order in which their new numbers appear:

RAF Lessens Invasion Threat

(Lincoln Newspaper Features, Inc.)
The Royal Air Force's heroic resistance against the aerial terror of the German Luftwaffe, coupled with its own crescendo of offensive thrusts against German military objectives can be said to have appreciably abated the immediate threat of invasion. Of late, England has enormously expanded her own production of military aircraft while pursuing a policy of extensive plane purchases in this country. As a result, the gap separating her from parity with German air strength is narrowing. An empire-wide program of training pilots is similarly augmenting the manpower of the RAF. Even under the stress of constant German bombings, England continues to turn out her new boys, as, for instance, at this undisclosed pilot training station. Above, RAF fledglings are running to their machines (old models for beginning training purposes) before a little exercise in the technique of straddling "eggs" across a target. Below, studying the framework of a craft, a "necessary" of pilot training.

Kiwanians Hear Reports Two Damage Cases Slated

Larson Describes District Meet

At the Kiwanis club luncheon Monday noon at Hotel Stratton, Russell Larson reported on the district convention held at Mason City, Ia., which he attended with Phil March, W. C. Coryell and W. H. Swett on Oct. 10, 11, and 12.

According to Mr. Larson the outstanding address of the convention was given by Dr. Samuel Stevens, president of Grinnell college, following the 21st annual district fellowship luncheon at noon. His topic was "Cultural Values and Economic Program".

Dr. Stevens said that the big asset of the United States is not the wealth of the country but the gray matter between the ears of the 130 million people who make up the country. "It makes no difference which party is in power," he added, "the country will be O. K. as long as we have 130 million people in the United States to do their own thinking".

Rev. Dick Raines also gave an impressive talk on Friday, using as his topic, "Building Kiwanis Bridges". This topic bore out the theme of the convention "Building Bridges".

Ralph Swanson was elected governor of the Nebraska-Iowa district and Lynn Hutton of Norfolk was elected lieutenant governor of district 5. A resolution was passed to support Gene Wilcox of Des Moines, for international president.

The convention will be held next year at Fremont.

Conservationist Sent To Wayne

H. R. Richardson has been transferred to Wayne from Madison where he has been serving as conservationist in the CCC camp. He is now the assistant soil conservationist of the Wayne county soil conservation district.

Sewage Hearing Also Scheduled This Month

The case of George Bressler vs. John Michel of Omaha in which Mr. Bressler seeks $10,860 for injuries claimed in a car accident last summer, will be heard in the court of District Judge C. H. Stewart Wednesday, jury for which will be called Nov. 12.

Another damage action set for trial this month is that of Margaret K. Moore and William Walter Moore, trustees, who seek $2,000 from the Wayne county rural public power district for damages alleged to have been sustained by the cutting of trees on land north of Winside.

Other cases set for trial are those of Lloyd E. Rohrke vs. Ernest Puls, and General Exchange Insurance corporation vs. Robert P. Hanson.

District Judge C. H. Stewart will hear the case of the Connecticut Mutual Insurance company vs. the City of Wayne and the Wayne Rendering Works, in which it is claimed that the sewage disposal system has resulted in damage to land owned by the insurance company northeast of Wayne, Wednesday.

A Tribute To Dr. Hess

It was with deepest sorrow that we learned of the passing of our beloved friend and townsman, Dr. George J. Hess, last Friday morning. Like a mariner struck by a sudden storm and buffeted by wind and wave, he gladly hailed the dawn and calm and drifted from our earthly sight to the shores of eternal morning. Life's voyage has ended and he has cast anchor in the harbor of peace and found eternal rest.

It is for the years he spent in Wayne that we love him and sincerely mourn his passing. Here he spent the best years of his life;

Seymour Is Constructing New Building

44 By 84 Feet Brick Structure Being Erected

Construction of a new brick building, 44 by 84 feet, at the corner of Third and Pearl streets is underway and is scheduled to be completed within thirty days. Ed Seymour, who a few months ago, had the building erected which is occupied by the Tietgen Hatchery and the Meyer and Ross Electric company, is constructing the new building of similar materials.

Twelve inch brick walls of the same type of brick used in both the Wayne Creamery building and the one occupied by Tietgen's and Meyer and Ross are being erected. It will be a one story building, adjoining Tietgen's on the west and extending nearly to the sidewalks on both the south and west.

For Two Firms
The new building will have concrete floors and four entrances, two on the west and two on the south. Present plans are for the building to be divided so that it will accommodate two business firms.

The Tietgen Hatchery will occupy the west half of the new building, moving there from its present smaller quarters in order to obtain more space for equipment. While no definite announcement has been made as to what firm will occupy the east half of the building, it was indicated that the Meyer and Ross Electric company might do so.

If so, the entire building between the creamery and the new structure would be available for a business firm unless Mr. Seymour has other plans which have not been announced.

Other Projects
This new construction project, the latest of three launched by Mr. Seymour in the past year, makes the north side of the 100 block West Third street a business block. Coupled with other remodeling and expansion programs carried out by Wayne business firms, it represents considerable business building progress in this city.

Robert Kirkman has virtually completed remodeling his new store formerly occupied by the Wayne Drug store and Carl Nuss is preparing to enlarge his store to include the building formerly occupied by Kirkman's. However, work on this latter project will not get underway until after the Christmas season. Margaret Day and Don McGuigan are completing the remodeling of the Kozy Kanteen, formerly occupied by Cudy's Lunch, and opened for business by the new owners last Saturday.

Miss Hanson Injured In Auto Accident

Miss Mary Kay Hanson suffered severe bruises and fractured ankle bones when a car in which she was returning with a group of friends from Norfolk Sunday evening overturned.

Miss Hanson was pinned under the car and knocked unconscious in the accident. Her companions, who were uninjured, rushed her to Wayne for treatment. Her injuries were not serious but she will be unable to resume work for a week or more due to the ankle injuries.

Mrs. Junia Hasselden and son, John, of Shelley, Ida., arrived Tuesday to visit Mrs. Sarah Hasselden and Mrs. Minnie Kagy.

Wood Given Two Year Term On Forgery Charge

Charles E. Wood was sentenced to the state penitentiary for two years in the court of District Judge C. H. Stewart at Norfolk Thursday. He was arraigned in Wayne county court Wednesday at preliminary hearing on charge of forgery, plead guilty and was bound over to the district court with bond fixed at $2,000.

Ward was brought to Lincoln Thursday by Sheriff J. H. Pike who had placed a hold-over on his release after serving time for another forgery. He has served sentences twice in California and twice in Nebraska on forgery charges.

In his last case, Ward, using the name of Carl Moore, cashed a check for $19.50 with Fred L. Blair Jan. 23, 1937. He forged the name of Walter Savage on the check at that time.

Mercury Dips To Freezing

Winter Invades County Monday; October, Warm

Winter invaded Wayne Monday afternoon following weeks of unusually high temperatures... for this season of the year and sent the mercury on the eve of election down to the freezing mark.

As the temperatures started their nosedive late in the afternoon, local service stations were doing a land-office business, filling the demands of motorists who waited until the frigid wave arrived before preparing for it. The mercury hovered around the 40 mark at 7:30 Monday night and was continuing to drop rapidly.

Little Damage
Most of the crops had been harvested in this vicinity so that minimum farm loss was anticipated. The frigid weather and predictions of rain or snow Tuesday worried local political leaders of both parties, who were hoping for a large vote.

The official October government temperature chart at Wakefield revealed that the past month provided far more precipitation than October, 1939—87 of an inch this year compared with 29 last—and warmer temperature than the same month last year, the minimum this year being 27 degrees compared with 16 degrees in 1939.

Killing Frost
The first killing frost in 1939 arrived on October 14 and although a light frost was recorded here last month, it was not a killing one.

Total precipitation from January 1 to November 1 this year was 25.79 inches compared with 13.76 inches in 1939.

Election Machinery Ready Here

Heavy Vote Is Likely; Polls Open From 8 To 8

With county, state and national candidates completing what in the presidential race at least has been one of the most bitterly contested campaigns in history, the election machinery was ready to function in Wayne county Monday night. Polls open at 8 o'clock this (Tuesday) morning and close at 8 o'clock tonight in Wayne county.

Polling places in the city of Wayne will be the same as in former elections: First ward, old City Hall; Second ward, Grace Lutheran church, 109 East Ninth street; Third ward, Wayne county courthouse. Polling places throughout the county were also the same as in former years.

Large Vote Seen
Because of great interest in the presidential race, a large vote was anticipated in Wayne county as well as throughout the country. Both political parties have conducted rather intensive campaigns in this section of the state and there is also considerable interest in several major state races.

Interest in county races lag because there are few officials to be elected this year and candidates have conducted quiet campaigns in those few races. On the other hand, Wayne county is particularly interested this year in the race for this district's member of the unicameral legislature due to the candidacy of William Crossland of Wayne. This county has never been represented in the unicameral but is believed to have an excellent opportunity this year because Mr. Crossland has conducted an intensive campaign throughout the three counties which make up this district.

Questions On Ballot
Among the questions submitted at this election that of tax support for the county agricultural extension program holds the spotlight. With no apparent organized opposition to this non-political question, it is expected to carry. However, all voters are urged to cast ballots on this question, since failure of the proposition to carry would undoubtedly stop agricultural extension service in this county which has been temporarily supported in the past by voluntary contributions.

In addition to the major candidates most precincts in the county will elect overseers for road districts, precinct assessors and justices of the peace. In Wayne, Mrs. M. A. Brittain, democrat, is opposed by George Lamberson, republican and incumbent, for justice of peace, and Willis Noakes, democrat, and Claude Wright, republican and incumbent, are opposing candidates for precinct assessor. The complete list of candidates and questions on which voters will ballot was published in last week's edition of The News.

CHURCH NOTES

Dr. and Mrs. Victor West have recently moved into the Methodist parsonage. The building has been redecorated throughout; the floors were sanded and refinished, a new rug was placed on the large living room floor, the kitchen has been completely remodeled with the sink and work cabinet placed down the middle of the room and a breakfast nook installed. This makes a neat and modern kitchen with all needed conveniences placed in handy positions. The Woman's Society of the Church sponsored the enterprise. Mrs. V. A. Senter is the president.

The topic of the morning sermon at the First Baptist church will be "The Healing of a Wound". The evening's topic will be "A Solemn Pageant Of The Divine Judgments". This will be the third message in a series on The Revelation of John.

Mr. and Mrs. Burr Standley, Mrs. Carlos Martin, Mrs. W. S. Bressler, Mrs. O. B. Haas, Miss Beulah Johnson, Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Eads and Rev. Eads' mother, Mrs. Walter Eads, will attend an area church officers meeting of Baptist churches Tuesday afternoon and evening in Omaha.

Rev. C. L. Eads spoke at the First Baptist church in Norfolk Sunday evening.

A TRIBUTE TO THE LATE DR. HESS

child birth, often in some lonely dwelling, watched through the night to save some little child from dread fever or pestilence, literally bound up the wounds of strong men stricken down in their toil, fought back the Angel of Death who hovered near many a family circle. Times without number he has stilled the anxious heart of a mother by sound advice in caring for her children.

Time and again the Almighty has used him to rescue from death hundreds of persons whose earthly work was unfinished. Many a family dwell in happiness today who would have been plunged into sorrow but for his ministry. Many a mother still lives to bless her home and many a child has grown to manhood today because he chose to labor among us. His coming brought hope and relief to those upon beds of pain and none ever called upon him in vain.

During the influenza scourge when the Grim Reaper visited many, many happy homes and blighted hundreds of others, he worked almost day and night for months, snatching rest and sleep between calls. He was fighting for his friends with all the heroism and sacrifice at his command. There is no more heroic figure in these times of peace than the country doctor, who, renouncing all hope of honor, wealth and preferment, chooses to spend his life in a community, casting his lot with his friends and ministering to them to the full limit of his powers. Such was the life of our friend and that is why he won our lasting love and respect.

And how kindly was his personality and how lasting his friendships! Everybody knew him, both old and young, and rendered to him that instinctive respect that unselfish service commands. He loved the children, the grown-ups and the aged for all were his friends. His kind words and gentle manner eased the patient and made sickness more easily borne. He was even-tempered and if on extremely rare occasions, his anger were aroused for cause, it flared but a moment. Fault-finding was foreign to his nature. His gentle manner was a benediction to the sick and distressed.

One of the outstanding traits of his life and work was his liberality. The poorest tenant received the same service as the wealthy landowner, the humblest member of the community the same careful ministry as the most prominent citizen. To him they were just folks, sick folks needing his skill and attention. One of the most inspiring traditions of the medical profession is that its members render their priceless service to all regardless of color, creed or condition. Our friend gloriously upheld that tradition in this community and no needy sick ever called upon him in vain. So interested was he in the practice of his profession that only necessity compelled him to ask for what was doubly due him. He probably rendered enough free service to aggregate a comfortable fortune. And "gratitude more strong than traitor's arms" never vanquished him; he never lost faith in human nature. He knew that the thoughtless needed his services and that none were unworthy in the sense that they were in need. He practiced his profession because he loved it, for the service he could render and not for mere gain or pelf.

He has gone from our midst to reap the reward of a wellspent life. We will never forget his kindly presence, his healing ministry and his true friendship. Unconscious of his greatness, he lived and labored among us and we knew and loved him. He was a devoted husband and father, an upright Christian gentleman, an honored member of his profession and a true friend. He gave his life and talents without stint and asked nothing in return but a living and friendship. He was fully ready to go when the Master called him. To have such a one as a husband and father or a friend is not given to many mortals. He left a never to be forgotten record of service to God and man which should strive to emulate. In deepest sorrow we take leave of our beloved friend knowing that the spoken word or silent tear can never adequately express what is in our hearts.

One Who Loved Him.

2. Expansion of Wayne's trade territory.
3. Co-operation between WSTC and Wayne for their mutual benefit.
4. Improved transportation facilities including all-weather roads throughout this section of the state.

6. Improvement of educational facilities and standards in both rural and town schools.

To The Polls

One of the most bitterly contested presidential elections and one of the most important reaches its climax today as voters go to the polls to stamp their ballots for their favorites in the many races.

As is customary when a president is being elected, the importance of that contest dims the others to a large extent. In fact, it is safe to say that many voters go to the polls for the purpose of voting for their candidate for president and perhaps their favorite in the gubernatorial race and then hurriedly decide which of the candidates for the more minor offices to support. That is why when one party carries a state in the presidential race, it is customary for most of the candidates of that particular party to ride to victory.

This is an unfortunate situation since often some of the most qualified candidates are found on the opposite ticket. In Nebraska this year, for example, we are electing a senator and a governor and in this district a member of the lower house or congress. Those voters who believe in the value of experience and vote on the basis of past public record would be expected to support Governor Cochran for the senate. Some of these members of both parties favor Terry Carpenter and his program and the democratic gubernatorial candidate has support from other factions, which are expected to vote for republicans for some other major offices.

The News is supporting the democratic ticket because it believes both his record and its candidates this year are far superior to those offered by the republican party. On the other hand, we favor the re-election of Karl Stefan, republican candidate, not because we approve of his past record 100 per cent but because we believe that he is, through his past experience, in a position to better serve both this district and the nation than his democratic opponent.

Last week, we summarized the qualifications and programs of the opposing candidates for president and pointed out why we believe it would be a grave mistake to make a change in the national administration at this time. Since then, virtually the only new factor in the campaign has been the announcement of John L. Lewis, labor leader, that he is supporting Wendell Willkie for the presidency. We believe that the fact that republicans and Mr. Willkie have welcomed the CIO chief with open arms confirms our charges that the Willkie camp is made up of a mixture of the most conflicting interests ever assembled under one political standard. Just imagine Big Business and the conservative Old Guard of the republican party, which has bitterly assailed every New Deal reform and measure as radical, and one of the most radical of our labor leaders sleeping in the same political bed. Mr. Willkie could not by any miracle satisfy even in a small measure their contradictory desires. Evidently, some of these factions are being taken for a ride and we doubt that it is Big Business, which is footing the record breaking bill for this republican campaign.

If any action was needed to prove that President Roosevelt is not trying to buy his way into office by promising a cabinet post for the support of the ambitious Mr. Lewis, this has accomplished it. Surely, the manner in which Mr. Lewis has been welcomed into the republican camp, which shunned him and his aides in the past, is ample evidence that their frantic struggle for ballots has led them to be all things to all men who have a vote to be cast or a possible following.

With the campaign which became heated as it neared its climax only a memory today, let's all vote our own convictions for what we believe will be best for this nation's future. It is important that we cast a ballot; that is both a privilege and duty in a democracy.

After the ballots are counted, let's all support the winners regardless of whether or not we favor them today. They cannot succeed without the united support of the vast majority of the American people. The bitterness of this campaign should die and be buried with the counting of the ballots. These are gray times in the nation's life and it is important that we be united and forget and forgive as soon as possible the mud hurling in which both camps engaged in this important election. Win or lose, we are all Americans first, last and always.

Dr. Hess

Elsewhere in this edition of The News will be found a tribute to Dr. George J. Hess, written by a Wayne man who requested that his name not be used but who wanted to express his deep affection for the physician who served Wayne county so long and so well.

While it was not our privilege to know Dr. Hess intimately, any physician who can win such respect from his friends and patients has contributed greatly to the community in which he resides.

A Perfect Record

The Wayne High school team retained its perfect record for the season last Friday when it defeated Laurel and annexed its seventh victory with its goal line still uncrossed.

Some difficult games remain on the schedule and it would be expecting virtually the impossible for the team to complete its season with such a record. However, all members of the High School team and their new coach, F. W. Sullivan, have established a record of which this city may be proud.

In past years, only a few attended high school games here but the winning team of 1940 is proving that high school football is well worth watching and has gained more fans with each contest. If you haven't seen Wayne High in action, better plan to see the last home game of the season, when they clash with the strong Bloomfield eleven here in a conference tilt Thanksgiving Day.

The CCC IN NEBRASKA

In connection with the announcement that 15 civilian conservation corps camps will operate in Nebraska during the next six months a summary is given of the splendid achievements of the agency in this state.

Since the program was begun in 1933, CCC youths have planted 27 million trees in Nebraska. They have built 114 bridges, 80 diversion dams, 49,350 erosion control dams, 986 miles of terracing and 3,880 miles of contour furrows and ridges, and 867 flood control structures.

Although the foregoing is only a partial list of CCC accomplishments in Nebraska, it is an accurate guide to the tremendous benefits which result when the unbounded energy of youth is directed along constructive channels. Nebraska is inestimably richer because of the labors of CCC youths and the contribution which the program has made to the nation's character and morale is in itself a rich tribute to the glory of the American way.—Lincoln Star.

The Nation's Leading Letter by J. E. Jones, Washington, D. C.

HOW IS THE ELECTION GOING?

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—You may think I am going to tell you who is going to be elected President, November 5. But, I beg to be excused on the grounds that as the writer of a non-partisan News Letter from Washington I am barred from treading on such dangerous grounds.

We have in Washington the Evening Star, ripe with age, and politically as chaste, conservative and cautious as any great newspaper in the whole country. Once a week there is a survey of the United States furnished in articles by the best political sleuths and analysts who write for the Star. About three pages are devoted to these summaries. Presidential election have been followed and results charted by the Star as far back as I can remember. Accompanying these articles there is a 4-inch double-column summary called "The Political Roundup". The latest "round-up" says that beginning early in October and up to October 20 "Mr. Willkie forged ahead with a probable 206 electoral votes, and 194 votes for the President". There were 131 votes in the doubtful column, more than enough to give the victory to either candidate. In that "doubtful column" there were listed the electoral votes of California, Colorado, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, Rhode Island and the State of Washington.

It requires a majority of 266 votes in the Electoral College to elect the next President of the United States. Therefore if Mr. Willkie has 206 "sure" and "leaning" votes he would still need 60 votes out of the 131 that the Star placed in the "doubtful" column. The President in order to win, according to this "political roundup", would have to have 73 out of these 131 doubtful votes. If the President should get the 22 votes from California and the 47 votes from New York State he would still be short 3 votes, but if Willkie should get those two States he would be elected.

St. Lawrence Power

For the last forty years several million people populating the country around the Great Lakes have been trying to get the governments of Canada and the United States together on a plan to deepen the ship channel of the St. Lawrence River, and other short spaces in the Great Lakes, with the end in view that ocean-going ships could enter the Great Lakes into wonderful channels for world transportation and commerce.

The Province of Ontario digs up the cute little notion that the St. Lawrence should be developed at points where hydro-electric plants could be erected, and the Canadians believe President Roosevelt is championing this idea. Evidently the building of new government hydro-electric plants by the government is a matter that will have to lay over for a few months, regardless of the outcome of the coming election. On the other hand there may develop a fresh hope that the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes will come into their own as seaways, providing the Canadians decide to play ball with the United States.

The Great Lakes seaways plan has had the endorsement of all recent presidents of the United States, including Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

The Chamber of Commerce in the State of New York has officially opposed the suggestion for the construction of a hydro-electric plant for national defense, proposed by the Canadians.

Along The Home Front

The National Capital has been almost deserted by senators and representatives of late, and dispatches from all over the country tell how these statesmen apparently endorse the challenge of the typewriter that "now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party".

New Law Protects Consumer Of Wool

After July, 1941, when the new truth-in-fabrics law goes into effect, every woolen article sold in the United States, from a bolt of cloth to a pair of socks, must bear a label setting forth its wool or other content.

The legislation, which applies to the sale of woolens the same principles that are applied to the sale of foods and drugs under the Pure Food and Drug Law, is designed to protect consumers by making it possible for them to know just what is in the "wool" articles they buy.

That one cannot now tell just what is in a wool suit, for example, was demonstrated when Curt

E. Forstmann displayed three suits before a Congressional committee holding hearings on the bill. The three suits all appeared to be identical and committee members were unable to tell one from the others.

Mr. Forstmann, who is president of the Forstmann Woolen Company, testified the fabrics in the three suits had been made under exactly the same conditions except for the wool content. One was 100 per cent virgin wool, that is wool that had never been used before; one was made of 50 per cent virgin wool and 50 per cent reclaimed wool; and the third entirely of reclaimed wool or shoddy.

In laboratory tests, Mr. Forstmann said, the virgin wool fabric had withstood 28,000 rubs, the equivalent of several years of hard usage, whereas the 50-50 fabric failed after 16,000 rubs, and the fabrics of reclaimed wool broke through after only 5,000 rubs. In tensile strength tests the virgin wool withstood five times the pull that tore apart the fabric of reclaimed wool.

The new law will not prohibit the use of reprocessed wool or of reclaimed wool. It will, however, require that the fiber content be indicated on the label in terms of percentages so that the consumer can know what he or she is buying.

Fun In The Parks

The National Parks of this country were visited by 16,741,855 persons during the 1940 "travel year", which officially ended on September 30, reports the U. S. Department of the Interior. That number is more than a million larger than last year. The National Parks have been made accessible to the motoring public, and accommodations to stay a night, a day, or a week, have helped to boom the parks.

Women's Project Clubs

A Leaders Training meeting was held by the Women's Project clubs in Wayne Saturday at which all clubs were represented. Miss Douglas, home economist from the Agricultural Extension service was in charge of the lesson on "Home Resources".

Good Mineral Mixture

Animals are smart. If you give them the opportunity, they will balance their diet. Feeds such as sorghum silage or fodder are low in mineral. A mixture of two parts ground limestone, two parts bone meal and one part salt should be kept before the animals at all times.

This mixture is suitable for all kinds of livestock. They will not eat much but a little is essential.

Northeast Nebraska P-F-L Meeting

On Thursday, farmers and ranchers from all parts of northeast Nebraska will meet at Norfolk, the occasion being the Northeast Nebraska Pasture-Forage-Livestock meeting.

This program is statewide and has been underway for several years. When first started, it was called a "Pasture Contest". At present the program includes pasture, winter feeds and livestock.

An outstanding program has been provided. Nearly every Nebraska has heard of H. J. Gramlich, who for many years was chairman of the animal husbandry department at the College of Agriculture. He is now secretary of the Shorthorn Breeders association with offices in Chicago and will be on the Norfolk program. J. S. Campbell, marketing specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will speak on "Market Trends". A full day has been planned for the women. A baked foods contest is planned and Nebraska's own shortening must be used. Entry blanks are available at the county extension office.

Cold Weather Coming

Nearly everyone has let some job go until the first blizzards hit that should have been taken care of while the weather was warm. For instance, make sure that the water system is safe from freezing, that the pump will drain, that pipes are protected by the soil and are not shallow enough to freeze.

"Banking up" around buildings, hauling fuel and putting in the tank heater should also be completed.

Quarantine Inspectors Are Kept Busy By War

Interruption to shipping between Europe and the United States has not made it any easier to keep dangerous foreign insects and plant diseases out of this country, as might be expected. On the contrary, officials explain that it has brought new problems to the plant quarantine inspectors of the U. S. Department of Agriculture who guard ports against the entry of such undesirable aliens.

Many shipments of seeds, nursery stocks, bulbs, and other plants and plant products that formerly went to Europe now come to the United States. These shipments not only keep the inspectors up to their pre-war numbers, but they also carry insects not readily recognized by the inspectors, familiar though they are with the more common European pests. Furthermore, plants and plant materials still arriving from Europe are much more likely to be infested or infected than in former years. Under present conditions many European growers are unable to protect their crops effectively with insecticides or fungicides. Also, war has disrupted the efficient inspection forces of some of the countries, which formerly made sure that outgoing shipments did not contain diseased or infested plants or plant products.

Last week we sent out a county-wide letter. A return card is

Wolves' Air Attack Wins Over Wayne

Wayne Team Defeated In Norfolk Game

Coach Jim Morrison's Wayne Wildcats and Northern State Wolves battled on virtually even terms for the first three quarters of their clash at Norfolk Friday night and then crowded three touchdowns into the final period, which the Wolves won, 14 to 6.

The Wildcats collected ten first downs to five for the Dakotans and gained 93 yards rushing to 63 for the Wolves. In the air, however, the Wolves held the edge, making 102 yards that way while the Wildcats made only 87. It was through the aerial route also that the Wolves made their touchdowns, after taking advantage of the breaks.

Wayne High Beats Laurel Team, 14-0

Goal Line Is Still Uncrossed After Seven Games

The Wayne High school eleven annexed its seventh consecutive victory of the season with its goal line still uncrossed Friday when they defeated the Laurel High team at the college Athletic field, 14 to 0.

Wayne outplayed the visitors throughout the game, collecting a total of 11 first downs to 3 for the Bears.

50 Yard Run
Fullback Joe Kessler made a sensational 50 yard run to the Bears' five yard line and thus paved the way for the first touchdown. Kessler carried the ball across on the next play.

Wayne took to the air to annex its second counter. Kessler passed to Halfback Bob Stull who raced 20 yards to the pay dirt. The Wayne offensive was clicking but a large share of the credit goes to the line which held well throughout the contest.

Two Games Left
Only two games remain on the local team's schedule but both are conference contests against strong teams. Wayne journeys to Randolph Friday for a conference tilt and closes its season against the strong undefeated Bloomfield eleven here on Thanksgiving Day. Bloomfield downed O'Neill, 21-0, Friday, scoring once in the third period and twice in the fourth.

launched a 67-yard march to their lone touchdown of the game.

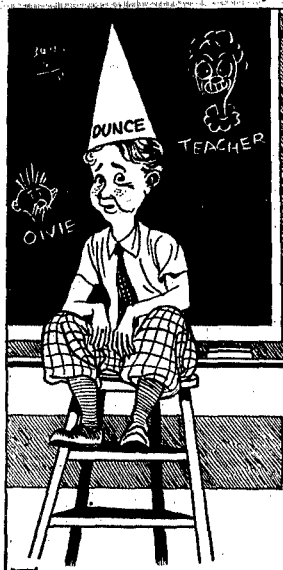

Purtzer returned the kickoff 16 yards to the Wayne 33. Pete Kozicki tipped of a 13-yard run around the Northern right wing. Bob Webb, Madison freshman end, dashed to the Wolves 36 after grabbing a thrilling pass from Purtzer. Virgil Smith caught another pass from Purtzer for a 18-yard gain. Failing to gain in two plays, Purtzer flipped another pass to Smith who dashed to the 8-yard stripe.

On the next play, Purtzer shot a pass to Clyde Lukes, playing in the backfield for the first time in his life, who caught the ball on the 3-yard line and dashed to a touchdown with about two minutes left to play. Purtzer's pass for the extra point was batted down, making the score 14 to 6.

Northern's backfield froze the ball for three downs and the game was over.

Outstanding performers for Wayne were Lindahl, Coryell, Braasch, Purtzer, Westbahl, and Nitz until he was injured and had to be helped off the field because of a leg injury. Northern's standouts were Schmidt, the two ends, Kraft and Daly, Walker and Houge.
