ANTI-BRITISH UNION

RUSSIA, GERMANY AND FRANCE AGAINST ENGLAND

Three Powers to Force the Evacuation of Egypt and Will Also Try to Put the Transvaal on an Independent Basis—Other News Items.

Scheming Against England.

The Associated Press correspondent in Berlin, Germany, has been informed that during the past week a definite understanding was reached by which the governments of Germany, France and Russia will soon reach the solution of the Egypt and Transvaal questions, and this will be done systematically in an anti-British sense. As soon as the Greco-Turkish trouble is settled the subject will be jointly taken up unless Great Britain in the meanwhile precipitates matters, in which case she will encounter the united hostility of the three most powerful states. The ultimate object of the agreement is to force the evacuation of Egypt and the unification of the French possessions in Africa, and to put the Transvaal upon a perfectly independent basis. France, in the settlement of the peace conditions with Germany, is understood, while with Russia and Germany, in spite of the strong current of public opinion to the contrary.

AN ARIZONA TALE OF BLOOD

Alhambra, the Pinto Assassin, Stabs by Member of His Own Tribe.

A dispatch from Kingman, Ariz., says: Alhambra, the notorious Pinto Indian, who has in the last three days murdered not less than ten white men, is dead. He met his fate at the hands of members of his own tribe, who were compelled by soldiers and Colorado cannon to shut the murderer to death, the penalty for which is known as the law being used at the instigation of every Pinto the settlers could muster.

The soldiers congregated in Kingman Tuesday and left that evening. They did not bring or kill Alhambra; they could kill every Pinto they could reach. The Indians followed him down the river, found where he made his last fatal fight, and trailed him set miles up the canon into the mountains, where they crept around and shot as he was going over the ridge.

The bagel of sheriffs of Mojave County, Arizona, offered a reward of $250 for Alhambra and those who murdered Davis and Morris last February.

Over $30 00 was taken out of the safe used by the murderer. The chief of police from White Hills, Cal., reports that Steve arrived there Friday afternoon and made threats that some whites supposed them would be quiet killing. A deputy sheriff attempted to disarm them, but got only one gun.

MAY CRITICISE JUDGES.

Editor of Cleveland Recorder Wins in the Higher Courts.

The freedom of the press and its limitations in Ohio were very clearly set forth by the circuit court in an opinion regarding Judge Lampson of the common pleas court of Cleveland, and acting at freedom Editor Tom of the Recorder. Some weeks ago Judge Lampson ordered the arrest of Louis P. Post, associate editor of the Recorder, for alleged contempt of court, Judge Lampson held that an article written by Post and published in the Recorder, commenting on judges generally and criticising Judge Lampson's action in a certain case, was contempt of court. Post was found in error Post or his attorneys on the merits of the case saying that he had prejudged the case before causing Post's arrest.

Judge Lampson fined Editor Post $500 and ordered him sent to jail for ten days. The case was appealed to the circuit court. Editor Post secured the appeal. Judge Lampson refused to hear evidence on behalf of the accused on recently published and pronounced the refusal error in the part of the court. "The fullest opportunity to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt," the court says, "ought to be accorded. His guilt should not be determined before such opportunity has been given him." Judge Hale also declared Judge Lampson had erred in refusing to permit the defendant to file an answer to the charge of contempt.

NOTORIOUS THIEF CAUGHT.

"Wally" O'Connor Is Taken in Custody by the New York Police.

"Wally" O'Connor, who is known as a notorious thief, is in custody in New York under suspicion that he is implicated in holding up Cashier Lyman Cobb of the Yonkers Savings Bank, when $2,000 was taken. The Yonkers robbery took place on April 16, and was so unusually to daylight that the cashier being accustomed to receive money only after dark. A second gathered up the money in sight. O'Connor is alleged to have been associated in some other operations with Allen, Sullivan and Russell, penitentiary and bank robbers, who broke out of Ludlow Street jail on July 4 last year.

Reformer Has Revolver.

Frederick L. Dreibelbis, who was hanged at Easton, Pa., Friday for the murders of Policeman Snyder and Detective Berger, in 1896, held a dress rehearsal Thursday morning and was photographed on the gallows upon which he was executed. It was his intention to spill enough of the perspiration to pay for sending his body to friends in Ohio, and to leave a pencil beside the remains of his victim to point to the murder. In which he suffered the death penalty Dreibelbis is supposed to have killed three others in Ohio. After being photographed Dreibelbis requested the speech which he had prepared for the gallows.

Settlers Drive Out the Sheep.

Some time ago sporting the settlers in that part of the country around the town of Keokuk Creek, about forty miles northeast of Fort Pierce, Wyo., established a claim line and sent out notice that no sheep could be run on the Keokuk Creek country. The Woodruff Brothers and Arnold Sheep Company have finished their fight and have moved their sheep to other ranges. The Stuarts have settled one of their herding camps and took the settler out to Chadron at once and drove the sheep back across the mountains, leaving the young Sandy behind. The man is out of over $6,000. Four more may be moved for sheep before the season is over.

PERISH OF HUNGER.

Deaths of Americans from Starvation in Cuba a Daily Occurrence.

The female committee on foreign relations consolidated last night Thursday, but decided at the consolidation, the whole matter going over until Monday. A letter was read from the Spanish consul in Jacksonville from Cuba was read to the committee. Letters from Senators Call and Gallinger, Senator Morgan continuing to participate, special notice is laid on the condition of Americans in the island. It is positively stated that thousands of them are starving and are entirely destitute. Deaths in Matanzas from starvation are daily reported. They are scattered in all parts of the island, and are shown no consideration whatever on account of American citizenship. Most of them have been driven into the cities from the country by the reconcentrado order of Weyler. Many people have died of starvation in the streets. Dr. Pat Jane has been appointed to investigate and advertise. He is expected to report before the board of trade. Deaths in the hospitals are numerous, with the mortality increasing daily. The wards are crowded with the dying. The sanitary conditions are especially unpleased with the story, and it is thought is generally expressed that the situation should be remedied at once. The report also includes the generally sad story of the death of the inhabitants of the island, to be from malignant diseases, such as malignant cutting yaws and dysentery. These appear daily to the Spanish soldiers.

The delay in the senate caused the enough relief as to the matter of the Cuban question. Senator Morgan will probably present his report on Wednesday. The members of the committee are pretty well agreed that the committee will urge the passage of the Morgan resolution recognizing belligerency in the struggle, terms favorable. The committee is not yet ready to agree to a report

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS.

A Week's Proceedings in the Halls of Congress—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—An Extensive Review of the Business.

The National Solons.

On Monday Senator Pettigrew, of South Dakota, in the light of the Senate was sworn in. The Indian appropriation bill was then taken up, and Senator Hoar offered an amendment appropriating $1,000 to enable the Secretary of the Interior to send three Sioux Indian women and eleven children to Washington to appear before Congress in behalf of their people. The amendment was opposed by Mr. Allen (Democrat) of Nebraska, and adopted by a vote of 31 to 25. Senator Hoar, in the course of the debate, said that the Sioux Indians had been robbed of their lands in violation of the treaty of 1868, and that the object of the proposed visit was to enable the women to appeal to Congress for relief. Mr. Allen declared that the Sioux were not starving, and that the appropriation was a scheme to get the women here for exhibition purposes. The House non-concurred in the Senate amendment, and a conference was asked. Senator Hoar moved that the Senate insist upon its amendment, and the motion was agreed to. Mr. Pettigrew made his maiden speech in the Senate, speaking in favor of the free coinage of silver. He declared that the Republican party was pledged to the free coinage of silver, and that the Democratic party was pledged to the same thing. He said that the Democratic party had come into power in the House of Representatives pledged to the free coinage of silver, and that the Democratic party had come into power in the Senate pledged to the free coinage of silver. He said

WAYNE REPUBLICAN.

E. COLGROSSMAN, - Editor and Publisher.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wayne, Nebraska, as Second-class matter, March 10, 1891.

Stanton county is having an investigation of the affairs of her county officials.

Dogs got into the corral of Hiram Smoke near Battle Creek on the 7th and killed 83 sheep and injured 45 others badly.

The city of York has refused to grant licenses to saloons or permits to drug stores to sell liquors and Tim Sedgwick of the Union mourns and refuses to be comforted.

There is talk now in populist high places of calling the legislature in extra session in case it proves true that the Supreme Court of the United States decides the Maximum Rate law illegal.

Any fool can sit idle down a hill but it takes both wind and nerve to pull up a grade. We had four years of the Silvergun business and now that we've started up the grade, you've gosse pull if you get there.

Judge Evans has granted a new trial to Dr Gooldsmouse lately convicted of murdering his wife at Peoria last winter by poisoning. He was found guilty by a Dixon county jury and sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Jerry Simpson, he of "mucilage" notoriety has run up against Speaker Reed a couple of times lately and found out it not only requires a resile tongue, but a well equipped mind to deal with the Czar. In other words Jerry was knocked out in both routines.

If the populist bosses want to make examples of Eugene Moore and ex-Treasurer Hartley, as to how they would punish thieves, why don't they proceed with the show, the band has ceased playing and the audience are anxious to see the man-eating lion get in the work.

After all the big snows and rains of the last winter and spring that part of South Dakota around Plankinton is crying out for rain and claiming that without it wheat will not come out of the ground and unless rain falls soon it is feared the crop will be a dead failure.

It was a good thing for the state of Nebraska to have a clean log out of state offices and an overhauling of the banks, why is it not the proper thing for a county where corrupt practices have long prevailed, to go through the same process? The personality of the interested parties should cut no figure where public interests are jeopardized.

The Washington correspondent of the State Journal says: "There have been persistent rumors afloat for the last twenty four hours that the supreme court has voted on the Nebraska maximum rate case and that by decision sustains the rates since court upon the contentions of the railroads. It is stated that the vote was a nearly unanimous one. The court will not divulge its action until the 20th inst., when it adjourns for the term. It is impossible to verify the rumor, but there are strong reasons for believing that it is correct." If the above proves to be true then the famous act fixing charges for transportation of freight on Nebraska railroads is in the soup.

There is considerable sentiment throughout the country in favor of the creation of a tariff commission whose business it shall be to formulate schedules and fix rates as the exigencies of the case may demand. The only object of course in so reposes this great and all important matter from the realm of politics would be place the whole matter in the hands of men who will deal with it on a business like manner. As it is today men do not allow their business senses to guide them in the consideration of the subject at all, but are wholly controlled by the political advantage that can be reaped by either supporting or opposing it as a whole, or particular portions of any schedule offered.

The press dispatches indicate that Russia, Germany and France are taking pretty strong action with Greece to prevent the settlement of the Turco-Greece trouble, and that not on an evacuation of Egypt but will also look after the Transvaal difficulty. It may be that the three great continental powers can agree more England and her interests and pay first what the terms shall be, but there are a good many people in the world that will hesitate to believe that she can be ignored. If the subsequent English interests are made to suffer to any extent there is likely to be trouble that the precipitants will be very unsignificant in comparison. England will have her say in the final wind up or else there will be war that is war.

It looks as though a crisis was very near at hand in western feeling in consequence between this country and Cuba. There can be no doubt as to the certainty of our government extending aid to American citizens in Cuba who are suffering for lack of the necessaries of life by the inhuman policy of the Spanish Governor General in corraling the reconcentrados from the hills into the towns and cities. The Administration at Washington is powerless to act in the premises, and the people will not stand for a policy of the kind if pursued by Uncle Sam's own citizens. Would to God we had a man with the courage of Andrew Jackson at the head of the government.

A man that will lose many a dollar claim in consequence of the pet legislation of the extreme part of the contingent of populists that came into the legislature from the western part of the state, and who voted for the reform ticket and the platform in good faith, is one. If he is an unfortunate as to be forced into the position of a mere farmer a goat and is placed upon a strictly and every good populist expects to walk down and worship him. Then the countenance that took the "cross of gold speech" and the "four hour day" and that wore the Lockhead pants to be that just runs from 24 to 30 per cent interest per annum and on the short of time who are expected to daily salaam the agreement of all prophets as recommended. This man, after all, and I find there are a few of fellows that occur occasionally, don't mostly loosing heavily.

The Constitution of the State of Nebraska, Art XIV, Sec 2 reads as follows: "Any person who is in default to collection or custodian of public money or property, shall not be eligible to any office of trust or profit under the constitution or laws of this state." Under this provision it would appear as though Wayne county had today an official holding office that is not entitled to such a place. Our interest of the opposition have been very severe and justly so, in their condemnation of republican officials that have to keep and hold fast to their old and be long to them. If the same can be true in matters of interest and condemn the action of men belonging to the same party as a principle that the taxpayers of the county don't exactly understand. The office in the same where one instead of belonging to the republican, democrat or some other party and the offender should be dealt with according to law regardless of party affiliations or personal likes or dislikes.

The people who are sick up of the greenback and the republican duplicity in congress because they are sure of having their legs cut off to "reform the tariff" would do well to keep sight of the fact that every time the last Monday in November rolls around they have given us no trouble whatever. In nine months, which embraces the period between republican conventions we are considered as buried in the presidential election, and we could not have interested ourselves in politics if we would. Now is the time to "reform" northern congressmen by giving them a kick. Now is the time to get rid of the "reformed" northern congressmen by giving them a kick. Now is the time to get rid of the "reformed" northern congressmen by giving them a kick. Now is the time to get rid of the "reformed" northern congressmen by giving them a kick.

"The next man of the ends," Turkey has come under the contingent form of the war with Greece, in a keener examination of the really strong hand he holds in the affairs of Europe than ever before. He has tried the arbitrament on the field of battle and knows they are well, also equipped and that the present of peace with any of the powers of Europe he could give a most favorable account of himself. He also knows that as long as he is the dictator of all the great nations and they realize that the money are not sufficient to cover the indemnities each one is anxious to keep the property intact and try it possible to make it pay out. He understands that should any one of the great powers jump onto him that it will be to the interest of each of the others to help whip out and drive off the aggressor as by so doing their claims would stand a better show of being paid in full. The Czar is a diplomat that is abundantly able to take care of himself and for three many centuries he has done it to perfection. It would not be surprising if he not only dictated the terms to Greece, but if even the other powers would be compelled to accept the terms offered.

As the progressive conditions improve. There is a better feeling. A feeling of security, of each individual's business and also of the country as a whole. In fact each other, as we daily taking the place of the old time and almost forgotten of the good times. People assume to be more liberal and more progressive in entering upon the enterprises and a few months, in the city of the contented for an abatement of the "prominent prosperity" to become more and more lavish in the spring showers and the summer time. It never has existed it could never with so much reason. Even last year would the prospects with as bright as they are now. Every one of the producers of the country is getting a good price for his products and is getting it in cash. Everybody is getting out and doing business. Everybody is getting out and doing business. Everybody is getting out and doing business

THE BOLD, BAD BOOR.

He Was Annoying the Girl and Should Have Been Thrashed.

"Bah!" said Mr. Jones. "Bah! A boor! If there's anything I do detest it is a boor. Of all the contemptible creatures! Bah!"

When Mr. Jones said "Bah!" he meant "Bah!" and there was no getting around that.

So he settled himself in his seat in the railway car, folded his legs into the shape of a cruller, and said "Bah!" again.

"Of all the ostentatious," said Jones. "Why can't that young dude stop staring at that girl? He's been looking at her steadily ever since she came into the car. Indeed getting out she is not. Light, wavy hair, a rather nose, features—symmetrical, and neat—eyes! Gosh! Why wouldn't he be a man! Such a figure too! Diversified when she's entering doors, which is worth big pin cash any day for every woman. She might, with equal truth, have included knowing such a dress as that, too. Nothing showy, but all in good taste. I wonder if she's engaged at that store? If I thought she was, I'd smash him, right in front of Jove! That's the sort of girl for a man to fight for! Look at that mouth now. Look at nose! What a pert, saucy, self-reliant! You speak to me! I—I would advise you if I stopped staring at your sister? Sir, sir—sir!"

And for the next mile of the journey Jones looked out of the window.—New York Journal.

The Mother.

"Please, mother, won't you read the letter?"

The voice was that of a little boy. By whose side stood a sturdier child carrying a basket quite as often. The only addressed took the note and read, "Above 23 cents, please give this sorrowing little one—fatherless and motherless—a penny."

The reader regarded the beggars with tearful eyes as she replied in a voice choked with emotion, "Who wrote this note for you, children?"

With a touch of importance the elder answered wearily, "Me mother, ma'am."—Tit-Bits.

Not as Dangerous.

"Uncle," said the proud little street father, "it weighs only pounds, but it's an ass, wealthy a son as ever you saw, an it was born in the very city itself. Hasn't was buried over again, an Archie goin' to give him a name that'll be appropriate."

"You'll call him Ulysses S. Grant Johnson, I suppose," said the friend who was among the group.

"No, sah; nothin' so common as that for my boy. Ah'm goin' to name him Mausoleum, sah!"—Buffalo Express.

The Spur.

"Mamma," asked Sammy Skaggs, "what is meant by 'the spur of the moment?'"

"The spur of the moment is office to the heel of time," replied Mrs. Skaggs angrily, "and it ought to run nights to furnishing. Now, go to the grocery after four bread. I feel as if I should faint and have upon Twenty-six, and I haven't had a wink."

Real Weird Politics.

Great Scott—Say, old man, I'm afraid you'll have to excuse me from voting for you. Mrs. Scott is afraid to trust me with the ballot, and I'm afraid she'll persuade me to vote for the other fellow.

Dingbat—Bosh, pa, he has tried, and he can't make it. The whisky makes him sick.—New York Weekly.

From His Point of View.

"You call him a great orator? Nonsense!"

"But he wins people."

"Negrowing he does. I say he is a disgrace to the profession."

"May I ask your business, sir?"

"You may. I'm an undertaker, sir."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Misconstrued.

"Is he an artist?" inquired the young woman.

"Well," replied Miss Cayenne thoughtfully, "I can't say he calls himself in the city directory."—Washington Star.

Stole His Thunder.

"Somebody," said the author, "has been stealing my thunder."

Naturally he resented it, as the whole success of the performance depended upon the loud effects.—New York Journal.

An Improved Version.

"Any new features to Uncle Tom's Cabin this year?"

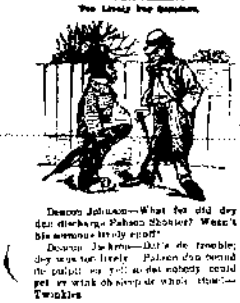
"Yes; Eliza gets away from the bloodhounds in an airship."—Chicago Record.

A Chilly Reception.

Hate—The play was a frost, eh?

Fate—Well, I should say. Why the leading man had to wear his walking coat and ulster in the last act.—Up to Date.

The Lively Dog Question.



Deacon Johnson—What fer did dey dat discharge Pahson Skinner? Wasn't his sermons lively enuff?

Deacon Jenkins—Dat's de trouble; dey was too lively. Pahson don't mind de pulpit on fire, so dat nobody could get in, but he sho' do mind his sermons catchin' fire.—Tit-Bits.

HIS PLEA TO THE COURT.

The Lawyer Made Him Tired and the Case Could Hardly Be Settled.

"Your honor," said a prisoner at Arkansas citizen who had been dragged up before the bar of justice to answer to the charge of maltreating certain hogs, "I never was in the habit of keepin' much that 'ere critter—in fact, I didn't suppose it belong to last night when I turned him out in the barnyard purpose, as it were, to—to—to—to—to—for purposes of a—"

"Stop, your two years' penitentiary," interrupted the court, "and proceed to the case. Have you any witnesses?"

"Yes, your honor, I have a witness. I'll call Mr. Jones to the stand."

Jones declined to be sworn, but proceeded to tell what he knew of the case.

"Now, Jones," said the lawyer, "you say you saw the defendant turn the hogs out?"

"I did, sir."

"And you say you saw him do it?"

"I did, sir."

"Are you sure you saw him do it?"

"I am sure I saw him do it."

"Are you positive you saw him do it?"

"I am positive I saw him do it."

"Are you certain you saw him do it?"

"I am certain I saw him do it."

"Are you willing to swear you saw him do it?"

"I am willing to swear I saw him do it."

"Are you willing to swear positively that you saw him do it?"

"I am willing to swear positively that I saw him do it."

"Are you willing to swear positively that you saw him do it, and that you are certain that you saw him do it?"

"I am willing to swear positively that I saw him do it, and that I am certain that I saw him do it."

"Are you willing to swear positively that you saw him do it, and that you are certain that you saw him do it, and that you are willing to swear positively that you saw him do it?"

CHAPTER XXII.

The next morning she sent a note to Lawrence. He was expected to the hour appointed, and was shown up-stairs directly he got my letter. He looked somewhat pale, rather away from the elaborately-arranged pattern of the room. There was no change in him after a few moments' delay, and he found himself at last in the presence of her he had long considered of all others the one to be most exactly what he chose.

He told her the story from his point of view, of his concealment in Chiswick, and replied to Mrs. Seymour's expressed desire when Claire was in more kind of mistress. She was quarters now and had been engaged to him three years, even if by but she was young enough to forget him with ease. He did not tell her other cared for her any more than he cared for him. Of course her fancies had changed in the interval, but he was quite sure a whole life had not. Above, he could not expect to affirm. She was young!

"We have come back, and Anne—" She grew redder than ever. What was one of her own before me. "For all of us I hope he is fortunate enough to bring about the ideal of love."

He rapped back upon it in a tone of mild surprise, she said, quickly.

Then he was glad to see the reconciliation was under which he had made love no questions. He said the same. Drawing up his chair a little nearer to her, he went on, in the tender manner to allude the past as the of the present, as which he was certain, would not follow at those words. He Mallerstang was the first to speak of Blundell Lawrence. He said, with a very grave concession, how splendidly Mrs. Burton had relapsed from her desire for her—how he (she) was the only one who had been perfectly sincere in the Anne Clarence, and although he had made an attempt to keep this secret to the very last from Mrs. Seymour, he was not sure that she had not divined it. He was glad to think that Lawrence had left the country, for he could not have borne to meet him. He had quite forgiven him for all that he was supposed to for recants, and he had no right to to the best. He had done his utmost actively, but Sybil Burton resisted. And then he found, he said, that Anne was more to him than his life, more than his honor and his pledge to world and he felt—he knew he had—no choice. Blundell Lawrence was a good fellow, a book and the rest, and he (Anne) was fascinated by him, but he had not the least idea that he was in love with her. He had not thought of it. He had not looked upon Anne in that light. He had not even thought of her as a woman. She was a child, a pretty child, and he had taken a pleasure in her society, but he had not thought of her as a woman. He had not thought of her as a woman. He had not thought of her as a woman. He Abyssinian Murderers.

To Abyssinia it is the law that the murderer be turned over to the relatives of the slain person; they, if they please, to put him to death in the same manner in which the murdered person was executed. A murderer, therefore, turned from that country with a case where a boy, playing with his companions, fell from a tree upon the head of a child, killing him instantly. The circumstances were brought to the notice of the district chief, whose council, after deliberation, decided that the dead boy's relatives might take the offender, stand him under the tree and climb, if they could, just nine seconds by falling to him from the same tree.

Good Looks.

There are many wrinkles in the face of a busy monkey than there are on that of an old person. And speaking of wrinkles, more of them can be wrought out in a fair young face by thoroughly clean soap than by any of its aged person. Lasting, pure, soft, sweet and thoroughly neglected will give the forearm sheep. It has only wrinkles, but takes the throat some and gives the eye a dull and tedious look. St. Jacobs Oil is a passage and pure cure for pustules and should be used as widely as soap and water. It annihilates on the surface of the skin leaves the skin healthy and is entirely harmless. Sold by druggists. Directions in 19 languages accompany each bottle. Beware of imitations.

"Back and Side."

Many people are afflicted with the various ailments of "back and side," and the pain is often a hill to conquer. A friend of mine, Mr. Daniel Hall, of Oxford, Ohio, had a severe attack of this kind, and was in a terrible condition. He tried many remedies, but found no relief. Finally he was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and was surprised to find that after taking a few bottles he was entirely cured. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine for the blood, kidneys, liver and nerves.

Death for Twenty Years.

A correspondent writes: "I have been on and off for nine years with pain, death when I had none. Many dear friends I met and made here, have one go of nature to my purpose. Now thank God no angel hand can stay me in the form of my own wife, who at do me good from murderous remedy, 'Anti-Jag.' Its my mother, my sister, my wife, my children. I have spent and completed from a month was put on to a sister and requested of me."

"Anti-Jag" cannot be had at your druggist, it will be mailed on price, wrapper, with full directions, to any one sending to Jag Co., 1 Chambers St., corner Broadway, New York city. They will gladly see it. Sold particulars free.

Do Snakes Really Bite?

Much accident of snakes and their bad disfigures that they never bite. Here's the emphatic testimony that they will bite. Read: "Mr. Jacob Shuey, Ohio, suffered from a severe attack of rheumatism, and could get no relief. The swelling from the knee was continued only by a crutch and cane. Shuey, and refused to be brought to get the walking force. The snake swelled the finger in the upper jaw into the foot almost at the knee. Shuey got Sporting at all. The use of very similar to that of a man striking a rattle, took three bottles of Cactus, in a short time was cured."

A SCIENTIST SAVED

President Kennedy, of Mansfield College, Interviews a Persons Illness Through the Aid of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

The Mansfield College, situated at Mansfield, Ohio, was founded some ago by the interest of the United Brethren Church. Among the State was nearly a wilderness, and colleges were scarce. The college is well known throughout the country. Many students having gone into and parts of the world.

A reporter recently called at this institution and was shown into the room of the president, Prof. A. B. Hershey. When introduced by the reporter Prof. Hershey took an old chair beside. Today he was suffering from the loss of speech. In response to an inquiry the President said:

"Oh, well, I am much better than for some time. I am now in perfect health, but only a few days ago, brought about in rather a peculiar way."

"Do you object to," said the reporter.

"Well, I don't mind telling," replied the President, "I studied too hard when at school, endeavoring to educate myself for the ministry. After graduating from the common course I came here and graduated from the classical course. I entered the ministry and was for many years in charge of a United Brethren church in a small place in West Virginia. Mansfield College, being under the control of my church, I was elected professor of Greek and Modern Languages. My health was failing me. My trouble was indigestion, and this in its many troubles brought on nervousness.

My physician prescribed for me for a short time, and advised me to change of climate. I did so for a year, and was much improved. Soon after I came here my old trouble returned, and I was thoroughly discouraged. Many of my friends urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I finally procured a box. Before I had taken them I felt much better, and after using the contents of the box I was entirely well. I have not had a return of the trouble since, and I am satisfied that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a splendid medicine for nervous troubles. I am glad to recommend them to my friends."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all druggists, or will be sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents, by one box for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100 or 1,000), by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Temperament and Ink.

In the study of the forms of the human hand, the ink is extremely important. For this the sanguine man usually uses the forms of Lavender pastel in a fresh the Dolly pattern. Dolly's ink is a favorite with the sanguine temperament. The color is the sanguine temperament. The color is the sanguine temperament. The color is the sanguine temperament.

Those Who Have Ailing Wives Will do Well to Accept It.

Do not struggle and worry, and finally rush into the courts and get to get a separation from your ailing wife, but just step a moment and think. Your wife, who was once lighthearted and amiable and all that you love in her, has changed. Now she is peevish, irritable, fretful, discontented and miserable—in a word, she has contracted disorder of some kind.

Now a word for your own good, and also a letter to that friend of mine, Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., and tell her in your own words what you want to do. Write your wife that she is not alone, and that she will hasten to tell you what to do. Write your wife that she is not alone, and that she will hasten to tell you what to do.

If you do not wish to write about your wife, bring her a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Do this secretly if you feel, you will soon see the beginning of the improvement that will set matters and keep it up until she is restored to you, the most lovely woman you have ever seen.

Following are extracts from testimonials of a few of the letters. Mrs. Mitchell has two of Carthy, Indiana.

"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it to be of great benefit to me. The doctors said I had womb trouble. I had the headache all the time, also a terrible backache, was nervous cross and irritable. I looked so pale that people would ask me what was the matter. I suffered in this way for about four years, until one day about to despair my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I commenced its use, and much to every one's surprise it cured me. It has completely changed my disposition for the better also. Several of my neighbors, seeing what the Pinkham medicine has done for me, are taking it and are much pleased with the result."
